President Lambastes Publishers

Says They Are Trying to Keep Subsidies on Mail Rates, Opposed to Others Getting Aid

Makes It Political

Injects Votes Issue Into Talk to Postmasters at Capital

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—President Truman said today a lot of people "are trying to make political capital" by attacking the loyalty of government workers. He called that "a contemptible way to try to get votes."

The President also lashed out at "some of the biggest magazine publishers in the country" for "fighting tooth and toenail to keep their juicy subsidies" on mail rates.

Mr. Truman spoke in Constitution Hall before the National Association of Postmasters. It was his second address within two hours. Earlier he had adddressed a ceremony in which the Constitution and Declaration of Independence were sealed in new protective cases.

He told his second audience that the members of the postal service are as fine a group of public servants as can be found anywhere.

"There are some people, I suppose, who would call this just a meeting of bureaucrats," he said. "Well, if you are bureaucrats, I am a bureaucrat too, and proud of it.

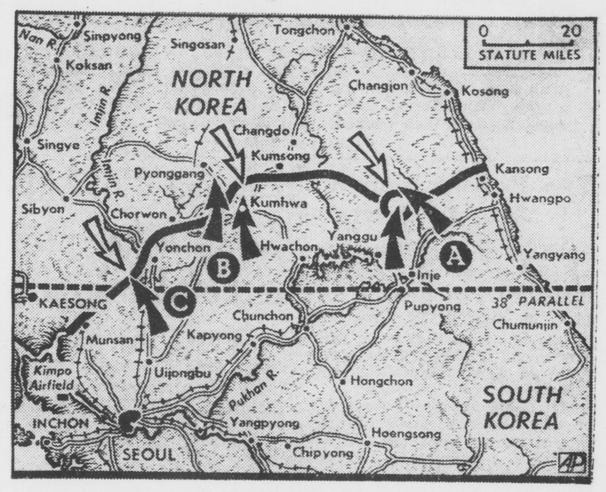
North Koreans Attack 'Heartbreak Ridge'

Where Allies Press Offensive



Arrows locate areas of action in Korea, Sept. 16, as the Allies (black arrows) took two key heights in the "punchbowl" area (circle) north of Yanggu and Inje (a) on the eastern front. In the center (b), patrol action was reported near Pyonggang and three Communist attacks north of Kumhwa were turned back. Southwest of Yonchon (c) an Allied patrol ran into Red fire and artillery held off the enemy in a five-hour battle. Solid line is approximate battlefront. (AP Map).

Practical Results Obscured at End of Day, Report

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 17 (AP)—A battalion of North Korean Reds today launched a series of wild counterattacks against Allied troops on "Heartbreak Ridge" and touched off an all-day battle on the east-central front.

When the heavy rifle, mortar and machinegun fire dwindled off in late afternoon, an Allied officer told AP Correspondent George McArthur it was too early to tell if either side had gained ground.

"It was a mixed up affair," he said. "We moved around some and they moved around some."

There was no report of any ground action elsewhere along the 150-mile front.

Control is Seized

On the western front, Allied Troops supported by heavy artillery fire seized control of a hill northwest of Chorwon. The Reds withdrew after a two-hour battle, then fired artillery onto the hill.

Patrols clashed at several points along this front. Allied air observers reported a decrease in enemy activity, particularly vehicle movements.

In groups of 20 to 30 the Reds plunged down on the Allies from a higher position to the north. They fired machine guns and burp guns as they came. Mortar and artillery barrages preceded them.

"Heartbreak Ridge" was named after another savage battle there two weeks ago. It is just north of "bloody ridge."

Rejects All Except One Red Charge

Commander Will Send Officers to Outpost to Discuss Terms of Resumption

Message Delivered

Diamond Takes Minute to Hand Reply to Reds

Tokyo, Sept. 17 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today offered to renew suspended Korean ceasefire talks. But his message to Red commanders gave no indication that Kaesong was a satisfactory site.

The Reds broke off talks in that Korean city Aug. 23 in a continuing series of charges that United Nations ground and air forces were violating Kaesong's neutrality zone.

In the flurry of charges and denials, Ridgway on Sept. 5 proposed the talks be moved to a new site. The Reds replied Saturday that the suggestion was "completely unsatisfactory and unacceptable."

In his reply to that message the Allied Supreme Commander said:

"If you are now disposed to terminate the suspension of armistice negotiations which you declared on 23 August, I am still prepared to order my liaison officers to a meeting at the bridge at Panmunjom (Red outpost six miles southwest of Kaesong) to discuss conditions that will be mutually satisfactory for the resumption of armistice talks."

Similar to September 5

Ridgway's wording was remarkably similar to that in his Sept. 5 message. He said then:

"When you decide to terminate the suspension of armistice negotiations which you declared on 23 August, Allied and Communist officers should meet at Panmunjom to consider the new conference site."

Observers here speculated the "mutually satisfactory" conditions mentioned by Ridgway Monday might include a new site for the talks.

In his stinging message Sept. 5 Ridgway called the Red charges "baseless and intentionally false" and added: "I cannot provide you with gaurantees against your own failure to exercise control in an area for which you are responsible.

The supreme commander's message Monday was addressed to North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Gen. Peng Teh-huai, commander of Chinese forces in Korea.

Reds Infer Desire

Ridgway said the Reds "have inferred a desire that negotiations be resumed. . . . I again emphasize my concern in the achievement of a just and honorable military armistice."

Ridgway rejected all but one Red claim that the United Nations have violated Kaesong's neutrality. The UN command has admitted that an allied warplane strafed Kaesong by mistake Sept. 10. No deaths or damage was reported.

Lt. Col. Norman D. Edwards of Diamond, W. Va., was ordered to deliver the message to the Reds at Punmunjom. He flew there by helicopter from the advance UN base near Munsan. Another helicopter took an allied correspondent and an allied photographer to the site.

It took Edwards just one minute to deliver the message. His only words were, "I have a message from General Ridgway to Kim Il Sung and Peng Teh-huai."

Translates Words

Lt. Richard Underwood of Brooklyn translated the words into Korean.

A Red liaison officer took the plain manila envelope, smiled nervously and turned on his heel to climb into his Russian-made jeep.

The note was delivered at noon.

The message also was broadcast to the Reds.

An allied information bulletin released Monday said:

"One thing is becoming clear—as long as the Reds refuse to consider the proposal to change the conference site, or to at least initiate a meeting of liaison officers to work out a more satisfactory agreement, it is obvious that they are not ready for a resumption of peace talks in Korea."

Port Ewen Resident Declares Bingo Played; Probe Made

Mrs. Amasa Smith Told Officials of Games for Legion and Church

An allegation that "bingo" was being played in the town hall at Port Ewen was registered by Mrs. Amasa Smith of Port Ewen last Thursday afternoon and as a result of that charge Sergeants L. Baker and John Metzer of the Highland B.C.I. unit have conducted an investigation.

It was charged that the Town of Esopus Legion Post was holding bingo parties in the town hall on Saturday nights and similar parties were being conducted on Monday evenings for the benefit of the Church of the Presentation.

State police at Highland stated they had been informed by the complainant that the parties had been started some time ago.

Investigation Made

Following the charge that bingo parties were held in the town of Esopus hall, an investigation was made. State police stated that none was held last Saturday night and following a meeting of the Legion executive committee, it was stated that the parties would be discontinued.

"No bingo party was held over the week-end," said Sergeant William Martin today at the Highland state police sub-station.

The allegation that bingo was being played in Port Ewen was also made to District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn by Mrs. Smith. Later she notified District Attorney Bruhn that she had no intent to make a "complaint" and if his office had considered her statement to him as a complaint, she desired it to be withdrawn.

Baker's Statement

Sergeant Baker, who investigated the original charge that bingo was being played, said the complaint had been made by Mrs. Smith and as a result of that complaint made last Thursday afternoon, representatives of both organizations which allegedly had held the games during the past several weeks had stated there would be no games held.

In the Port Ewen controversy charges have been made, according to state police, that while attempts are being made to close the bingo games there bingo is being permitted in Kingston. State Police pointed out that they have no jurisdiction in the city of Kingston but must investigate any complaint which comes to them of any law violation in the country districts.

Wiltwyck Club Waits for Maps

Thruway Route to Take Part of Property, Is Information

Officials of the Wiltwyck Golf Club, Inc., on Hurley avenue, are awaiting the arrival of maps which will show the exact location of the New York State Thruway where it will cut through the golf club's property.

Arthur A. Davis, club president, said today that the maps showing the property to be taken by the state for the new superhighway have not arrived in the city, but that the club has been informed that some of its property will be taken.

The maps must be filed with the Ulster County Clerk to establish the state's rights under eminent domain both to the property to be taken over for the highway and to easements needed in the construction.

Five Minor Thefts Reported to Police

Woman Says Jewelry Might Have Been Lost by Her

Police were notified over the week-end of five minor thefts following the report Saturday by Mrs. Austin Boyd, Jr., of 104 Fair street that jewelery valued at about $3,600 is missing.

Mrs. Boyd said today that the jewelry might have been lost rather than stolen.

The police report Saturday said that in the jewel case missing from a blue silk zipper bag were a diamond crescent pin valued at $1,500, a wrist watch and band valued at $800, a diamond, sapphire and ruby ring $1,000, a $200 necklace, and two pairs of earrings valued at $50 each.

The report said Mrs. Boyd last saw the jewelry Monday night when she had placed it in the pocketbook. Since that time she had been shopping and she thinks it possible she might have lost the jewelry at that time. The report said that Mrs. Boyd and her family had just moved into the Fair street house and the jewelry had been put in what she considered a safe place there. She first missed the jewelry in preparing to go out for dinner Friday night, the report said.

Wrist Watches Taken

Police were notified at 7:20 p. m. Sunday by Mrs. Wilbur Delanoy, 20 Ann street that two wrist watches had been stolen, one valued at $72 and the other at $59. She said a window at the rear of the house had been broken and entrance possibly made from there.

Henry Van Wezenaal reported at 2:30 p. m. Sunday that a drill had been stolen from his new building on East Chester street and that tar had been thrown against the rear outside walls. The drill, he said, is valued at $49.40.

CAA Board Scours Scene of Tragedy At Colorado Field

Farming Town Residents Plan Funerals for 20 Killed by Airplane

Flagler, Colo., Sept. 17 (AP) — While the 793 residents of this dry farming town planned funerals, authorities of the Civil Aeronautics Board scoured the scene of a plane crash Saturday which took 20 lives and injured 17.

The crash was described as "the worst tragedy involving a small aircraft in this country's aviation history," by R. P. Parshall, chief of Region Five of the CAB in Kansas City.

Parshall is directing the probe into the crash. He is assisted by R. V. Reynolds and A. C. Goddard, CAA officers from Denver. Parshall said it will take five days before it will be known if there is to be a public inquiry. The decision, he said, will be made in Washington.

An inquest has been called today by Kit Carson County Coroner William Hendricks to establish responsibility and causes of death.

The 20, including the pilot, were killed or fatally injured as a low wing monoplane stunt craft crashed and scattered over 150 yards packed with rows of parked cars and spectators at an air show highlighting the Flagler Fall Festival.

Snags on Stubble

The plane cartwheeled into the crowd and practically disintegrated, dealing out death, suffering and anguish.

"I could see parts of the plane fly over the cars," said Father Edward Dinan, a Catholic priest. He walked among the dead, delivering extreme unction to those of his faith.

There were 13 children among the dead. Two of them were a daughter and son of Charles Keller, who also lost his wife in the tragedy.

"God, it was awful," Keller said as if to himself. "It was awful."

Mass Funerals

Many of the dead will have mass funerals. Services are scheduled for tomorrow and Wednesday, some at Stratton and Arriba nearby, but most of them here.

Boy, 10, Is Dead Of Bullet Wound

Wiltwyck School Pupil Shot in Head by One of 3 Companions

Henry Meisell, 10, of the Wiltwyck School for Boys at Esopus, died early today at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie — the tragic aftermath of a boyish escapade across the river from the school.

Young Meisell had been in critical condition at the hospital since about noon on Sunday, when he was shot in the head by a companion while they and two other Wiltwyck School boys were exploring a home in the town of Hyde Park, the Dutchess county sheriff's office reported.

Meisell died at 6:45 a. m. today, the sheriff's office was informed by hospital authorities.

The three surviving boys—all under 16 years of age—are being held by Dutchess county authorities for Children's Court action.

Autopsy Scheduled

An autopsy was scheduled to be performed this morning. What charges will be placed against the boys will depend largely upon the outcome of the autopsy.

Sheriff C. Fred Close of Dutchess county said the shooting occurred about noon Sunday in the home of Walter Patterson, overlooking the Hudson river in the town of Hyde Park. The boys had broken into the home while its owner was away, the sheriff's office said.

Version of Shooting

According to one version of the shooting, one of the boys, aged 12, stole a revolver from the home and fired a shot into a closet. Hearing a noise from the closet, he found Meisell had been shot in the head.

The other boys went to a dock along the river, where they notified Joseph Tully, who in turn called police and an ambulance.

Harriman Refuses To Deliver Iran's Anglo Ultimatum

U. S. Envoy Is Opposed on Grounds Matters Would Become Worse

Tehran, Iran, Sept. 17 (AP)—U. S. trouble shooter W. Averell Harriman has refused to serve as messenger for the Iranian ultimatum to Britain to reopen the stalled oil talks, an informed source said today.

Harriman's reply regarding the two-week ultimatum was delivered to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh by a U. S. embassy officer this morning.

(American officials in Washington said yesterday that Harriman had decided to sit on the ultimatum, at least until he gets a response to his letter from Mossadegh).

American and Iranian officials declined to comment on the lengthy note from President Truman's representative, but an authoritative source said Harriman had turned down Mossadegh's request to deliver the ultimatum to the British.

Threatens Expulsion

Under the terms of ultimatum, Mossadegh has threatened to expel some 300 British technicians remaining in Abadan—site of the world's largest oil refinery—unless Britain reopens the talks within two weeks.

It was reliably reported that Harriman wrote Mossadegh he was opposed to the ultimatum, because it would result in a worsening of British-Iranian relations and put the possibility of settlement further off.

There was a strong possibility that Mossadegh would not even send the ultimatum to the British government, but simply inform the British technicians in Abadan that their residence permits were being revoked and they must leave within two weeks.

Little Alternative

British sources here said the technicians, in that case, would have little alternative except to leave.

Mossadegh's government has been under fire from a small but powerful group in Parliament since the oil talks with Britain broke down.

14 Persons Are Killed in Fire In Mexican Cabaret; 90 Hurt

Mexico City, Sept 17 (AP)—Fourteen persons were burned fatally or trampled to death when flames, touched off by fireworks, flashed through the crowded "Can Can" cabaret yesterday. The victims included one U. S. business man.

Ten of the dead were women—mostly hostesses. The American was identified as Read E. Goodridge, 51, of Baltimore, Md., dealer in rare books.

Ninety persons were injured in the disaster, 26 of them seriously. About a thousand persons jammed the place when the fire broke out.

The noisy, dark cabaret was crowded with Mexicans celebrating their independence day when a firecracker set fire to the strips of red, white and green paper—Mexico's national colors. Earlier reports had said the blaze was set by an exploding skyrocket.

Police gave this version of the disaster:

During the night a group of men at one table had been amusing themselves tossing lighted firecrackers at the feet of the dancers. Sparks from one firecracker touched off the paper decorations and flames shot up the left wall of the long, narrow room.

There was a rush for the door, which was less than three feet wide—in front of it was a solid screen so passers-by could not look into the cabaret. The crowd piled up against this. A screaming mass of men and women fought and clawed to get out.

Some fell and were trampled. Others perished in the flames. One man, his clothing ablaze, fought his way out and ran three blocks before he dropped dead.

A few patrons ran for the windows, but police said these were covered by heavy iron bars and heavy wire neeting.

Pilot Lands Crippled Plane And Saves Lives of 53 Persons

Chicago, Sept. 17 (AP)—A Florida-bound plane crash-landed yesterday and the pilot's expert handling of the crippled ship was credited with saving the lives of 53 persons aboard.

Pilot-Capt. B. J. Mountain of Miami, Fla., was lauded for making an "excellent" belly-landing of the converted twin-engine Army C-46 in a field near Midway Airport. Mountain brought the ship down shortly after getting airborne when the left engine failed.

The plane was badly damaged and both engines were torn away in the wheels-up landing. Most of the 50 injured suffered only minor cuts and bruises. Thirty-seven passengers plus the crew of four were treated at two hospitals and others were examined by doctors at the scene. Fourteen persons were hospitalized but their injuries were described as not serious. A four months old child was among the injured.

Officials said Mountain maneuvered his troubled craft to a clear area—a prairie about three miles west of the airport on the city's western extreme—and made "an excellent belly-landing."

Will Sievert, acting chief of the Civil Aeronautics Board Region C, said that about three minutes after the takeoff Mountain radioed that his port engine had failed and that he was coming back for an emergency landing.

The plane—lumbering along on a single engine at about 200 to 300 feet altitude—apparently was too low for Mountain to make a 180-degree turn back to the field. He decided then, Sievert said, to risk a landing in the clear area.

The plane, owned by the Peninsular Air Transport Company of Miami, was leased to the Safeway Skycoach Airline Company of Chicago. It was starting a chartered trip to Miami with stops at Cincinnati and St. Petersburg, Fla.

Wrist Watches Taken

Police were notified at 7:20 p. m. Sunday by Mrs. Wilbur Delanoy, 20 Ann street that two wrist watches had been stolen, one valued at $72 and the other at $59. She said a window at the rear of the house had been broken and entrance possibly made from there.

Henry Van Wezenaal reported at 2:30 p. m. Sunday that a drill had been stolen from his new building on East Chester street and that tar had been thrown against the rear outside walls. The drill, he said, is valued at $49.40.

CAA Board Scours Scene of Tragedy At Colorado Field

Farming Town Residents Plan Funerals for 20 Killed by Airplane

Flagler, Colo., Sept. 17 (AP) — While the 793 residents of this dry farming town planned funerals, authorities of the Civil Aeronautics Board scoured the scene of a plane crash Saturday which took 20 lives and injured 17.

The crash was described as "the worst tragedy involving a small aircraft in this country's aviation history," by R. P. Parshall, chief of Region Five of the CAB in Kansas City.

Parshall is directing the probe into the crash. He is assisted by R. V. Reynolds and A. C. Goddard, CAA officers from Denver. Parshall said it will take five days before it will be known if there is to be a public inquiry. The decision, he said, will be made in Washington.

An inquest has been called today by Kit Carson County Coroner William Hendricks to establish responsibility and causes of death.

The 20, including the pilot, were killed or fatally injured as a low wing monoplane stunt craft crashed and scattered over 150 yards packed with rows of parked cars and spectators at an air show highlighting the Flagler Fall Festival.

Snags on Stubble

The plane cartwheeled into the crowd and practically disintegrated, dealing out death, suffering and anguish.

"I could see parts of the plane fly over the cars," said Father Edward Dinan, a Catholic priest. He walked among the dead, delivering extreme unction to those of his faith.

There were 13 children among the dead. Two of them were a daughter and son of Charles Keller, who also lost his wife in the tragedy.

"God, it was awful," Keller said as if to himself. "It was awful."

Mass Funerals

Many of the dead will have mass funerals. Services are scheduled for tomorrow and Wednesday, some at Stratton and Arriba nearby, but most of them here.

14 Persons Are Killed in Fire In Mexican Cabaret; 90 Hurt

Mexico City, Sept 17 (AP)—Fourteen persons were burned fatally or trampled to death when flames, touched off by fireworks, flashed through the crowded "Can Can" cabaret yesterday. The victims included one U. S. business man.

Ten of the dead were women—mostly hostesses. The American was identified as Read E. Goodridge, 51, of Baltimore, Md., dealer in rare books.

Ninety persons were injured in the disaster, 26 of them seriously. About a thousand persons jammed the place when the fire broke out.

The noisy, dark cabaret was crowded with Mexicans celebrating their independence day when a firecracker set fire to the strips of red, white and green paper—Mexico's national colors. Earlier reports had said the blaze was set by an exploding skyrocket.

Police gave this version of the disaster:

During the night a group of men at one table had been amusing themselves tossing lighted firecrackers at the feet of the dancers. Sparks from one firecracker touched off the paper decorations and flames shot up the left wall of the long, narrow room.

There was a rush for the door, which was less than three feet wide—in front of it was a solid screen so passers-by could not look into the cabaret. The crowd piled up against this. A screaming mass of men and women fought and clawed to get out.

Some fell and were trampled. Others perished in the flames. One man, his clothing ablaze, fought his way out and ran three blocks before he dropped dead.

A few patrons ran for the windows, but police said these were covered by heavy iron bars and heavy wire meeting.

Wiltwyck School Pupil Shot in Head by One of 3 Companions

Henry Meisell, 10, of the Wiltwyck School for Boys at Esopus, died early today at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie — the tragic aftermath of a boyish escapade across the river from the school.

Young Meisell had been in critical condition at the hospital since about noon on Sunday, when he was shot in the head by a companion while they and two other Wiltwyck School boys were exploring a home in the town of Hyde Park, the Dutchess county sheriff's office reported.

Meisell died at 6:45 a. m. today, the sheriff's office was informed by hospital authorities.

The three surviving boys—all under 16 years of age—are being held by Dutchess county authorities for Children's Court action.

Autopsy Scheduled

An autopsy was scheduled to be performed this morning. What charges will be placed against the boys will depend largely upon the outcome of the autopsy.

Sheriff C. Fred Close of Dutchess county said the shooting occurred about noon Sunday in the home of Walter Patterson, overlooking the Hudson river in the town of Hyde Park. The boys had broken into the home while its owner was away, the sheriff's office said.

Version of Shooting

According to one version of the shooting, one of the boys, aged 12, stole a revolver from the home and fired a shot into a closet. Hearing a noise from the closet, he found Meisell had been shot in the head.

The other boys went to a dock along the river, where they notified Joseph Tully, who in turn called police and an ambulance.

U. S. Envoy Is Opposed on Grounds Matters Would Become Worse

Tehran, Iran, Sept. 17 (AP)—U. S. trouble shooter W. Averell Harriman has refused to serve as messenger for the Iranian ultimatum to Britain to reopen the stalled oil talks, an informed source said today.

Harriman's reply regarding the two-week ultimatum was delivered to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh by a U. S. embassy officer this morning.

(American officials in Washington said yesterday that Harriman had decided to sit on the ultimatum, at least until he gets a response to his letter from Mossadegh).

American and Iranian officials declined to comment on the lengthy note from President Truman's representative, but an authoritative source said Harriman had turned down Mossadegh's request to deliver the ultimatum to the British.

Threatens Expulsion

Under the terms of ultimatum, Mossadegh has threatened to expel some 300 British technicians remaining in Abadan—site of the world's largest oil refinery—unless Britain reopens the talks within two weeks.

It was reliably reported that Harriman wrote Mossadegh he was opposed to the ultimatum, because it would result in a worsening of British-Iranian relations and put the possibility of settlement further off.

There was a strong possibility that Mossadegh would not even send the ultimatum to the British government, but simply inform the British technicians in Abadan that their residence permits were being revoked and they must leave within two weeks.

Little Alternative

British sources here said the technicians, in that case, would have little alternative except to leave.

Mossadegh's government has been under fire from a small but powerful group in Parliament since the oil talks with Britain broke down.

Pilot Lands Crippled Plane And Saves Lives of 53 Persons

Chicago, Sept. 17 (AP)—A Florida-bound plane crash-landed yesterday and the pilot's expert handling of the crippled ship was credited with saving the lives of 53 persons aboard.

Pilot-Capt. B. J. Mountain of Miami, Fla., was lauded for making an "excellent" belly-landing of the converted twin-engine Army C-46 in a field near Midway Airport. Mountain brought the ship down shortly after getting airborne when the left engine failed.

The plane was badly damaged and both engines were torn away in the wheels-up landing. Most of the 50 injured suffered only minor cuts and bruises. Thirty-seven passengers plus the crew of four were treated at two hospitals and others were examined by doctors at the scene. Fourteen persons were hospitalized but their injuries were described as not serious. A four months old child was among the injured.

Officials said Mountain maneuvered his troubled craft to a clear area—a prairie about three miles west of the airport on the city's western extreme—and made "an excellent belly-landing."

Will Sievert, acting chief of the Civil Aeronautics Board Region C, said that about three minutes after the takeoff Mountain radioed that his port engine had failed and that he was coming back for an emergency landing.

The plane—lumbering along on a single engine at about 200 to 300 feet altitude—apparently was too low for Mountain to make a 180-degree turn back to the field. He decided then, Sievert said, to risk a landing in the clear area.

The plane, owned by the Peninsular Air Transport Company of Miami, was leased to the Safeway Skycoach Airline Company of Chicago. It was starting a chartered trip to Miami with stops at Cincinnati and St. Petersburg, Fla.

President Lambastes Publishers

Makes It Political

Injects Votes Issue Into Talk to Postmasters at Capital

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—President Truman said today a lot of people "are trying to make political capital" by attacking the loyalty of government workers. He called that "a contemptible way to try to get votes."

The President also lashed out at "some of the biggest magazine publishers in the country" for "fighting tooth and toenail to keep their juicy subsidies" on mail rates.

Mr. Truman spoke in Constitution Hall before the National Association of Postmasters. It was his second address within two hours. Earlier he had adddressed a ceremony in which the Constitution and Declaration of Independence were sealed in new protective cases.

He told his second audience that the members of the postal service are as fine a group of public servants as can be found anywhere.

"There are some people, I suppose, who would call this just a meeting of bureaucrats," he said. "Well, if you are bureaucrats, I am a bureaucrat too, and proud of it.

Calls It 'Open Season'

"It seems to be open season, these days, on government employes. There are a lot of people who are trying to make political capital by slurring the loyalty and efficiency of government employees, and trying to bring the public service into disrepute.

Mr. Truman did not name these critics by party or name. Senator

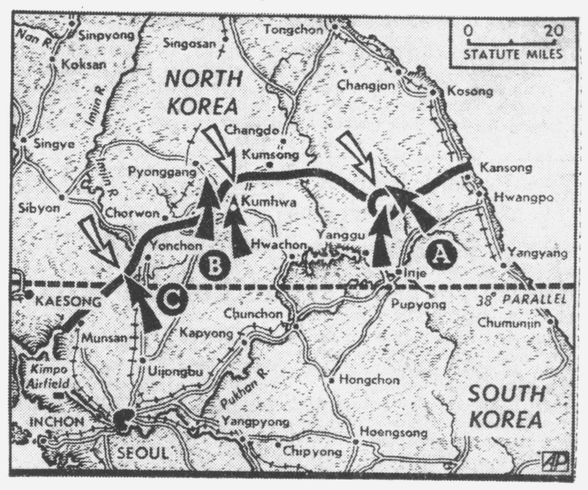
Where Allies Press Offensive



Arrows locate areas of action in Korea, Sept. 16, as the Allies (black arrows) took two key heights in the "punchbowl" area (circle) north of Yanggu and Inje (a) on the eastern front. In the center (b), patrol action was reported near Pyonggang and three Communist attacks north of Kumhwa were turned back. Southwest of Yonchon (c) an Allied patrol ran into Red fire and artillery held off the enemy in a five-hour battle. Solid line is approximate battlefront. (AP Map).

Practical Results Obscured at End of Day, Report

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 17 (AP)—A battalion of North Korean Reds today launched a series of wild counterattacks against Allied troops on "Heartbreak Ridge" and touched off an all-day battle on the east-central front.

When the heavy rifle, mortar and machinegun fire dwindled off in late afternoon, an Allied officer told AP Correspondent George McArthur it was too early to tell if either side had gained ground.

"It was a mixed up affair," he said. "We moved around some and they moved around some."

There was no report of any ground action elsewhere along the 150-mile front.

Control is Seized

On the western front, Allied Troops supported by heavy artillery fire seized control of a hill northwest of Chorwon. The Reds withdrew after a two-hour battle, then fired artillery onto the hill.

Patrols clashed at several points along this front. Allied air observers reported a decrease in enemy activity, particularly vehicle movements.

In groups of 20 to 30 the Reds plunged down on the Allies from a higher position to the north. They fired machine guns and burp guns as they came. Mortar and artillery barrages preceded them.

"Heartbreak Ridge" was named after another savage battle there two weeks ago. It is just north of "bloody ridge."

Diamond Takes Minute to Hand Reply to Reds

Tokyo, Sept. 17 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today offered to renew suspended Korean cease-fire talks. But his message to Red commanders gave no indication that Kaesong was a satisfactory site.

The Reds broke off talks in that Korean city Aug. 23 in a continuing series of charges that United Nations ground and air forces were violating Kaesong's neutrality zone.

In the flurry of charges and denials, Ridgway on Sept. 5 proposed the talks be moved to a new site. The Reds replied Saturday that the suggestion was "completely unsatisfactory and unacceptable."

In his reply to that message the Allied Supreme Commander said:

"If you are now disposed to terminate the suspension of armistice negotiations which you declared on 23 August, I am still prepared to order my liaison officers to a meeting at the bridge at Panmunjom (Red outpost six miles southwest of Kaesong) to discuss conditions that will be mutually satisfactory for the resumption of armistice talks."

Similar to September 5

Ridgway's wording was remarkably similar to that in his Sept. 5 message. He said then:

"When you decide to terminate the suspension of armistice negotiations which you declared on 23 August, Allied and Communist officers should meet at Panmunjom to consider the new conference site."

In his stinging message Sept. 5 Ridgway called the Red charges "baseless and intentionally false" and added: "I cannot provide you with gaurantees against your own failure to exercise control in an area for which you are responsible.

The supreme commander's message Monday was addressed to North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Gen. Peng Teh-huai, commander of Chinese forces in Korea.

Reds Infer Desire

Ridgway said the Reds "have inferred a desire that negotiations be resumed. . . . I again emphasize my concern in the achievement of a just and honorable military armistice."

Ridgway rejected all but one Red claim that the United Nations have violated Kaesong's neutrality. The UN command has admitted that an allied warplane strafed Kaesong by mistake Sept. 10. No deaths or damage was reported.

Lt. Col. Norman D. Edwards of Diamond, W. Va., was ordered to deliver the message to the Reds at Punmunjom. He flew there by helicopter from the advance UN base near Munsan. Another helicopter took an allied correspondent and an allied photographer to the site.

It took Edwards just one minute to deliver the message. His only words were, "I have a message from General Ridgway to Kim Il Sung and Peng Teh-huai."

Translates Words

Lt. Richard Underwood of Brooklyn translated the words into Korean.

A Red liaison officer took the plain manila envelope, smiled nervously and turned on his heel to climb into his Russian-made jeep.

The note was delivered at noon.

The message also was broadcast to the Reds.

An allied information bulletin released Monday said:

"One thing is becoming clear—as long as the Reds refuse to consider the proposal to change the conference site, or to at least initiate a meeting of liaison officers to work out a more satisfactory agreement, it is obvious that they are not ready for a resumption of peace talks in Korea."

Port Ewen Resident Declares Bingo Played; Probe Made

Thruway Route to Take Part of Property, Is Information

Officials of the Wiltwyck Golf Club, Inc., on Hurley avenue, are awaiting the arrival of maps which will show the exact location of the New York State Thruway where it will cut through the golf club's property.

Arthur A. Davis, club president, said today that the maps showing the property to be taken by the state for the new superhighway have not arrived in the city, but that the club has been informed that some of its property will be taken.

The maps must be filed with the Ulster County Clerk to establish the state's rights under eminent domain both to the property to be taken over for the highway and to easements needed in the construction.

Mrs. Amasa Smith Told Officials of Games for Legion and Church

An allegation that "bingo" was being played in the town hall at Port Ewen was registered by Mrs. Amasa Smith of Port Ewen last Thursday afternoon and as a result of that charge Sergeants L. Baker and John Metzer of the Highland B.C.I. unit have conducted an investigation.

It was charged that the Town of Esopus Legion Post was holding bingo parties in the town hall on Saturday nights and similar parties were being conducted on Monday evenings for the benefit of the Church of the Presentation.

State police at Highland stated they had been informed by the complainant that the parties had been started some time ago.

Investigation Made

Following the charge that bingo parties were held in the town of Esopus hall, an investigation was made. State police stated that none was held last Saturday night and following a meeting of the Legion executive committee, it was stated that the parties would be discontinued.

"No bingo party was held over the week-end," said Sergeant William Martin today at the Highland state police sub-station.

The allegation that bingo was being played in Port Ewen was also made to District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn by Mrs. Smith. Later she notified District Attorney Bruhn that she had no intent to make a "complaint" and if his office had considered her statement to him as a complaint, she desired it to be withdrawn.

Baker's Statement

Sergeant Baker, who investigated the original charge that bingo was being played, said the complaint had been made by Mrs. Smith and as a result of that complaint made last Thursday afternoon, representatives of both organizations which allegedly had held the games during the past several weeks had stated there would be no games held.

In the Port Ewen controversy charges have been made, according to state police, that while attempts are being made to close the bingo games there bingo is being permitted in Kingston. State Police pointed out that they have no jurisdiction in the city of Kingston but must investigate any complaint which comes to them of any law violation in the country districts.

Five Minor Thefts Reported to Police

Woman Says Jewelry Might Have Been Lost by Her

Police were notified over the week-end of five minor thefts following the report Saturday by Mrs. Austin Boyd, Jr., of 104 Fair street that jewelery valued at about $3,600 is missing.

Mrs. Boyd said today that the jewelry might have been lost rather than stolen.

The police report Saturday said that in the jewel case missing from a blue silk zipper bag were a diamond crescent pin valued at $1,500, a wrist watch and band valued at $800, a diamond, sapphire and ruby ring $1,000, a $200 necklace, and two pairs of earrings valued at $50 each.

The report said Mrs. Boyd last saw the jewelry Monday night when she had placed it in the pocketbook. Since that time she had been shopping and she thinks it possible she might have lost the jewelry at that time. The report said that Mrs. Boyd and her family had just moved into the Fair street house and the jewelry had been put in what she considered a safe place there. She first missed the jewelry in preparing to go out for dinner Friday night, the report said.

14 Persons Are Killed in Fire In Mexican Cabaret; 90 Hurt

Mexico City, Sept 17 (AP)—Fourteen persons were burned fatally or trampled to death when flames, touched off by fireworks, flashed through the crowded "Can Can" cabaret yesterday. The victims included one U. S. business man.

Ten of the dead were women—mostly hostesses. The American was identified as Read E. Goodridge, 51, of Baltimore, Md., dealer in rare books.

Ninety persons were injured in the disaster, 26 of them seriously. About a thousand persons jammed the place when the fire broke out.

The noisy, dark cabaret was crowded with Mexicans celebrating their independence day when a firecracker set fire to the strips of red, white and green paper—Mexico's national colors. Earlier reports had said the blaze was set by an exploding skyrocket.

Police gave this version of the disaster:

During the night a group of men at one table had been amusing themselves tossing lighted firecrackers at the feet of the dancers. Sparks from one firecracker touched off the paper decorations and flames shot up the left wall of the long, narrow room.

There was a rush for the door, which was less than three feet wide—in front of it was a solid screen so passers-by could not look into the cabaret. The crowd piled up against this. A screaming mass of men and women fought and clawed to get out.

Some fell and were trampled. Others perished in the flames. One man, his clothing ablaze, fought his way out and ran three blocks before he dropped dead.

A few patrons ran for the windows, but police said these were covered by heavy iron bars and heavy wire neeting.

Atlanta Trucker Avoids Crowd as Vehicle Runs Away

State police said the truck started rolling down the hill toward the business section of Highland from the monument, where it had been parked by Benny Dudley, 31, of Orlando, Fla., after it had broken down.

Dudley jumped on the right running board, and John Willis, of Atlanta, jumped on the left as soon as they saw the truck was in motion. Willis steered the truck by reaching through the window.

Willis later told troopers he saw a crowd of persons emerging from the theater directly in front of the truck. He turned sharply to the left, up Vineyard avenue, and the truck came to a stop after striking the corner of a home under construction. There were no injuries, troopers said.

WANT POW'S FREED—Demonstrating against nations still holding prisoners of war, these German ex-POW's paraded in Bonn, with signs like this, showing a POW behind barbed wire, with the slogan "Don't Forget Us." The Western allies have long since repatriated all their prisoners, but many are still held behind the Iron Curtain.

Two Persons Injured As Auto Overturns

Nathan Shpeck, 67, and his wife, Fannie, 63, both of Bradley, Beach, N. J., were injured about 11 a. m. Sunday when the automobile in which they were riding overturned off 9W a quarter-mile south of Saugerties, state police reported.

Mrs. Shpeck, who appeared to be the more seriously injured, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Leyton's ambulance. Her condition there is reported as fair. Mr. Shpeck was treated for abrasions of the right leg, state police said. Hospital records show he was admitted to the hospital later in the day, and his condition today was reported as good.

Water Department Has 3 Emergencies

Three emergencies affecting water lines were reported to the water department over the weekend.

Most damaging was a break in a water line at the Kingston Laundry, 83 Broadway where a cellar was flooded and some records and supplies damaged Sunday night.

Richard M. Kalish, manager of the laundry, said today that the mishap caused a delay of about two hours in starting the regular work schedule.

Police were notified of the break at 11 p. m., yesterday and relayed the information to Lester Legg of the water department. The water was pumped out of the cellar. The break was reported to police headquarters by Officer William Hanley, who said the water was rising to a point near the ceiling of the cellar at the time.

Police were also notified at 6:10 p. m., Sunday that water was gushing from the ground under the Florence street tank tower. Officer Ernest Bartroff was assigned to investigate and notified Lester Legg. John Byrne, department superintendent, said today that the mishap was not due to a break or leak, but was caused by failure of the control system at the tank.

Another police report at 4 a. m. Sunday said a sedan owned by Leonard Korth, 79 Wrentham street, ran into and damaged a fire hydrant at Flatbush and Albany avenues. The car was towed from the scene and the hydrant was knocked nearly flat on the street, but caused no leak in the water line, the report said. Both the water and fire departments were notified.

Ancient Autos Clatter Toward New York Finish

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—With a hiss of steam and a popping of pistons, two ancient automobiles today clattered into the final stretch of their Chicago-to-New York race.

The vehicles, with two aged drivers at the wheels, left here at 9:20 a. m. (EST), to travel via Taconic State Parkway, Sawmill River Parkway and Henry Hudson Parkway to New York city.

Two hours later and rattling along Taconic State Parkway, the vintage vehicles wheezed their way into Westchester county, about 30 miles from Poughkeepsie.

Slowly but surely nearing their goal, the oldsters were on the brink of settling a half-century old argument—which was faster, the steam automobile or the internal combustion engine?

The steam-powered car reached Poughkeepsie with a 42-minute lead but it lagged behind during the opening hours of the final stretch.

The gas-driven vehicle, chugging along at a spanking 22 miles an hour, raced through Kitchawan in Westchester at 11:49 a. m. (EST). Its rival was several miles to the rear.

Former RFC Aide Says He Accepted Lithofold Gifts

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—A recently fired RFC official testified today he accepted a number of gifts from an official of American Lithofold Corp. after helping the company get RFC loans.

The witness, Frank Prince, a nephew of Rep. Boykin (D.-Ala.), made the statement in a Senate investigation of charges that Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle used political influence to get loans for American Lithofold, a St. Louis printing firm.

Prince said the then vice-president of American Lithofold, R. J. Blauner, presented him with a turkey, "one small ham," a box of oranges, a box of perfumes and a camera. Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.), a member of the investigating committee, said the camera was worth $103.

Second Acknowledgment

Oliver R. Kraft, assistant manager of the agency's St. Louis office, testified last Friday that his 1949 vacation expenses were paid by the head of the printing firm. RFC Administrator W. Stuart Symington immediately fired Kraft for "improper conduct."

American Lithofold received RFC loans totaling $564,000 in 1949.

An earlier witness today, George B. Luce, said RFC directors bypassed the agency's review committee in granting the first of these loans, amounting to $80,000.

Luce is chairman of the review committee, which normally passes on loan applications.

Alvanley Johnston Dies in Cleveland

Cleveland, Sept. 17 (AP)—Alvanley Johnston, 76, who was grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for a quarter century before his retirement last year, died early today.

He suffered a heart attack at his home in suburban Shaker Heights last night, and died in his sleep this morning.

At the time of his retirement he said his proudest possession was a 50-year membership pin in the 81,000-member brotherhood. His successor was James P. Shields

Johnston, a stocky, heavy set man with iron gray hair, was known as "Al" to thousands of railroaders. His railroad career started at the age of 17 when he became a call boy and wiper in Grand Forks, N. D.

He came to public notice in May, 1946, when his organization and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainsmen, led by the late Alexander F. Whitney, clashed with President Truman over a walkout of their unions.

The strike ended in two days, as the President called upon Congress to draft the strikers into the army.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—The position of the treasury Sept. 13: Net budget receipts $190,296,634.98. Budget expenditures $183,597,631.68. Cash balance $3,930,604,616.30. Customs receipts for month $17,807,378.58. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $7,300,807,443.81. Budget expenditures fiscal year $11,998,201,333.36. Budget deficit $4,697,393,889.55. Total debt $256,778,954,795.38. Increase over previous day $213,932,606.17. Gold assets $21,852,474,168.47.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—The stock market turned quiet and mixed today after moving ahead actively in early trading.

Radio-television shares gathered in the bulk of buying interest while the market was advancing, and they continued with a better than average showing when the rest of the market quieted down into a mixed pattern.

Radio Corp. was the star performer and it was joined by International Telephone and Eastman Kodak. Radio was last week's most active issue, and it made an especially good showing in Friday's higher market.

International Telephone has extensive radio-TV interests, and Eastman has a large current and potential market in black & white and color film for TV shows.

There were some plus signs in merchandising issues, aircrafts, chemicals and miscellaneous manufacturing stocks, but elsewhere there was a downside edge.

Packing house stocks held steady in the face of their disappointment over meat price increase allowed by the Office of Price Stabilization.

The market closed ahead Friday with the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at a 1951 high of $100.40, the best in around 21 years.

Stocks losing ground today included Santa Fe, Standard Oil (NJ), United Air Lines, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Dome Mines, American Cyanamid, Westinghouse Electric, Boeing, and Schenley Industries.

Higher were Gulf Oil, Air Reduction, Columbian Carbon, Lerners, U. S. Leather, International Hydro-Electric, U. S. Steel, Studebaker, Lockheed, Philco, and Zenith Radio.

Curb prices were generally higher including Arkansas Natural Gas "A," Brazilian Traction, Consolidated Mining & Smelting, Eastern Gas, Ford Motor of France, Giant Yellowknife Gold, Monogram Pictures, Shattuck Denn Mining, and Stinnes.

Bonds were quietly steady. U. S. Governments in the over the counter market also held steady.

Dice Operator Is Fined $100 After Pleading Guilty

The alleged operator of a dice game raided by troopers in the town of Saugerties Sunday night was fined $100 on a "common gambling" charge, and a local man accused of possessing lottery tickets was fined $25, state police reported.

Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly of the B.C.I., and Trooper Edward Devine arrested John Cartino, 43, East Kingston, who they charged was the operator of a crap game they raided about 6 p. m. Sunday in the town of Saugerties.

Arraigned on a "common gambler" charge before Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers, Cartino pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100.

Sgt. Reilly said he and Trooper Devine confiscated a crap table, dice, other gambling equipment and $89 in cash as a result of the raid.

Earlier on Sunday, Trooper Devine arrested Arthur John Abbot, 68, of 13 West Strand, on a charge that he had lottery tickets in his possession when picked up in the town of Hurley. Abbot was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Roger Loughran and was fined $25.

Released on Bail

Raymond Green, 54, of West Park, was arrested Saturday night and released on $100 bail for hearing September 22 when he appeared before Justice John O. Beaver of Esopus on a charge of driving while intoxicated. State police said Green was arrested on a complaint by Thaddeus Schatzel, 18, of 69 Wilbur avenue, who said Green's car collided almost head-on with his on Route 9W at West Park. Minor injuries were reported by Miss Rhoda Osterhoudt, 17, of 39 Esopus avenue, who was a passenger in the Schatzel car; and by Green, according to the state police.

No. 21 Is First Train Over Span

Passenger Train No. 21, running 42 minutes late, made history on the West Shore railroad today.

Westbound from Weehawken it went over the railroad bridge of the Broadway grade separation project at 1:02 p. m., before what was reported as a "considerable crowd" gathered at the crossing. The train was due here at 12:20 o'clock.

Jack Zabriski of North Bergen, N. J., was the engineer and Edward Leonard of Union City, N. J., was the conductor.

Freight Train WV 7 followed a short time after the passenger train went through the city. Only the westbound tracks on the bridge are now open for traffic. The others are scheduled to be in use soon.

Y Health Center To Open Tonight

The YMCA Business Men's Health Department will open tonight for the 1951-1952 season, as announced by Physical Director Lou Schafer.

The entire department has been newly painted and thoroughly reset and cleaned for tonight's invasion of business and professional men that twice weekly look to the YMCA physical department for their exercise.

Alfred Haugen, the "Y" masseur also will be in the health department tonight to give his personal touch to all members that desire his services.

The masseur will be at the YMCA every Monday and Thursday for the entire winter season. Also paddle ball and volley ball also will be among the recreation games in the gymnasium on these two nights. New members are being recruited and they as well as regular members can have prescribed exercises given by Schafer on request. There is plenty of individual exercise equipment in the health department, besides the workouts in the gymnasium to give all members regular exercises. All members using the steam bath also have the privilege of using such individual equipment as the ultra violet sun lamps, the stationary bicycle, the belt machine, pulley weights and stall bars. Any one desiring information concerning these health classes can phone the "Y" 1100 and ask for Schafer.

HOBBIES

Hobbies are always in season
Regardless of weather and time
From illegible stamps to electrified lamps
They justify efforts sublime.

The snap "shooter" boasts of an album
With pages excitedly planned
Collectors of books find contentment in nooks
That folks, like myself, understand.
Yet somehow, the thrill of repairing
That seems to be mother's delight
I quickly agree, is a puzzle to me
With dozens of hobbies in sight.

A chair that is paintless and battered . . .
A desk that is falling apart . . .
A table that begs for a coupe of legs
Milady just takes to her heart.
Ah me! In the life of a poet
What matters the hobby she seeks?
If she can enthuse whilst I'm courting the muse

Atlanta Trucker Avoids Crowd as Vehicle Runs Away

State police said the truck started rolling down the hill toward the business section of Highland from the monument, where it had been parked by Benny Dudley, 31, of Orlando, Fla., after it had broken down.

Dudley jumped on the right running board, and John Willis, of Atlanta, jumped on the left as soon as they saw the truck was in motion. Willis steered the truck by reaching through the window.

Willis later told troopers he saw a crowd of persons emerging from the theater directly in front of the truck. He turned sharply to the left, up Vineyard avenue, and the truck came to a stop after striking the corner of a home under construction. There were no injuries, troopers said.

WANT POW'S FREED—Demonstrating against nations still holding prisoners of war, these German ex-POW's paraded in Bonn, with signs like this, showing a POW behind barbed wire, with the slogan "Don't Forget Us." The Western allies have long since repatriated all their prisoners, but many are still held behind the Iron Curtain.

Two Persons Injured As Auto Overturns

Nathan Shpeck, 67, and his wife, Fannie, 63, both of Bradley, Beach, N. J., were injured about 11 a. m. Sunday when the automobile in which they were riding overturned off 9W a quarter-mile south of Saugerties, state police reported.

Mrs. Shpeck, who appeared to be the more seriously injured, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Leyton's ambulance. Her condition there is reported as fair. Mr. Shpeck was treated for abrasions of the right leg, state police said. Hospital records show he was admitted to the hospital later in the day, and his condition today was reported as good.

Water Department Has 3 Emergencies

Three emergencies affecting water lines were reported to the water department over the weekend.

Most damaging was a break in a water line at the Kingston Laundry, 83 Broadway where a cellar was flooded and some records and supplies damaged Sunday night.

Richard M. Kalish, manager of the laundry, said today that the mishap caused a delay of about two hours in starting the regular work schedule.

Police were notified of the break at 11 p. m., yesterday and relayed the information to Lester Legg of the water department. The water was pumped out of the cellar. The break was reported to police headquarters by Officer William Hanley, who said the water was rising to a point near the ceiling of the cellar at the time.

Police were also notified at 6:10 p. m., Sunday that water was gushing from the ground under the Florence street tank tower. Officer Ernest Bartroff was assigned to investigate and notified Lester Legg. John Byrne, department superintendent, said today that the mishap was not due to a break or leak, but was caused by failure of the control system at the tank.

Another police report at 4 a. m. Sunday said a sedan owned by Leonard Korth, 79 Wrentham street, ran into and damaged a fire hydrant at Flatbush and Albany avenues. The car was towed from the scene and the hydrant was knocked nearly flat on the street, but caused no leak in the water line, the report said. Both the water and fire departments were notified.

Ancient Autos Clatter Toward New York Finish

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—With a hiss of steam and a popping of pistons, two ancient automobiles today clattered into the final stretch of their Chicago-to-New York race.

The vehicles, with two aged drivers at the wheels, left here at 9:20 a. m. (EST), to travel via Taconic State Parkway, Sawmill River Parkway and Henry Hudson Parkway to New York city.

Two hours later and rattling along Taconic State Parkway, the vintage vehicles wheezed their way into Westchester county, about 30 miles from Poughkeepsie.

Slowly but surely nearing their goal, the oldsters were on the brink of settling a half-century old argument—which was faster, the steam automobile or the internal combustion engine?

The steam-powered car reached Poughkeepsie with a 42-minute lead but it lagged behind during the opening hours of the final stretch.

The gas-driven vehicle, chugging along at a spanking 22 miles an hour, raced through Kitchawan in Westchester at 11:49 a. m. (EST). Its rival was several miles to the rear.

Former RFC Aide Says He Accepted Lithofold Gifts

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—A recently fired RFC official testified today he accepted a number of gifts from an official of American Lithofold Corp. after helping the company get RFC loans.

The witness, Frank Prince, a nephew of Rep. Boykin (D.-Ala.), made the statement in a Senate investigation of charges that Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle used political influence to get loans for American Lithofold, a St. Louis printing firm.

Prince said the then vice-president of American Lithofold, R. J. Blauner, presented him with a turkey, "one small ham," a box of oranges, a box of perfumes and a camera. Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.), a member of the investigating committee, said the camera was worth $103.

Second Acknowledgment

Oliver R. Kraft, assistant manager of the agency's St. Louis office, testified last Friday that his 1949 vacation expenses were paid by the head of the printing firm. RFC Administrator W. Stuart Symington immediately fired Kraft for "improper conduct."

American Lithofold received RFC loans totaling $564,000 in 1949.

An earlier witness today, George B. Luce, said RFC directors bypassed the agency's review committee in granting the first of these loans, amounting to $80,000.

Luce is chairman of the review committee, which normally passes on loan applications.

Alvanley Johnston Dies in Cleveland

Cleveland, Sept. 17 (AP)—Alvanley Johnston, 76, who was grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for a quarter century before his retirement last year, died early today.

He suffered a heart attack at his home in suburban Shaker Heights last night, and died in his sleep this morning.

At the time of his retirement he said his proudest possession was a 50-year membership pin in the 81,000-member brotherhood. His successor was James P. Shields

Johnston, a stocky, heavy set man with iron gray hair, was known as "Al" to thousands of railroaders. His railroad career started at the age of 17 when he became a call boy and wiper in Grand Forks, N. D.

He came to public notice in May, 1946, when his organization and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainsmen, led by the late Alexander F. Whitney, clashed with President Truman over a walkout of their unions.

The strike ended in two days, as the President called upon Congress to draft the strikers into the army.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—The position of the treasury Sept. 13: Net budget receipts $190,296,634.98. Budget expenditures $183,597,631.68. Cash balance $3,930,604,616.30. Customs receipts for month $17,807,378.58. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $7,300,807,443.81. Budget expenditures fiscal year $11,998,201,333.36. Budget deficit $4,697,393,889.55. Total debt $256,778,954,795.38. Increase over previous day $213,932,606.17. Gold assets $21,852,474,168.47.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—The stock market turned quiet and mixed today after moving ahead actively in early trading.

Radio-television shares gathered in the bulk of buying interest while the market was advancing, and they continued with a better than average showing when the rest of the market quieted down into a mixed pattern.

Radio Corp. was the star performer and it was joined by International Telephone and Eastman Kodak. Radio was last week's most active issue, and it made an especially good showing in Friday's higher market.

International Telephone has extensive radio-TV interests, and Eastman has a large current and potential market in black & white and color film for TV shows.

There were some plus signs in merchandising issues, aircrafts, chemicals and miscellaneous manufacturing stocks, but elsewhere there was a downside edge.

Packing house stocks held steady in the face of their disappointment over meat price increase allowed by the Office of Price Stabilization.

The market closed ahead Friday with the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at a 1951 high of $100.40, the best in around 21 years.

Stocks losing ground today included Santa Fe, Standard Oil (NJ), United Air Lines, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Dome Mines, American Cyanamid, Westinghouse Electric, Boeing, and Schenley Industries.

Higher were Gulf Oil, Air Reduction, Columbian Carbon, Lerners, U. S. Leather, International Hydro-Electric, U. S. Steel, Studebaker, Lockheed, Philco, and Zenith Radio.

Curb prices were generally higher including Arkansas Natural Gas "A," Brazilian Traction, Consolidated Mining & Smelting, Eastern Gas, Ford Motor of France, Giant Yellowknife Gold, Monogram Pictures, Shattuck Denn Mining, and Stinnes.

Bonds were quietly steady. U. S. Governments in the over the counter market also held steady.

Dice Operator Is Fined $100 After Pleading Guilty

The alleged operator of a dice game raided by troopers in the town of Saugerties Sunday night was fined $100 on a "common gambling" charge, and a local man accused of possessing lottery tickets was fined $25, state police reported.

Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly of the B.C.I., and Trooper Edward Devine arrested John Cartino, 43, East Kingston, who they charged was the operator of a crap game they raided about 6 p. m. Sunday in the town of Saugerties.

Arraigned on a "common gambler" charge before Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers, Cartino pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100.

Sgt. Reilly said he and Trooper Devine confiscated a crap table, dice, other gambling equipment and $89 in cash as a result of the raid.

Earlier on Sunday, Trooper Devine arrested Arthur John Abbot, 68, of 13 West Strand, on a charge that he had lottery tickets in his possession when picked up in the town of Hurley. Abbot was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Roger Loughran and was fined $25.

Released on Bail

Raymond Green, 54, of West Park, was arrested Saturday night and released on $100 bail for hearing September 22 when he appeared before Justice John O. Beaver of Esopus on a charge of driving while intoxicated. State police said Green was arrested on a complaint by Thaddeus Schatzel, 18, of 69 Wilbur avenue, who said Green's car collided almost head-on with his on Route 9W at West Park. Minor injuries were reported by Miss Rhoda Osterhoudt, 17, of 39 Esopus avenue, who was a passenger in the Schatzel car; and by Green, according to the state police.

No. 21 Is First Train Over Span

Passenger Train No. 21, running 42 minutes late, made history on the West Shore railroad today.

Westbound from Weehawken it went over the railroad bridge of the Broadway grade separation project at 1:02 p. m., before what was reported as a "considerable crowd" gathered at the crossing. The train was due here at 12:20 o'clock.

Jack Zabriski of North Bergen, N. J., was the engineer and Edward Leonard of Union City, N. J., was the conductor.

Freight Train WV 7 followed a short time after the passenger train went through the city. Only the westbound tracks on the bridge are now open for traffic. The others are scheduled to be in use soon.

Y Health Center To Open Tonight

The YMCA Business Men's Health Department will open tonight for the 1951-1952 season, as announced by Physical Director Lou Schafer.

The entire department has been newly painted and thoroughly reset and cleaned for tonight's invasion of business and professional men that twice weekly look to the YMCA physical department for their exercise.

Alfred Haugen, the "Y" masseur also will be in the health department tonight to give his personal touch to all members that desire his services.

The masseur will be at the YMCA every Monday and Thursday for the entire winter season. Also paddle ball and volley ball also will be among the recreation games in the gymnasium on these two nights. New members are being recruited and they as well as regular members can have prescribed exercises given by Schafer on request. There is plenty of individual exercise equipment in the health department, besides the workouts in the gymnasium to give all members regular exercises. All members using the steam bath also have the privilege of using such individual equipment as the ultra violet sun lamps, the stationary bicycle, the belt machine, pulley weights and stall bars. Any one desiring information concerning these health classes can phone the "Y" 1100 and ask for Schafer.

HOBBIES

Hobbies are always in season
Regardless of weather and time
From illegible stamps to electrified lamps
They justify efforts sublime.

The snap "shooter" boasts of an album
With pages excitedly planned
Collectors of books find contentment in nooks
That folks, like myself, understand.
Yet somehow, the thrill of repairing
That seems to be mother's delight
I quickly agree, is a puzzle to me
With dozens of hobbies in sight.

A chair that is paintless and battered . . .
A desk that is falling apart . . .
A table that begs for a coupe of legs
Milady just takes to her heart.
Ah me! In the life of a poet
What matters the hobby she 'seeks?
If she can enthuse whilst I'm courting the muse
I'll live with her dusty antiques!

Ralph Andradez, 52, of New Paltz, died suddenly Sunday night as a result of a heart seizure. He had owned and operated a restaurant in New Paltz. He is survived by his wife, Rosalie Daloia Andradez; a son, Michael, both of New Paltz; two brothers, Anthony and Dominick, New Paltz; three sisters, Mrs. Samuel Penny, Brooklyn; Mrs. Joseph Arrias, New Paltz; and Mrs. Angelina Ruiz, New Paltz. Mr. Andradez was a member of the New Paltz Fire Department, the Odd Fellows of Highland and the New Paltz Rod and Gun Club. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. from the Pine Funeral Home, New Paltz. The Rev. Gerret J. Wullschleger will officiate. Burial will be in the New Paltz Rural Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight and Tuesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Conaro

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Conaro, who died September 10 at her home in Hurley following an illness of several months, was held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Bundy Funeral Home in Cobleskill with the Rev. Dr. Herbert Snell, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, this city, officiating. Burial was in Cobleskill Cemetery. Her five grandsons and Edward Nadeau, husband of her granddaughter, Helen, acted as bearers. Mrs. Conaro was born in Eminence, August 18, 1867, eldest daughter of Austin and Hannah Tompkins Ploss. She was married in 1889 to Charles Conaro who died in 1929. She moved from Summit, where she lived following her marriage, to Cobleskill in 1906, and built her home in Hurley in 1935. Mrs. Conaro was received into membership in the Methodist Church at Eminence in 1881, and later belonged to the Methodist churches in Summit and Cobleskill. She was an active member of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church until her illness. Surviving Mrs. Conaro are two daughters, Mrs. Joan Van Slyke Eldredge, Cobleskill and Mrs. R. Wilson Norwood, Hurley; a sister, Mrs. Quinn Shafer, Charlotteville; a brother, Garfield Ploss, Jefferson, seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

HOBBIES

Hobbies are always in season
Regardless of weather and time
From illegible stamps to electrified lamps
They justify efforts sublime.

The snap "shooter" boasts of an album
With pages excitedly planned
Collectors of books find contentment in nooks
That folks, like myself, understand.
Yet somehow, the thrill of repairing
That seems to be mother's delight
I quickly agree, is a puzzle to me
With dozens of hobbies in sight.

A chair that is paintless and battered . . .
A desk that is falling apart . . .
A table that begs for a coupe of legs
Milady just takes to her heart.
Ah me! In the life of a poet
What matters the hobby she seeks?
If she can enthuse whilst I'm courting the muse
I'll live with her dusty antiques!

WANT POW'S FREED—Demonstrating against nations still holding prisoners of war, these German ex-POW's paraded in Bonn, with signs like this, showing a POW behind barbed wire, with the slogan "Don't Forget Us." The Western allies have long since repatriated all their prisoners, but many are still held behind the Iron Curtain.

Two Persons Injured As Auto Overturns

Nathan Shpeck, 67, and his wife, Fannie, 63, both of Bradley, Beach, N. J., were injured about 11 a. m. Sunday when the automobile in which they were riding overturned off 9W a quarter-mile south of Saugerties, state police reported.

Mrs. Shpeck, who appeared to be the more seriously injured, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Leyton's ambulance. Her condition there is reported as fair. Mr. Shpeck was treated for abrasions of the right leg, state police said. Hospital records show he was admitted to the hospital later in the day, and his condition today was reported as good.

Water Department Has 3 Emergencies

Three emergencies affecting water lines were reported to the water department over the weekend.

Most damaging was a break in a water line at the Kingston Laundry, 83 Broadway where a cellar was flooded and some records and supplies damaged Sunday night.

Richard M. Kalish, manager of the laundry, said today that the mishap caused a delay of about two hours in starting the regular work schedule.

Police were notified of the break at 11 p. m., yesterday and relayed the information to Lester Legg of the water department. The water was pumped out of the cellar. The break was reported to police headquarters by Officer William Hanley, who said the water was rising to a point near the ceiling of the cellar at the time.

Police were also notified at 6:10 p. m., Sunday that water was gushing from the ground under the Florence street tank tower. Officer Ernest Bartroff was assigned to investigate and notified Lester Legg. John Byrne, department superintendent, said today that the mishap was not due to a break or leak, but was caused by failure of the control system at the tank.

Another police report at 4 a. m. Sunday said a sedan owned by Leonard Korth, 79 Wrentham street, ran into and damaged a fire hydrant at Flatbush and Albany avenues. The car was towed from the scene and the hydrant was knocked nearly flat on the street, but caused no leak in the water line, the report said. Both the water and fire departments were notified.

Atlanta Trucker Avoids Crowd as Vehicle Runs Away

State police said the truck started rolling down the hill toward the business section of Highland from the monument, where it had been parked by Benny Dudley, 31, of Orlando, Fla., after it had broken down.

Dudley jumped on the right running board, and John Willis, of Atlanta, jumped on the left as soon as they saw the truck was in motion. Willis steered the truck by reaching through the window.

Willis later told troopers he saw a crowd of persons emerging from the theater directly in front of the truck. He turned sharply to the left, up Vineyard avenue, and the truck came to a stop after striking the corner of a home under construction. There were no injuries, troopers said.

Former RFC Aide Says He Accepted Lithofold Gifts

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—A recently fired RFC official testified today he accepted a number of gifts from an official of American Lithofold Corp. after helping the company get RFC loans.

The witness, Frank Prince, a nephew of Rep. Boykin (D.-Ala.), made the statement in a Senate investigation of charges that Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle used political influence to get loans for American Lithofold, a St. Louis printing firm.

Prince said the then vice-president of American Lithofold, R. J. Blauner, presented him with a turkey, "one small ham," a box of oranges, a box of perfumes and a camera. Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.), a member of the investigating committee, said the camera was worth $103.

Second Acknowledgment

Oliver R. Kraft, assistant manager of the agency's St. Louis office, testified last Friday that his 1949 vacation expenses were paid by the head of the printing firm. RFC Administrator W. Stuart Symington immediately fired Kraft for "improper conduct."

American Lithofold received RFC loans totaling $564,000 in 1949.

An earlier witness today, George B. Luce, said RFC directors bypassed the agency's review committee in granting the first of these loans, amounting to $80,000.

Luce is chairman of the review committee, which normally passes on loan applications.

Alvanley Johnston Dies in Cleveland

Cleveland, Sept. 17 (AP)—Alvanley Johnston, 76, who was grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for a quarter century before his retirement last year, died early today.

He suffered a heart attack at his home in suburban Shaker Heights last night, and died in his sleep this morning.

At the time of his retirement he said his proudest possession was a 50-year membership pin in the 81,000-member brotherhood. His successor was James P. Shields

Johnston, a stocky, heavy set man with iron gray hair, was known as "Al" to thousands of railroaders. His railroad career started at the age of 17 when he became a call boy and wiper in Grand Forks, N. D.

He came to public notice in May, 1946, when his organization and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainsmen, led by the late Alexander F. Whitney, clashed with President Truman over a walkout of their unions.

The strike ended in two days, as the President called upon Congress to draft the strikers into the army.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—The position of the treasury Sept. 13: Net budget receipts $190,296,634.98. Budget expenditures $183,597,631.68. Cash balance $3,930,604,616.30. Customs receipts for month $17,807,378.58. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $7,300,807,443.81. Budget expenditures fiscal year $11,998,201,333.36. Budget deficit $4,697,393,889.55. Total debt $256,778,954,795.38. Increase over previous day $213,932,606.17. Gold assets $21,852,474,168.47.

Ancient Autos Clatter Toward New York Finish

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—With a hiss of steam and a popping of pistons, two ancient automobiles today clattered into the final stretch of their Chicago-to-New York race.

The vehicles, with two aged drivers at the wheels, left here at 9:20 a. m. (EST), to travel via Taconic State Parkway, Sawmill River Parkway and Henry Hudson Parkway to New York city.

Two hours later and rattling along Taconic State Parkway, the vintage vehicles wheezed their way into Westchester county, about 30 miles from Poughkeepsie.

Slowly but surely nearing their goal, the oldsters were on the brink of settling a half-century old argument—which was faster, the steam automobile or the internal combustion engine?

The steam-powered car reached Poughkeepsie with a 42-minute lead but it lagged behind during the opening hours of the final stretch.

The gas-driven vehicle, chugging along at a spanking 22 miles an hour, raced through Kitchawan in Westchester at 11:49 a. m. (EST). Its rival was several miles to the rear.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—The stock market turned quiet and mixed today after moving ahead actively in early trading.

Radio-television shares gathered in the bulk of buying interest while the market was advancing, and they continued with a better than average showing when the rest of the market quieted down into a mixed pattern.

Radio Corp. was the star performer and it was joined by International Telephone and Eastman Kodak. Radio was last week's most active issue, and it made an especially good showing in Friday's higher market.

International Telephone has extensive radio-TV interests, and Eastman has a large current and potential market in black & white and color film for TV shows.

There were some plus signs in merchandising issues, aircrafts, chemicals and miscellaneous manufacturing stocks, but elsewhere there was a downside edge.

Packing house stocks held steady in the face of their disappointment over meat price increase allowed by the Office of Price Stabilization.

The market closed ahead Friday with the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at a 1951 high of $100.40, the best in around 21 years.

Stocks losing ground today included Santa Fe, Standard Oil (NJ), United Air Lines, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Dome Mines, American Cyanamid, Westinghouse Electric, Boeing, and Schenley Industries.

Higher were Gulf Oil, Air Reduction, Columbian Carbon, Lerners, U. S. Leather, International Hydro-Electric, U. S. Steel, Studebaker, Lockheed, Philco, and Zenith Radio.

Curb prices were generally higher including Arkansas Natural Gas "A," Brazilian Traction, Consolidated Mining & Smelting, Eastern Gas, Ford Motor of France, Giant Yellowknife Gold, Monogram Pictures, Shattuck Denn Mining, and Stinnes.

Bonds were quietly steady. U. S. Governments in the over the counter market also held steady.

Dice Operator Is Fined $100 After Pleading Guilty

The alleged operator of a dice game raided by troopers in the town of Saugerties Sunday night was fined $100 on a "common gambling" charge, and a local man accused of possessing lottery tickets was fined $25, state police reported.

Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly of the B.C.I., and Trooper Edward Devine arrested John Cartino, 43, East Kingston, who they charged was the operator of a crap game they raided about 6 p. m. Sunday in the town of Saugerties.

Arraigned on a "common gambler" charge before Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers, Cartino pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100.

Sgt. Reilly said he and Trooper Devine confiscated a crap table, dice, other gambling equipment and $89 in cash as a result of the raid.

Earlier on Sunday, Trooper Devine arrested Arthur John Abbot, 68, of 13 West Strand, on a charge that he had lottery tickets in his possession when picked up in the town of Hurley. Abbot was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Roger Loughran and was fined $25.

Released on Bail

Raymond Green, 54, of West Park, was arrested Saturday night and released on $100 bail for hearing September 22 when he appeared before Justice John O. Beaver of Esopus on a charge of driving while intoxicated. State police said Green was arrested on a complaint by Thaddeus Schatzel, 18, of 69 Wilbur avenue, who said Green's car collided almost head-on with his on Route 9W at West Park. Minor injuries were reported by Miss Rhoda Osterhoudt, 17, of 39 Esopus avenue, who was a passenger in the Schatzel car; and by Green, according to the state police.

No. 21 Is First Train Over Span

Passenger Train No. 21, running 42 minutes late, made history on the West Shore railroad today.

Westbound from Weehawken it went over the railroad bridge of the Broadway grade separation project at 1:02 p. m., before what was reported as a "considerable crowd" gathered at the crossing. The train was due here at 12:20 o'clock.

Jack Zabriski of North Bergen, N. J., was the engineer and Edward Leonard of Union City, N. J., was the conductor.

Freight Train WV 7 followed a short time after the passenger train went through the city. Only the westbound tracks on the bridge are now open for traffic. The others are scheduled to be in use soon.

Y Health Center To Open Tonight

The YMCA Business Men's Health Department will open tonight for the 1951-1952 season, as announced by Physical Director Lou Schafer.

The entire department has been newly painted and thoroughly reset and cleaned for tonight's invasion of business and professional men that twice weekly look to the YMCA physical department for their exercise.

Alfred Haugen, the "Y" masseur also will be in the health department tonight to give his personal touch to all members that desire his services.

The masseur will be at the YMCA every Monday and Thursday for the entire winter season. Also paddle ball and volley ball also will be among the recreation games in the gymnasium on these two nights. New members are being recruited and they as well as regular members can have prescribed exercises given by Schafer on request. There is plenty of individual exercise equipment in the health department, besides the workouts in the gymnasium to give all members regular exercises. All members using the steam bath also have the privilege of using such individual equipment as the ultra violet sun lamps, the stationary bicycle, the belt machine, pulley weights and stall bars. Any one desiring information concerning these health classes can phone the "Y" 1100 and ask for Schafer.

Fruit Yield Is To Exceed 1950

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP)—The harvest of peaches, apples, pears and cherries in New York state will exceed the 1950 yield, but the grape crop will be less.

The hay crop this year was 6,243,000 tons, two per cent more than 1950's yield, but much of it was poor quality, the State Agriculture Department said yesterday.

Frequent rains during the harvest period damaged large amounts of hay before it was moved into barns.

Small-grain crops totaled 1,037,000 tons, three per cent above last year. The department said that a larger oat crop more than offset the lower yields of wheat and buckwheat.

The department said the corn crop was expected to be about one per cent less than in 1950, but 21 per cent above the 10-year average.

A peach crop of 1,328,000 bushels is forecast. That would be about a third more than the 1,023,000 bushels produced last year, but seven per cent lower than the 1947 yield.

The department predicted an "excellent" apple crop of 19,975,000 bushels, compared to 18,700,000 a year ago and 20,090,000 in 1949.

The harvest of pears is expected to total 1,072,000 bushels, 6,000 more than last year but 10 per cent less than the 1949 production.

An "unusually good" cherry crop, the department said, will set a new record of 31,200 tons of sour cherries. The 4,400 tons of sweet cherries will be about the same as last year.

The grape harvest was expected to total 59,300 tons, slightly more than half last year's crop of 104,000 tons, but 10,900 tons above 1949.

The department said "protracted" periods of dry weather caused the lower grape yield.

Northwest Gets Relief

Seattle, Sept. 17 (AP)—Clouds and haze brought some relief to the sun-scorched Pacific northwest today, but conditions remained critical in tinder-dry forests. Fire crews battling blazes in Washington and Oregon timberlands looked for rain to ease their tasks, but the weather bureau offered little help. The forecaster said temperatures would remain high until storms pushed down from Alaska. Major fires were reported under control in Washington but three large fires were raging in Oregon.

Australian Army Strength

Canberra (AP) — The full-time strength of the Australian Army is now 20,600. The army minister said that the full-time personnel total was made up of 17,612 servicemen on the Australian mainland and 3011 in the B.C.O.F. in Japan, and the 3rd Battalion in Korea. The Korean force totals 1145.

Carburetor Too Rich Makes Motorist Too Poor

Car owners who are wasting money and not getting proper gas mileage due to over-rich mixtures will be pleased to learn of a Wisconsin inventor who has developed a very clever unit that helps save gasoline by "Vacu-mating." It is automatic and operates on the supercharge principle. Easily installed in a few minutes. Fits all cars, trucks and tractors. The manufacturers, the Vacu-matic Carburetor Co., 7617-700 W. State St., Wauwatosa, Wis., are offering a Vacu-matic to anyone who will install it on his car and help introduce it to others. They will gladly send full free particulars if you write them or just send your name and address on a penny post card today.

ENVOY TO INDIA—President Truman has named Chester Bowles, above, former governor of Connecticut and World War II price controller, as ambassador to India. Bowles will succeed Loy W. Henderson, named as ambassador to Iran, succeeding retiring Henry Grady.

Division Chairmen Named for Drive

Two more division chairmen in the Benedictine Hospital Building Fund Campaign were named over the week-end by Senator Arthur H. Wicks and James A. Dwyer, general co-chairmen of the campaign.

Jerry Martin, 295 Albany avenue, was selected to head the Commercial Division which will be responsibe for the solicitation of all commercial places of business in Kingston and all employes.

Luther Dusinberre of Gardiner, deputy county treasurer, was named to head the Hospital Service Area Division which will embrace the entire county outside the city.

Already Martin has named Raymond A. McAndrews to head the automobile industry, one of the subdivisions in the Commercial group. Al Flanagan will have charge of the clothing sub-division; Frank Lynch, the financial houses; Harry Rippert the furnishing division; Edward Flick the professional group and Larry Suars of Radio Station WKNY, the public service group.

Likewise Dusinberre lost no time on the large organizational job confronting him. He immediately selected Thomas Morrisey and Edward Eckert as co-chairmen of Esopus township; Bernard Smith and Michael Haggerty to head solicitation in Kingston township; Mrs. Ernest Herrick, Joseph Deyo and Mrs. Phillip Donahue, all of Gardiner, to chair that township.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morris were named co-chairmen of New Paltz with Mrs. Henry Schroeder and Lewis F. Fellows heading the organization in Saugerties.

The hospital campaign, for $600,000, to pay for the two new wings now being erected at the hospital, will begin Thursday evening with a special gifts division dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel at which Senator Wicks will be the main speaker.

Refugees Are Invited

Hamburg, Germany, Sept. 17 (AP)—Thirty former Russian officers and soldiers called on all Russian refugees last night to join them in acquainting the west "with the true facts about the Soviet Union." The group met to found a "Society of Postwar Refugees from the Soviet Union."

Empire Markets 40th Birthday

Celebrating its 40th anniversary, Empire Super Markets was host to its employes at an all-day party September 16 at the famous Totem Lodge Country Club, Burden Lake. Over 800 attended the occasion, which included a birthday banquet dinner, special floor show imported from New York, dancing to music of nationally known orchestra, golf, tennis, softball and other sports events. Approximately 135 prizes were awarded the guests.

Henry Schaffer, founder and president of the company, welcomed the guests and expressed his appreciation for their cooperation in establishing Empire Super Markets as the largest individual food chain in eastern New York state. Reviewing the history and growth of the company, he pointed out that in addition to the three new Empires which were opened during the past year, two more markets will be opened in the near future.

Specially feted were the 10 new members in the company's 20, 25 and 30-Year Clubs, all members of which are awarded annually with a government bond from the company. New members also receive a certificate of membership and an appropriate lapel button. Admitted to the 20-Year Club were Harold Provda and Gladys W. Fahey of Schenectady, Carl G. Smith and Daniel Lynch of Poughkeepsie, George Avitabile of Albany, and John Schottler of Hudson. Eugene McCourt and William Fromfield of Poughkeepsie became members of the 25-Year Club and Samuel Warshaw of Schenectady and John D. Wheeler of Middleburg were admitted to the 30-Year Club.

Attending the company's anniversary party from this area were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cacioppo, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Orr, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jacobus, Mr. and Mrs. William Moser, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. William Remus, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ordway, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Resling, Mr. and Mrs. George Ruehl, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schwarz, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kiwus, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Perry, Mr. and Mrs. George Ballou, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyers and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hughes; the Misses Shirley Schermerhorn, Antoinette Sinaynn, Rosemary Hutton and Nathalie Burr; Garwood Cline, Louis Egbertson, Hellmut Hagenah, Jack Bordenstein and Howard Hughes.

Cherry county, Nebr., is large enough to contain the states of Delaware and Rhode Island, plus 500 average ranches.

Fruit Yield Is To Exceed 1950

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP)—The harvest of peaches, apples, pears and cherries in New York state will exceed the 1950 yield, but the grape crop will be less.

The hay crop this year was 6,243,000 tons, two per cent more than 1950's yield, but much of it was poor quality, the State Agriculture Department said yesterday.

Frequent rains during the harvest period damaged large amounts of hay before it was moved into barns.

Small-grain crops totaled 1,037,000 tons, three per cent above last year. The department said that a larger oat crop more than offset the lower yields of wheat and buckwheat.

The department said the corn crop was expected to be about one per cent less than in 1950, but 21 per cent above the 10-year average.

A peach crop of 1,328,000 bushels is forecast. That would be about a third more than the 1,023,000 bushels produced last year, but seven per cent lower than the 1947 yield.

The department predicted an "excellent" apple crop of 19,975,000 bushels, compared to 18,700,000 a year ago and 20,090,000 in 1949.

The harvest of pears is expected to total 1,072,000 bushels, 6,000 more than last year but 10 per cent less than the 1949 production.

An "unusually good" cherry crop, the department said, will set a new record of 31,200 tons of sour cherries. The 4,400 tons of sweet cherries will be about the same as last year.

The grape harvest was expected to total 59,300 tons, slightly more than half last year's crop of 104,000 tons, but 10,900 tons above 1949.

The department said "protracted" periods of dry weather caused the lower grape yield.

Northwest Gets Relief

Seattle, Sept. 17 (AP)—Clouds and haze brought some relief to the sun-scorched Pacific northwest today, but conditions remained critical in tinder-dry forests. Fire crews battling blazes in Washington and Oregon timberlands looked for rain to ease their tasks, but the weather bureau offered little help. The forecaster said temperatures would remain high until storms pushed down from Alaska. Major fires were reported under control in Washington but three large fires were raging in Oregon.

Australian Army Strength

Canberra (AP) — The full-time strength of the Australian Army is now 20,600. The army minister said that the full-time personnel total was made up of 17,612 servicemen on the Australian mainland and 3011 in the B.C.O.F. in Japan, and the 3rd Battalion in Korea. The Korean force totals 1145.

Division Chairmen Named for Drive

Two more division chairmen in the Benedictine Hospital Building Fund Campaign were named over the week-end by Senator Arthur H. Wicks and James A. Dwyer, general co-chairmen of the campaign.

Jerry Martin, 295 Albany avenue, was selected to head the Commercial Division which will be responsibe for the solicitation of all commercial places of business in Kingston and all employes.

Luther Dusinberre of Gardiner, deputy county treasurer, was named to head the Hospital Service Area Division which will embrace the entire county outside the city.

Already Martin has named Raymond A. McAndrews to head the automobile industry, one of the subdivisions in the Commercial group. Al Flanagan will have charge of the clothing sub-division; Frank Lynch, the financial houses; Harry Rippert the furnishing division; Edward Flick the professional group and Larry Suars of Radio Station WKNY, the public service group.

Likewise Dusinberre lost no time on the large organizational job confronting him. He immediately selected Thomas Morrisey and Edward Eckert as co-chairmen of Esopus township; Bernard Smith and Michael Haggerty to head solicitation in Kingston township; Mrs. Ernest Herrick, Joseph Deyo and Mrs. Phillip Donahue, all of Gardiner, to chair that township.

THE CONSTITUTION

In a recent letter to The Freeman, the Regent of Wilwyck Chapter, National Society, Daughters of American Revolution calls attention to the signing of the Constitution, which we observe today.

The Regent, Celeste K. Porter, states that by this action the blessing of representative government was made possible for the first time in the history of the world. Let us give special recognition to this anniversary, and to the indomitable courage of those who gave us the Constitution, a part of our priceless heritage.

There has been an announcement to the effect that the original copies of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence are to be protected henceforth from air, insects and the touch of human hands. Sealed in indivdual glass cases filled with helium, the separate pages will be visible yet guarded against handling and deterioration. Thus it is hoped that the paper and ink of the documents may be preserved for future generations.

Their substance, however, cannot be preserved by any such device. The ideas and principles which are the Constitution and the Declaration can be saved only by being exposed constantly to light and air, by being kept out in the open where they can be examined and re-examined, handled and used, attacked and defended.

It is well and good to protect these precious papers, to keep them where they only may be looked at, like the most treasured pieces of family china, and safe behind glass doors of the dining room cupboard. But the body of principles and beliefs must be kept closer to us, like the familiar pieces depended on for daily use, always put within instant reach.

If prices don't come down soon the chances of some office-holders may.

BENEDICTINE HOSPITAL DRIVE

General Co-chairmen Senator Arthur H. Wicks and James A. Dwyer have announced that on Thursday, September 20 the drive to raise $600,000 for the Benedictine Hospital will get underway.

The amount is necessary to help defray the cost of construction and outfitting the two new wings. The total cost will be around $2,000,000.

This fall marks the golden anniversary of the Benedictine Hospital. Since the four courageous sisters started the local hospital 50 years ago, the equivalent of every man, woman and child in Ulster county has been a patient at the hospital.

In the last five years, 24,133 patients were admitted to Benedictine Hospital and of this number, 20 per cent were from outside Kingston.

Babies delivered in this period totaled 2,428 and a total of 9,006 operations were performed. A total of 1,403 non-paying patients were given free service. This number, based on the average national hospital rate represents $24,049.50 of free care.

This increasing community service makes necessary the additions, which will have the most modern equipment. When the building program is completed, the staff, which like the patients are of all races and faiths, will be better able to serve the public.

Gifts will be sought in the form of pledges for subscriptions over a 36-month period. Here is a community project that should have the generous support of all the people of the county.

Some people, it seems, always try to twist opportunity into something like "profitunity."

DRIVERS' LICENSES

The State Bureau of Motor Vehicles urges drivers to check the expiration dates on their licenses as many operator licenses expire next September 30.

The local motor vehicle bureau is accepting applications for renewals.

BACK TO STANDARD TIME

Daylight Saving Time will end Saturday, September 29 and we will return to Standard Time on Sunday, September 30, when the clocks will be turned back one hour.

The change is called for at 2 a. m., but most people turn back their clocks one hour before retiring.

CO-EXISTENCE

In orthodox Marxism, it is axiomatic that heaven on earth will be achieved when all of mankind accepts the dogma of socialism. The argument has raged among Marxists as to whether socialism could succeed in one country alone or had to be universal. The quarrel between Stalin and Trotzky was partly over this question. Stalin had Trotzky killed in Mexico.

Now a phrase is being used again to give the impression that Marxian orthodoxy is accepting the dogma that socialism and capitalism, Sovietism and democracy can live together in peace and harmony. The phrase is, co-existence. The problem it presents is how two opposite and divergent civilizations can exist simultaneously in close contact.

Juliusz Katz-Suchy, Poland's representative to the United Nations, says:

"War economy, it seemed, had become an indispensable condition for the maintenance of the capitalist system. Such an economy . . . entailed a fall in living standards, a limitation of social services, the curtailment of housing construction, and increased difficulties for the weaker economies. This was proof that the system was losing every social reason for its existence."

While this is undoubtedly in part true only because of our mixed economy in time of war which inhibits capitalist freedom, the competitive play which is essential to its success, it is also true in the Communist countries which have remained on a war basis continuously since the end of World War II. In fact, captive countries, such as Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Soviet China, have been mobilized for permanent war.

What such a man as the Polish diplomat does not understand is that the essence of American life is not the standard of living but the freedom of life. What can be said of this situation in the world today is that capitalism, Fabian socialism, and communism co-exist on a war basis and are producing in this world a lowering standard of living and shortages in raw materials and therefore in manufactured consumers' goods. But there is a difference between us and them in that here the individual retains his freedom whereas in the Soviet world, he is a creature of the state. When this difference disappears, if it ever should, we shall be alike.

If co-existence means anything, it has come to mark a period of universal misfortune, increasing fear, depreciated currencies, and a lowered standard of living, but it need not mean destruction of our civilization.

The Communist countries are anxious to develop an East-West trade to the maximum. That is, they want to increase their trade with their enemies. In this, they are joined by Great Britain, a country whose shopkeeping instincts focus realistically on the dogma that trade is the life-blood of national existence. To both the Communists and the Fabian Socialists, trade could go on even while a war is being fought, as in Korea.

In fact, now that the Japanese have regained their sovereignty, their eyes will turn, not unnaturally, to the prospects of trade with the continent of Asia, particularly with Soviet China which, from Manchuria, can ship soy-beans and such items to Japan and take from that country the manufacutres Japan needs to sell. Japan fought four wars for that trade and in the end lost it. But the Japanese, who despise the Chinese Communists, would not mind their trade. Great Britain, which is engaged in both a hot and cold war against communism, still seeks the trade of Soviet China.

Katz-Suchy makes the point:

"It was now clear that the so-called 'economic assistance' under the Marshal Plan was a means of linking the economies of the recipient countries to that of the United States, depriving them once and for all of any possibility of following an independent economic policy. As for the so-called Schuman plan, that was designed to meet the requirements of the Atlantic Pact war machinery and to serve the interests of United States imperialism and its ally, German Neo-Fascism."

Suppose all this were correct, which it is not, the fact remains that the Soviet world aims at an integrated economic system in which the Kremlin determines the production and use of all commodities, including those of its satellites. Poland, for instance, is now not even a satellite; it is a province of Soviet Russia, directly under its control, in economics as in politics, in ideas and ideals as in the training and education of its children. This is a battle not only of differing economic systems but of civilizations.

That Body of Yours

OPERATION FOR LOSS OF HEARING

A few years ago I wrote about what is called the fenestration or window operation for otosclerosis (formation of spongy bone in inner ear.) When sound strikes the outer side of the drum of the ear, the drum vibrates three small bones in middle ear which, in turn, strike a window of the inner ear. This window, oval in shape, strikes against the fluid of inner ear, then moves the membrane to which the "hearing" nerve is attached. The sound is carried by this nerve to the brain. In some individuals a small deposit of bone forms which prevents the oval window from moving or vibrating. Therefore it cannot move sound inward through the fluid to the hearing nerve.

The fenestration operation is performed to provide another window in place of the window with the bony deposit. The operation is performed by enlarging the ear canal and boring a hole in the bone enclosing the inner ear in which is the fluid and nerve ending. It is in the catarrhal form of deafness and deafness due to bony deposit against the window that this operation is particularly successful. It helps about one in six cases of deafness.

As there has been considerable controversy over the results of the fenestration operation, a report by two outstanding ear specialists, Drs. L. E. Adin and G. E. Shamburgh, Jr., on the long term results of fenestration is of real interest. In the American Medical Association Archives of Otolaryngology (ear and throat) we learn that these ear specialists followed 390 patients for five to 10 years after the operation. The hearing of 70 per cent of the patients showed significant and sustained improvement; some of their early gain in hearing had been lost but they had kept a usable level of hearing; five per cent had no improvement in hearing and five per cent had further bony closures although some of these cases with closures were helped by a further operation.

In other words, the hearing of 90 per cent of cases undergoing operation showed some improvement in hearing.

Our ear specialists point out that the fenestration operation is used only in selected cases for deafness due to catarrhal inflammation. It is not recommended for other forms of deafness; this is important to remember because anyone with loss of hearing is usually eager to undergo any form of treatment, surgical or otherwise, if there is a chance to have their hearing restored.

One More Hurdle

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The men who run the Senate Finance Committee are among the wealthiest in Congress, including five millionaires. Most of the others have large outside incomes well above their $15,000-a-year Senate salaries.

Yet these well-heeled senators have just finished drafting a complicated new tax bill that will spare the rich and soak the poor more than at any time since the days of Andy Mellon. It is literally polkadotted with loopholes to benefit special, private interests all the way from mine owners to oyster-shell dealers.

What the Senate Finance Committee has done is trim one and a half billions off the House tax bill, in such a way that 90 per cent of this tax savings goes to the rich who can afford to pay more. Only a paltry $200 million will be cut off the tax bill of the small-income people who earn less than $5,000 per year.

For example, the House approved a 12½ per cent boost in individual income taxes. The Senate Committee cut this to 11 per cent, then threw in a clause for the special benefit of some of their own group. This clause would limit the increase to 8 per cent of all income remaining after taxes paid under the present law. The way this works out, it would benefit single people making more than $27,000 a year, or married couples making over $54,000 a year. The loss to the treasury is estimated at half a billion dollars annually and the low-bracket taxpayer gets no benefit.

The Senate Committee also reduced taxes on corporations, which are now earning at the rate of $50 billion per year—the largest profits in history. Most of these profits are coming from the Korean war boom, yet the Finance Committee whittled down the excess-profits tax to the tune of an estimated $750 million.

In just one stroke, the senators saved the big corporations another approximately half a billion dollars. The House had adopted the normal procedure and had voted corporate tax increases to take effect as of Jan. 1, 1951. However, the Senate changed this tax date to April 1, 1951.

Children Count as Partners

Though the House had already added a few loopholes to the tax bill, the Senate Finance Committee adopted all the House loopholes and added several more of its own. Here are some of the most glaring loopholes, designed to save taxes to the wealthy but add to the tax burden of the poor:

1. Individual incomes are taxable up to 90 per cent. However, capital gains are taxable up to only 25 per cent. The House voted, and the senators approved, a loophole by which coal royalties would be capital gains. This is a bonanza for the coal-mine owner, putting him in a special category from other businessmen such as the apartment-house owner, for instance, who cannot charge up rents as a capital gain.

2. A farmer or workman can now reduce his taxes by splitting his income with his wife. However, the House voted to allow businessmen the sepecial privilege of splitting their income with their entire families, under certain conditions. Thus, in some cases a businessman could count his children, including newborn babies, as full-fledged business partners and thus reduce his tax load. The senators not only accepted this loophole, but made it retroactive all the way back to 1939. This means a saving of several hundred million dollars to businessmen, which will have to be made up by other taxpayers.

3. Oil and gas owners now have a special loophole, which enables them to deduct 27½ per cent of their investment each year. This would be the same as 27-½ per cent reduction from a wage earner's gross salary—only the wage earner isn't allowed it.

After four years, the oilmen's entire investment has been deducted, yet under the new bill they can continue taking 27-½ per cent additional deductions each year. Instead of closing this gaping loophole, the senators allowed similar but lesser deductions for several other industries—sand and gravel, clay, tile, asbestos, salt, oyster shells, clam shells and many others.

Beef Cattle Bonanza

4. In addition to the benefits for coal-mine owners, another special tax loophole was voted by the House for mining industry generally. This permits full tax deductions for the development of new mines. The senators not only accepted this but added on a $75,000 tax deduction for exploration cost.

5. The House permitted livestock breeders to count their income as capital gains. The senators accepted this and added turkey breeders to boot, since one turkey-breeding senator is a member of the committee. This new capital-gains bonanza on cattle is why dairy farmers are going out of the milk business in favor of raising blue-ribbon show herds which they can sell at a huge capital-gains profit.

The five millionaire senators who drafted this rich man's tax bill behind closed doors are Bob Kerr of Oklahoma and Harry Byrd of Virginia, Democrats; Gene Milliken of Colorado, Bob Taft of Ohio, and Ed Martin of Pennsylvania, Republicans. Also on the committee, and men of large incomes are: Clyde Hoey of North Carolina, Allen Frear of Delaware, Democrats; Hugh Butler of Nebraska, cattle raiser; Owen Brewster of Maine, and John Williams of Delaware, a turkey raiser; Republicans. Two other members of the committee are well off but not wealthy—Walter George of Georgia, chairman, and Ed Johnson of Colorado, both Democrats.

Texas' Tom Connally, also a member of the committee, is wealthy, but has a long record for voting in favor of the small taxpayer. Aside from Connally, the small taxpayer is not represented on the committee.

However, Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrat, will lead the fight on the Senate floor to close the tax loopholes. He will be backstopped by a group of Democratic senators including millionaires Lehman of New York, Benton of Connecticut, and Green of Rhode Island.

The Prophetic Lake

The Prophetic Lake. Twice in this century the Lake of Sindanglava, Java, ran completely dry. The first time was August 1, 1914, the day World War 1 broke out. The bottom of the lake opened suddenly and the water disappeared. It gradually returned and by 1921 the lake was again full. On Sept. 1, 1939 the lake again ran dry. This was the day Hitler invaded Poland, and the waters have not returned. The lake is 500 feet long, 400 feet wide and 225 feet deep.

Republicans Are Pleased Over Truman-Acheson Situation, for It Offers 1952 Issues

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 17—The Republicans secretly are very glad that President Truman has decided to retain Secretary of State Acheson for the remainder of this presidential term, because that means the Truman-Acheson policies will be one of the main issues of the 1952 campaign.

If Mr. Truman runs again, he will be asked on the stump to state whether he will keep Mr. Acheson for four years more. He will doubtless answer in the affirmative.

If somebody other than Mr. Truman runs on the Democratic ticket, he, too, will be asked whether he intends to keep Dean Acheson as secretary of state.

This is as it should be. For the best way a republic can function is to give the people clear-cut issues in elections and opportunities to vote "yes" or "no" on concrete points of public policy.

This correspondent has defended Mr. Acheson as a loyal American with not the slightest grain of sympathy in his make-up for Communist imperialism, and has even defended his right to say what he did about Alger Hiss, but the indictment of the Department of State today rests on far more serious grounds. It is not a question of personalities but of principle.

The indictment primarily is that both President Truman and Secretary Acheson have bowed in submission to the British foreign office, allowing American boys in Korea to be stabbed in the back by British commercialism and accepting British interference which has prevented the Korean war from being fought as it should have been from a military standpoint.

The indictment covers the fact, too, that while the American people are being taxed heavily and are spending billions of dollars to ward off a possible Russian attack, Great Britain is being allowed to trade with Russia and her satellites when everybody knows Russia would be frustrated in her rearmament program if the screws were put on trade relations with the Communist bloc.

Great Britain doesn't hesitate to put the screws on weak and helpless Iran by denying sterling exchange to that ill-fated country, which seeks to retain its sovereignty through a nationalization law just as did the British Labor Government. In the last few days Britain has cut off sterling and dollars from Iran, which is an illustration of what the British government can do when it really wants to stop trade with an unfriendly country.

The main protest here is that Secretary Acheson has not used his power and influence to persuade Great Britain to stop her trade with the Communists, nor has he offered American compensation to the British for the small amount of financial loss that would be involved. It has just been announced that despite bumper crops of wheat in the United States and Canada, Britain is buying 200,000 tons of wheat from Russia, which is merely a way of furnishing dollars or pounds to the Russians so they can buy raw materials with which to build up the Communist armies in the Far East.

Britain has, for example, been increasing her rubber exports to Russia to help furnish tires for the trucks and planes that are used to carry weapons to kill American boys in Korea.

The failure of Secretary Acheson on strategy or policy in Iran is also something for public discussion. It is revealed now through press dispatches from Teheran that Ambassador Henry F. Grady has just resigned because Secretary Acheson went along with the British and refused to follow a course recommended by the American ambassador which would have protected the prestige of the United States in the middle east from being sullied with the unpopular record of British Colonialism in that area.

But the main argument against the Truman-Acheson policies will involve the highly controversial subject of relations with China, it being contended by the critics that Mr. Acheson was gullible and allowed communistically inclined advisers to sway Department of State policy and thus lose 400,000,000 Chinese to Communist control. It is a healthy thing for a democracy to debate these things in a national election, and Mr. Truman is to be commended for wishing to fight the issue out in the 1952 campaign with Mr. Acheson as his principal associate and spokesman.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 16—The Big Republicans are a lot of conceited yellow-bellies without the slightest moral or political integrity. Nevertheless, because they intend to contribute a few hundred or a few thousand dollars each to the campaign funds, they have the effrontery to regard themselves as a sort of board of directors of the party with the right to pick the candidate who will be the alternative to Truman when the people go to the polls to decide not merely the presidency for the next quadrennium but the fate of the nation.

It is no exaggeration to say that the fate of the nation will be decided in that election because if Truman gets a third term he will no longer have to affect the few remaining restraints upon a brutal, vulgar, reckless nature, so ominously revealed in his give 'em-speeches and his vicious letters. His Marxian manipulators, centered in New York, then will have a willing agent for their plans. These plans are, at the minimum, a duplication here of the essentials of the British Socialism, the last stop this side of Moscow, and probably a spread of the present war with Russia far beyond the localized Korean front. Truman and Roosevelt never have been able to operate the nation's economy without war as the principal customer and stimulant to employment. And the horrible old frauds of the union movement, incapable of any thought beyond their own power, their paltry vanity and their bellies, already have declared themselves in on the false boodle of the third and final world war.

There seems to be no other hope of restraining them and smashing the power of their organizations except Robert H. Taft. War is the only economic program of the Democratic party and its covert operators and war, of course, inevitably will wipe out the American economy if the War Party is elected again.

Yet, Republicans of cynical mien, the kind who think they are clever and original when they speak of "compromise" as a good substitute for victory, turn down Senator Taft offhand with the observation that although he is by far the best man to stand off doom, they would rather win with Eisenhower than lose with Taft. The conviction that their best man can't win is the best propaganda that the Marxian Truman conspiracy could want. And nobody is more active in spreading it than the very men who should be hollering up Taft's abilities and his chances.

Why can't Taft win? The reason is so shallow as to throw serious doubt on the right of the American people to the privilege of self-government. He has no political sex-appeal. He is, in other words, and honest, intellectual patriot with the belly for a fight and a gentleman who will not resort to the language which prompted Bernard Baruch, in the only moment of honest courage in all his political life, to call Truman "a rude, uncouth, ignorant man." Taft won't threaten to commit mayhem on Truman or write filthy letters, but he showed in 1948 and again in his senatorial re-election campaign that he wouldn't back away when the goons of the CIO and the A. F. of L. threatened him and his wife with mob assault.

How do these plush-pelt Republicans, these posturing dead-end kids, in their intervals between their poker games in their New York deadfall near the park, come to the conclusion that Taft can't win? Has he ever lost? How can they say he won't fight? Who fought through the Taft-Hartley law, the only victory for the people over the entrenched mob of murdering unioneers with their unlimited taxing power over almost fifteen million faceless serfs? Taft did it. Taft confronted the gangs in their own strongholds and never stepped back an inch.

The pathetic yearning for Eisenhower is the measure of the integrity and ability of petty name-droppers of the Republican directorate who think they are impressing lesser men by speaking familiarly of "Ike" and "Bob." Even if he should declare himself to be an orthodox Republican, Eisenhower would still have a ghastly guilt in the present tragic situation from which he is now trying to extricate us in Europe. He never raised his voice against the Russian onrush into Germany which overwhelmed Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Baltic and Balkans. And, after the war, he lacked the guts to defend the beaten German people from the revenge

General Co-chairmen Senator Arthur H. Wicks and James A. Dwyer have announced that on Thursday, September 20 the drive to raise $600,000 for the Benedictine Hospital will get underway.

The amount is necessary to help defray the cost of construction and outfitting the two new wings. The total cost will be around $2,000,000.

This fall marks the golden anniversary of the Benedictine Hospital. Since the four courageous sisters started the local hospital 50 years ago, the equivalent of every man, woman and child in Ulster county has been a patient at the hospital.

In the last five years, 24,133 patients were admitted to Benedictine Hospital and of this number, 20 per cent were from outside Kingston.

Babies delivered in this period totaled 2,428 and a total of 9,006 operations were performed. A total of 1,403 non-paying patients were given free service. This number, based on the average national hospital rate represents $24,049.50 of free care.

This increasing community service makes necessary the additions, which will have the most modern equipment. When the building program is completed, the staff, which like the patients are of all races and faiths, will be better able to serve the public.

Gifts will be sought in the form of pledges for subscriptions over a 36-month period. Here is a community project that should have the generous support of all the people of the county.

Some people, it seems, always try to twist opportunity into something like "profitunity."

DRIVERS' LICENSES

The State Bureau of Motor Vehicles urges drivers to check the expiration dates on their licenses as many operator licenses expire next September 30.

The local motor vehicle bureau is accepting applications for renewals.

CO-EXISTENCE

In orthodox Marxism, it is axiomatic that heaven on earth will be achieved when all of mankind accepts the dogma of socialism. The argument has raged among Marxists as to whether socialism could succeed in one country alone or had to be universal. The quarrel between Stalin and Trotzky was partly over this question. Stalin had Trotzky killed in Mexico.

Now a phrase is being used again to give the impression that Marxian orthodoxy is accepting the dogma that socialism and capitalism, Sovietism and democracy can live together in peace and harmony. The phrase is, co-existence. The problem it presents is how two opposite and divergent civilizations can exist simultaneously in close contact.

Juliusz Katz-Suchy, Poland's representative to the United Nations, says:

"War economy, it seemed, had become an indispensable condition for the maintenance of the capitalist system. Such an economy . . . entailed a fall in living standards, a limitation of social services, the curtailment of housing construction, and increased difficulties for the weaker economies. This was proof that the system was losing every social reason for its existence."

While this is undoubtedly in part true only because of our mixed economy in time of war which inhibits capitalist freedom, the competitive play which is essential to its success, it is also true in the Communist countries which have remained on a war basis continuously since the end of World War II. In fact, captive countries, such as Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Soviet China, have been mobilized for permanent war.

What such a man as the Polish diplomat does not understand is that the essence of American life is not the standard of living but the freedom of life. What can be said of this situation in the world today is that capitalism, Fabian socialism, and communism co-exist on a war basis and are producing in this world a lowering standard of living and shortages in raw materials and therefore in manufactured consumers' goods. But there is a difference between us and them in that here the individual retains his freedom whereas in the Soviet world, he is a creature of the state. When this difference disappears, if it ever should, we shall be alike.

If co-existence means anything, it has come to mark a period of universal misfortune, increasing fear, depreciated currencies, and a lowered standard of living, but it need not mean destruction of our civilization.

The Communist countries are anxious to develop an East-West trade to the maximum. That is, they want to increase their trade with their enemies. In this, they are joined by Great Britain, a country whose shopkeeping instincts focus realistically on the dogma that trade is the life-blood of national existence. To both the Communists and the Fabian Socialists, trade could go on even while a war is being fought, as in Korea.

In fact, now that the Japanese have regained their sovereignty, their eyes will turn, not unnaturally, to the prospects of trade with the continent of Asia, particularly with Soviet China which, from Manchuria, can ship soy-beans and such items to Japan and take from that country the manufacutres Japan needs to sell. Japan fought four wars for that trade and in the end lost it. But the Japanese, who despise the Chinese Communists, would not mind their trade. Great Britain, which is engaged in both a hot and cold war against communism, still seeks the trade of Soviet China.

Katz-Suchy makes the point:

"It was now clear that the so-called 'economic assistance' under the Marshal Plan was a means of linking the economies of the recipient countries to that of the United States, depriving them once and for all of any possibility of following an independent economic policy. As for the so-called Schuman plan, that was designed to meet the requirements of the Atlantic Pact war machinery and to serve the interests of United States imperialism and its ally, German Neo-Fascism."

Suppose all this were correct, which it is not, the fact remains that the Soviet world aims at an integrated economic system in which the Kremlin determines the production and use of all commodities, including those of its satellites. Poland, for instance, is now not even a satellite; it is a province of Soviet Russia, directly under its control, in economics as in politics, in ideas and ideals as in the training and education of its children. This is a battle not only of differing economic systems but of civilizations.

OPERATION FOR LOSS OF HEARING

A few years ago I wrote about what is called the fenestration or window operation for otosclerosis (formation of spongy bone in inner ear.) When sound strikes the outer side of the drum of the ear, the drum vibrates three small bones in middle ear which, in turn, strike a window of the inner ear. This window, oval in shape, strikes against the fluid of inner ear, then moves the membrane to which the "hearing" nerve is attached. The sound is carried by this nerve to the brain. In some individuals a small deposit of bone forms which prevents the oval window from moving or vibrating. Therefore it cannot move sound inward through the fluid to the hearing nerve.

The fenestration operation is performed to provide another window in place of the window with the bony deposit. The operation is performed by enlarging the ear canal and boring a hole in the bone enclosing the inner ear in which is the fluid and nerve ending. It is in the catarrhal form of deafness and deafness due to bony deposit against the window that this operation is particularly successful. It helps about one in six cases of deafness.

As there has been considerable controversy over the results of the fenestration operation, a report by two outstanding ear specialists, Drs. L. E. Adin and G. E. Shamburgh, Jr., on the long term results of fenestration is of real interest. In the American Medical Association Archives of Otolaryngology (ear and throat) we learn that these ear specialists followed 390 patients for five to 10 years after the operation. The hearing of 70 per cent of the patients showed significant and sustained improvement; some of their early gain in hearing had been lost but they had kept a usable level of hearing; five per cent had no improvement in hearing and five per cent had further bony closures although some of these cases with closures were helped by a further operation.

In other words, the hearing of 90 per cent of cases undergoing operation showed some improvement in hearing.

Our ear specialists point out that the fenestration operation is used only in selected cases for deafness due to catarrhal inflammation. It is not recommended for other forms of deafness; this is important to remember because anyone with loss of hearing is usually eager to undergo any form of treatment, surgical or otherwise, if there is a chance to have their hearing restored.

One More Hurdle

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The men who run the Senate Finance Committee are among the wealthiest in Congress, including five millionaires. Most of the others have large outside incomes well above their $15,000-a-year Senate salaries.

Yet these well-heeled senators have just finished drafting a complicated new tax bill that will spare the rich and soak the poor more than at any time since the days of Andy Mellon. It is literally polkadotted with loopholes to benefit special, private interests all the way from mine owners to oyster-shell dealers.

What the Senate Finance Committee has done is trim one and a half billions off the House tax bill, in such a way that 90 per cent of this tax savings goes to the rich who can afford to pay more. Only a paltry $200 million will be cut off the tax bill of the small-income people who earn less than $5,000 per year.

For example, the House approved a 12½ per cent boost in individual income taxes. The Senate Committee cut this to 11 per cent, then threw in a clause for the special benefit of some of their own group. This clause would limit the increase to 8 per cent of all income remaining after taxes paid under the present law. The way this works out, it would benefit single people making more than $27,000 a year, or married couples making over $54,000 a year. The loss to the treasury is estimated at half a billion dollars annually and the low-bracket taxpayer gets no benefit.

The Senate Committee also reduced taxes on corporations, which are now earning at the rate of $50 billion per year—the largest profits in history. Most of these profits are coming from the Korean war boom, yet the Finance Committee whittled down the excess-profits tax to the tune of an estimated $750 million.

In just one stroke, the senators saved the big corporations another approximately half a billion dollars. The House had adopted the normal procedure and had voted corporate tax increases to take effect as of Jan. 1, 1951. However, the Senate changed this tax date to April 1, 1951.

Children Count as Partners

Though the House had already added a few loopholes to the tax bill, the Senate Finance Committee adopted all the House loopholes and added several more of its own. Here are some of the most glaring loopholes, designed to save taxes to the wealthy but add to the tax burden of the poor:

1. Individual incomes are taxable up to 90 per cent. However, capital gains are taxable up to only 25 per cent. The House voted, and the senators approved, a loophole by which coal royalties would be capital gains. This is a bonanza for the coal-mine owner, putting him in a special category from other businessmen such as the apartment-house owner, for instance, who cannot charge up rents as a capital gain.

2. A farmer or workman can now reduce his taxes by splitting his income with his wife. However, the House voted to allow businessmen the sepecial privilege of splitting their income with their entire families, under certain conditions. Thus, in some cases a businessman could count his children, including newborn babies, as full-fledged business partners and thus reduce his tax load. The senators not only accepted this loophole, but made it retroactive all the way back to 1939. This means a saving of several hundred million dollars to businessmen, which will have to be made up by other taxpayers.

3. Oil and gas owners now have a special loophole, which enables them to deduct 27½ per cent of their investment each year. This would be the same as 27-½ per cent reduction from a wage earner's gross salary—only the wage earner isn't allowed it.

After four years, the oilmen's entire investment has been deducted, yet under the new bill they can continue taking 27-½ per cent additional deductions each year. Instead of closing this gaping loophole, the senators allowed similar but lesser deductions for several other industries—sand and gravel, clay, tile, asbestos, salt, oyster shells, clam shells and many others.

Beef Cattle Bonanza

4. In addition to the benefits for coal-mine owners, another special tax loophole was voted by the House for mining industry generally. This permits full tax deductions for the development of new mines. The senators not only accepted this but added on a $75,000 tax deduction for exploration cost.

5. The House permitted livestock breeders to count their income as capital gains. The senators accepted this and added turkey breeders to boot, since one turkey-breeding senator is a member of the committee. This new capital-gains bonanza on cattle is why dairy farmers are going out of the milk business in favor of raising blue-ribbon show herds which they can sell at a huge capital-gains profit.

The five millionaire senators who drafted this rich man's tax bill behind closed doors are Bob Kerr of Oklahoma and Harry Byrd of Virginia, Democrats; Gene Milliken of Colorado, Bob Taft of Ohio, and Ed Martin of Pennsylvania, Republicans. Also on the committee, and men of large incomes are: Clyde Hocy of North Carolina, Allen Frear of Delaware, Democrats; Hugh Butler of Nebraska, cattle raiser; Owen Brewster of Maine, and John Williams of Delaware, a turkey raiser; Republicans. Two other members of the committee are well off but not wealthy—Walter George of Georgia, chairman, and Ed Johnson of Colorado, both Democrats.

Texas' Tom Connally, also a member of the committee, is wealthy, but has a long record for voting in favor of the small taxpayer. Aside from Connally, the small taxpayer is not represented on the committee.

However, Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrat, will lead the fight on the Senate floor to close the tax loopholes. He will be backstopped by a group of Democratic senators including millionaires Lehman of New York, Benton of Connecticut, and Green of Rhode Island.

Republicans Are Pleased Over Truman-Acheson Situation, for It Offers 1952 Issues

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 17—The Republicans secretly are very glad that President Truman has decided to retain Secretary of State Acheson for the remainder of this presidential term, because that means the Truman-Acheson policies will be one of the main issues of the 1952 campaign.

If Mr. Truman runs again, he will be asked on the stump to state whether he will keep Mr. Acheson for four years more. He will doubtless answer in the affirmative.

If somebody other than Mr. Truman runs on the Democratic ticket, he, too, will be asked whether he intends to keep Dean Acheson as secretary of state.

This is as it should be. For the best way a republic can function is to give the people clear-cut issues in elections and opportunities to vote "yes" or "no" on concrete points of public policy.

This correspondent has defended Mr. Acheson as a loyal American with not the slightest grain of sympathy in his make-up for Communist imperialism, and has even defended his right to say what he did about Alger Hiss, but the indictment of the Department of State today rests on far more serious grounds. It is not a question of personalities but of principle.

The indictment primarily is that both President Truman and Secretary Acheson have bowed in submission to the British foreign office, allowing American boys in Korea to be stabbed in the back by British commercialism and accepting British interference which has prevented the Korean war from being fought as it should have been from a military standpoint.

The indictment covers the fact, too, that while the American people are being taxed heavily and are spending billions of dollars to ward off a possible Russian attack, Great Britain is being allowed to trade with Russia and her satellites when everybody knows Russia would be frustrated in her rearmament program if the screws were put on trade relations with the Communist bloc.

Great Britain doesn't hesitate to put the screws on weak and helpless Iran by denying sterling exchange to that ill-fated country, which seeks to retain its sovereignty through a nationalization law just as did the British Labor Government. In the last few days Britain has cut off sterling and dollars from Iran, which is an illustration of what the British government can do when it really wants to stop trade with an unfriendly country.

The main protest here is that Secretary Acheson has not used his power and influence to persuade Great Britain to stop her trade with the Communists, nor has he offered American compensation to the British for the small amount of financial loss that would be involved. It has just been announced that despite bumper crops of wheat in the United States and Canada, Britain is buying 200,000 tons of wheat from Russia, which is merely a way of furnishing dollars or pounds to the Russians so they can buy raw materials with which to build up the Communist armies in the Far East.

Britain has, for example, been increasing her rubber exports to Russia to help furnish tires for the trucks and planes that are used to carry weapons to kill American boys in Korea.

The failure of Secretary Acheson on strategy or policy in Iran is also something for public discussion. It is revealed now through press dispatches from Teheran that Ambassador Henry F. Grady has just resigned because Secretary Acheson went along with the British and refused to follow a course recommended by the American ambassador which would have protected the prestige of the United States in the middle east from being sullied with the unpopular record of British Colonialism in that area.

But the main argument against the Truman-Acheson policies will involve the highly controversial subject of relations with China, it being contended by the critics that Mr. Acheson was gullible and allowed communistically inclined advisers to sway Department of State policy and thus lose 400,000,000 Chinese to Communist control. It is a healthy thing for a democracy to debate these things in a national election, and Mr. Truman is to be commended for wishing to fight the issue out in the 1952 campaign with Mr. Acheson as his principal associate and spokesman.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 16—The Big Republicans are a lot of conceited yellow-bellies without the slightest moral or political integrity. Nevertheless, because they intend to contribute a few hundred or a few thousand dollars each to the campaign funds, they have the effrontery to regard themselves as a sort of board of directors of the party with the right to pick the candidate who will be the alternative to Truman when the people go to the polls to decide not merely the presidency for the next quadrennium but the fate of the nation.

It is no exaggeration to say that the fate of the nation will be decided in that election because if Truman gets a third term he will no longer have to affect the few remaining restraints upon a brutal, vulgar, reckless nature, so ominously revealed in his give 'em-speeches and his vicious letters. His Marxian manipulators, centered in New York, then will have a willing agent for their plans. These plans are, at the minimum, a duplication here of the essentials of the British Socialism, the last stop this side of Moscow, and probably a spread of the present war with Russia far beyond the localized Korean front. Truman and Roosevelt never have been able to operate the nation's economy without war as the principal customer and stimulant to employment. And the horrible old frauds of the union movement, incapable of any thought beyond their own power, their paltry vanity and their bellies, already have declared themselves in on the false boodle of the third and final world war.

There seems to be no other hope of restraining them and smashing the power of their organizations except Robert H. Taft. War is the only economic program of the Democratic party and its covert operators and war, of course, inevitably will wipe out the American economy if the War Party is elected again.

Yet, Republicans of cynical mien, the kind who think they are clever and original when they speak of "compromise" as a good substitute for victory, turn down Senator Taft offhand with the observation that although he is by far the best man to stand off doom, they would rather win with Eisenhower than lose with Taft. The conviction that their best man can't win is the best propaganda that the Marxian Truman conspiracy could want. And nobody is more active in spreading it than the very men who should be hollering up Taft's abilities and his chances.

Why can't Taft win? The reason is so shallow as to throw serious doubt on the right of the American people to the privilege of self-government. He has no political sex appeal. He is, in other words, and honest, intellectual patriot with the belly for a fight and a gentleman who will not resort to the language which prompted Bernard Baruch, in the only moment of honest courage in all his political life, to call Truman "a rude, uncouth, ignorant man." Taft won't threaten to commit mayhem on Truman or write filthy letters, but he showed in 1948 and again in his senatorial re-election campaign that he wouldn't back away when the goons of the CIO and the A. F. of L. threatened him and his wife with mob assault.

How do these plush-pelt Republicans, these posturing dead-end kids, in their intervals between their poker games in their New York deadfall near the park, come to the conclusion that Taft can't win? Has he ever lost? How can they say he won't fight? Who fought through the Taft-Hartley law, the only victory for the people over the entrenched mob of murdering unioneers with their unlimited taxing power over almost fifteen million faceless serfs? Taft did it. Taft confronted the gangs in their own strongholds and never stepped back an inch.

The pathetic yearning for Eisenhower is the measure of the integrity and ability of petty name-droppers of the Republican directorate who think they are impressing lesser men by speaking familiarly of "Ike" and "Bob." Even if he should declare himself to be an orthodox Republican, Eisenhower would still have a ghastly guilt in the present tragic situation from which he is now trying to extricate us in Europe. He never raised his voice against the Russian onrush into Germany which overwhelmed Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Baltic and Balkans. And, after the war, he lacked the guts to defend the beaten German people from the revenge

In a recent letter to The Freeman, the Regent of Wilwyck Chapter, National Society, Daughters of American Revolution calls attention to the signing of the Constitution, which we observe today.

The Regent, Celeste K. Porter, states that by this action the blessing of representative government was made possible for the first time in the history of the world. Let us give special recognition to this anniversary, and to the indomitable courage of those who gave us the Constitution, a part of our priceless heritage.

There has been an announcement to the effect that the original copies of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence are to be protected henceforth from air, insects and the touch of human hands. Sealed in indivdual glass cases filled with helium, the separate pages will be visible yet guarded against handling and deterioration. Thus it is hoped that the paper and ink of the documents may be preserved for future generations.

Their substance, however, cannot be preserved by any such device. The ideas and principles which are the Constitution and the Declaration can be saved only by being exposed constantly to light and air, by being kept out in the open where they can be examined and re-examined, handled and used, attacked and defended.

It is well and good to protect these precious papers, to keep them where they only may be looked at, like the most treasured pieces of family china, and safe behind glass doors of the dining room cupboard. But the body of principles and beliefs must be kept closer to us, like the familiar pieces depended on for daily use, always put within instant reach.

If prices don't come down soon the chances of some office-holders may.

BENEDICTINE HOSPITAL DRIVE

General Co-chairmen Senator Arthur H. Wicks and James A. Dwyer have announced that on Thursday, September 20 the drive to raise $600,000 for the Benedictine Hospital will get underway.

The amount is necessary to help defray the cost of construction and outfitting the two new wings. The total cost will be around $2,000,000.

This fall marks the golden anniversary of the Benedictine Hospital. Since the four courageous sisters started the local hospital 50 years ago, the equivalent of every man, woman and child in Ulster county has been a patient at the hospital.

In the last five years, 24,133 patients were admitted to Benedictine Hospital and of this number, 20 per cent were from outside Kingston.

Babies delivered in this period totaled 2,428 and a total of 9,006 operations were performed. A total of 1,403 non-paying patients were given free service. This number, based on the average national hospital rate represents $24,049.50 of free care.

This increasing community service makes necessary the additions, which will have the most modern equipment. When the building program is completed, the staff, which like the patients are of all races and faiths, will be better able to serve the public.

Gifts will be sought in the form of pledges for subscriptions over a 36-month period. Here is a community project that should have the generous support of all the people of the county.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

CO-EXISTENCE

In orthodox Marxism, it is axiomatic that heaven on earth will be achieved when all of mankind accepts the dogma of socialism. The argument has raged among Marxists as to whether socialism could succeed in one country alone or had to be universal. The quarrel between Stalin and Trotzky was partly over this question. Stalin had Trotzky killed in Mexico.

Now a phrase is being used again to give the impression that Marxian orthodoxy is accepting the dogma that socialism and capitalism, Sovietism and democracy can live together in peace and harmony. The phrase is, co-existence. The problem it presents is how two opposite and divergent civilizations can exist simultaneously in close contact.

Juliusz Katz-Suchy, Poland's representative to the United Nations, says:

"War economy, it seemed, had become an indispensable condition for the maintenance of the capitalist system. Such an economy . . . entailed a fall in living standards, a limitation of social services, the curtailment of housing construction, and increased difficulties for the weaker economies. This was proof that the system was losing every social reason for its existence."

While this is undoubtedly in part true only because of our mixed economy in time of war which inhibits capitalist freedom, the competitive play which is essential to its success, it is also true in the Communist countries which have remained on a war basis continuously since the end of World War II. In fact, captive countries, such as Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Soviet China, have been mobilized for permanent war.

What such a man as the Polish diplomat does not understand is that the essence of American life is not the standard of living but the freedom of life. What can be said of this situation in the world today is that capitalism, Fabian socialism, and communism co-exist on a war basis and are producing in this world a lowering standard of living and shortages in raw materials and therefore in manufactured consumers' goods. But there is a difference between us and them in that here the individual retains his freedom whereas in the Soviet world, he is a creature of the state. When this difference disappears, if it ever should, we shall be alike.

If co-existence means anything, it has come to mark a period of universal misfortune, increasing fear, depreciated currencies, and a lowered standard of living, but it need not mean destruction of our civilization.

The Communist countries are anxious to develop an East-West trade to the maximum. That is, they want to increase their trade with their enemies. In this, they are joined by Great Britain, a country whose shopkeeping instincts focus realistically on the dogma that trade is the life-blood of national existence. To both the Communists and the Fabian Socialists, trade could go on even while a war is being fought, as in Korea.

In fact, now that the Japanese have regained their sovereignty, their eyes will turn, not unnaturally, to the prospects of trade with the continent of Asia, particularly with Soviet China which, from Manchuria, can ship soy-beans and such items to Japan and take from that country the manufacutres Japan needs to sell. Japan fought four wars for that trade and in the end lost it. But the Japanese, who despise the Chinese Communists, would not mind their trade. Great Britain, which is engaged in both a hot and cold war against communism, still seeks the trade of Soviet China.

"It was now clear that the so-called 'economic assistance' under the Marshal Plan was a means of linking the economies of the recipient countries to that of the United States, depriving them once and for all of any possibility of following an independent economic policy. As for the so-called Schuman plan, that was designed to meet the requirements of the Atlantic Pact war machinery and to serve the interests of United States imperialism and its ally, German Neo-Fascism."

Suppose all this were correct, which it is not, the fact remains that the Soviet world aims at an integrated economic system in which the Kremlin determines the production and use of all commodities, including those of its satellites. Poland, for instance, is now not even a satellite; it is a province of Soviet Russia, directly under its control, in economics as in politics, in ideas and ideals as in the training and education of its children. This is a battle not only of differing economic systems but of civilizations.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

OPERATION FOR LOSS OF HEARING

A few years ago I wrote about what is called the fenestration or window operation for otosclerosis (formation of spongy bone in inner ear.) When sound strikes the outer side of the drum of the ear, the drum vibrates three small bones in middle ear which, in turn, strike a window of the inner ear. This window, oval in shape, strikes against the fluid of inner ear, then moves the membrane to which the "hearing" nerve is attached. The sound is carried by this nerve to the brain. In some individuals a small deposit of bone forms which prevents the oval window from moving or vibrating. Therefore it cannot move sound inward through the fluid to the hearing nerve.

The fenestration operation is performed to provide another window in place of the window with the bony deposit. The operation is performed by enlarging the ear canal and boring a hole in the bone enclosing the inner ear in which is the fluid and nerve ending. It is in the catarrhal form of deafness and deafness due to bony deposit against the window that this operation is particularly successful. It helps about one in six cases of deafness.

As there has been considerable controversy over the results of the fenestration operation, a report by two outstanding ear specialists, Drs. L. E. Adin and G. E. Shamburgh, Jr., on the long term results of fenestration is of real interest. In the American Medical Association Archives of Otolaryngology (ear and throat) we learn that these ear specialists followed 390 patients for five to 10 years after the operation. The hearing of 70 per cent of the patients showed significant and sustained improvement; some of their early gain in hearing had been lost but they had kept a usable level of hearing; five per cent had no improvement in hearing and five per cent had further bony closures although some of these cases with closures were helped by a further operation.

In other words, the hearing of 90 per cent of cases undergoing operation showed some improvement in hearing.

Our ear specialists point out that the fenestration operation is used only in selected cases for deafness due to catarrhal inflammation. It is not recommended for other forms of deafness; this is important to remember because anyone with loss of hearing is usually eager to undergo any form of treatment, surgical or otherwise, if there is a chance to have their hearing restored.

One More Hurdle

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The men who run the Senate Finance Committee are among the wealthiest in Congress, including five millionaires. Most of the others have large outside incomes well above their $15,000-a-year Senate salaries.

Yet these well-heeled senators have just finished drafting a complicated new tax bill that will spare the rich and soak the poor more than at any time since the days of Andy Mellon. It is literally polkadotted with loopholes to benefit special, private interests all the way from mine owners to oyster-shell dealers.

What the Senate Finance Committee has done is trim one and a half billions off the House tax bill, in such a way that 90 per cent of this tax savings goes to the rich who can afford to pay more. Only a paltry $200 million will be cut off the tax bill of the small-income people who earn less than $5,000 per year.

For example, the House approved a 12½ per cent boost in individual income taxes. The Senate Committee cut this to 11 per cent, then threw in a clause for the special benefit of some of their own group. This clause would limit the increase to 8 per cent of all income remaining after taxes paid under the present law. The way this works out, it would benefit single people making more than $27,000 a year, or married couples making over $54,000 a year. The loss to the treasury is estimated at half a billion dollars annually and the low-bracket taxpayer gets no benefit.

The Senate Committee also reduced taxes on corporations, which are now earning at the rate of $50 billion per year—the largest profits in history. Most of these profits are coming from the Korean war boom, yet the Finance Committee whittled down the excess-profits tax to the tune of an estimated $750 million.

In just one stroke, the senators saved the big corporations another approximately half a billion dollars. The House had adopted the normal procedure and had voted corporate tax increases to take effect as of Jan. 1, 1951. However, the Senate changed this tax date to April 1, 1951.

Children Count as Partners

Though the House had already added a few loopholes to the tax bill, the Senate Finance Committee adopted all the House loopholes and added several more of its own. Here are some of the most glaring loopholes, designed to save taxes to the wealthy but add to the tax burden of the poor:

1. Individual incomes are taxable up to 90 per cent. However, capital gains are taxable up to only 25 per cent. The House voted, and the senators approved, a loophole by which coal royalties would be capital gains. This is a bonanza for the coal-mine owner, putting him in a special category from other businessmen such as the apartment-house owner, for instance, who cannot charge up rents as a capital gain.

2. A farmer or workman can now reduce his taxes by splitting his income with his wife. However, the House voted to allow businessmen the sepecial privilege of splitting their income with their entire families, under certain conditions. Thus, in some cases a businessman could count his children, including newborn babies, as full-fledged business partners and thus reduce his tax load. The senators not only accepted this loophole, but made it retroactive all the way back to 1939. This means a saving of several hundred million dollars to businessmen, which will have to be made up by other taxpayers.

3. Oil and gas owners now have a special loophole, which enables them to deduct 27½ per cent of their investment each year. This would be the same as 27-½ per cent reduction from a wage earner's gross salary—only the wage earner isn't allowed it.

After four years, the oilmen's entire investment has been deducted, yet under the new bill they can continue taking 27-½ per cent additional deductions each year. Instead of closing this gaping loophole, the senators allowed similar but lesser deductions for several other industries—sand and gravel, clay, tile, asbestos, salt, oyster shells, clam shells and many others.

Beef Cattle Bonanza

4. In addition to the benefits for coal-mine owners, another special tax loophole was voted by the House for mining industry generally. This permits full tax deductions for the development of new mines. The senators not only accepted this but added on a $75,000 tax deduction for exploration cost.

5. The House permitted livestock breeders to count their income as capital gains. The senators accepted this and added turkey breeders to boot, since one turkey-breeding senator is a member of the committee. This new capital-gains bonanza on cattle is why dairy farmers are going out of the milk business in favor of raising blue-ribbon show herds which they can sell at a huge capital-gains profit.

The five millionaire senators who drafted this rich man's tax bill behind closed doors are Bob Kerr of Oklahoma and Harry Byrd of Virginia, Democrats; Gene Milliken of Colorado, Bob Taft of Ohio, and Ed Martin of Pennsylvania, Republicans. Also on the committee, and men of large incomes are: Clyde Hoey of North Carolina, Allen Frear of Delaware, Democrats; Hugh Butler of Nebraska, cattle raiser; Owen Brewster of Maine, and John Williams of Delaware, a turkey raiser; Republicans. Two other members of the committee are well off but not wealthy—Walter George of Georgia, chairman, and Ed Johnson of Colorado, both Democrats.

Texas' Tom Connally, also a member of the committee, is wealthy, but has a long record for voting in favor of the small taxpayer. Aside from Connally, the small taxpayer is not represented on the committee.

However, Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrat, will lead the fight on the Senate floor to close the tax loopholes. He will be backstopped by a group of Democratic senators including millionaires Lehman of New York, Benton of Connecticut, and Green of Rhode Island.

The Prophetic Lake

The Prophetic Lake. Twice in this century the Lake of Sindanglava, Java, ran completely dry. The first time was August 1, 1914, the day World War 1 broke out. The bottom of the lake opened suddenly and the water disappeared. It gradually returned and by 1921 the lake was again full. On Sept. 1, 1939 the lake again ran dry. This was the day Hitler invaded Poland, and the waters have not returned. The lake is 500 feet long, 400 feet wide and 225 feet deep.

Elmer Backs Safety

Halifax (AP)—He says "hello" by waving his nose. His eyes are bright, his smile friendly. His name is Elmer the Elephant. Canadian Kinsmen Clubs, at their national convention here recently, chose him as a national symbol for a safety campaign for school children. Soon his picture will hang in hundreds of schools across Canada. Already Elmer banners fly from many schools' flagstaffs. The Elmer-for-Safety idea, originated by a Toronto newspaper, "The Telegram," has helped to make Toronto a safe city for children.

Republicans Are Pleased Over Truman-Acheson Situation, for It Offers 1952 Issues

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 17—The Republicans secretly are very glad that President Truman has decided to retain Secretary of State Acheson for the remainder of this presidential term, because that means the Truman-Acheson policies will be one of the main issues of the 1952 campaign.

If Mr. Truman runs again, he will be asked on the stump to state whether he will keep Mr. Acheson for four years more. He will doubtless answer in the affirmative.

If somebody other than Mr. Truman runs on the Democratic ticket, he, too, will be asked whether he intends to keep Dean Acheson as secretary of state.

This is as it should be. For the best way a republic can function is to give the people clear-cut issues in elections and opportunities to vote "yes" or "no" on concrete points of public policy.

This correspondent has defended Mr. Acheson as a loyal American with not the slightest grain of sympathy in his make-up for Communist imperialism, and has even defended his right to say what he did about Alger Hiss, but the indictment of the Department of State today rests on far more serious grounds. It is not a question of personalities but of principle.

The indictment primarily is that both President Truman and Secretary Acheson have bowed in submission to the British foreign office, allowing American boys in Korea to be stabbed in the back by British commercialism and accepting British interference which has prevented the Korean war from being fought as it should have been from a military standpoint.

The indictment covers the fact, too, that while the American people are being taxed heavily and are spending billions of dollars to ward off a possible Russian attack, Great Britain is being allowed to trade with Russia and her satellites when everybody knows Russia would be frustrated in her rearmament program if the screws were put on trade relations with the Communist bloc.

Great Britain doesn't hesitate to put the screws on weak and helpless Iran by denying sterling exchange to that ill-fated country, which seeks to retain its sovereignty through a nationalization law just as did the British Labor Government. In the last few days Britain has cut off sterling and dollars from Iran, which is an illustration of what the British government can do when it really wants to stop trade with an unfriendly country.

The main protest here is that Secretary Acheson has not used his power and influence to persuade Great Britain to stop her trade with the Communists, nor has he offered American compensation to the British for the small amount of financial loss that would be involved. It has just been announced that despite bumper crops of wheat in the United States and Canada, Britain is buying 200,000 tons of wheat from Russia, which is merely a way of furnishing dollars or pounds to the Russians so they can buy raw materials with which to build up the Communist armies in the Far East.

Britain has, for example, been increasing her rubber exports to Russia to help furnish tires for the trucks and planes that are used to carry weapons to kill American boys in Korea.

The failure of Secretary Acheson on strategy or policy in Iran is also something for public discussion. It is revealed now through press dispatches from Teheran that Ambassador Henry F. Grady has just resigned because Secretary Acheson went along with the British and refused to follow a course recommended by the American ambassador which would have protected the prestige of the United States in the middle east from being sullied with the unpopular record of British Colonialism in that area.

But the main argument against the Truman-Acheson policies will involve the highly controversial subject of relations with China, it being contended by the critics that Mr. Acheson was gullible and allowed communistically inclined advisers to sway Department of State policy and thus lose 400,000,000 Chinese to Communist control. It is a healthy thing for a democracy to debate these things in a national election, and Mr. Truman is to be commended for wishing to fight the issue out in the 1952 campaign with Mr. Acheson as his principal associate and spokesman.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 16—The Big Republicans are a lot of conceited yellow-bellies without the slightest moral or political integrity. Nevertheless, because they intend to contribute a few hundred or a few thousand dollars each to the campaign funds, they have the effrontery to regard themselves as a sort of board of directors of the party with the right to pick the candidate who will be the alternative to Truman when the people go to the polls to decide not merely the presidency for the next quadrennium but the fate of the nation.

It is no exaggeration to say that the fate of the nation will be decided in that election because if Truman gets a third term he will no longer have to affect the few remaining restraints upon a brutal, vulgar, reckless nature, so ominously revealed in his give 'em-speeches and his vicious letters. His Marxian manipulators, centered in New York, then will have a willing agent for their plans. These plans are, at the minimum, a duplication here of the essentials of the British Socialism, the last stop this side of Moscow, and probably a spread of the present war with Russia far beyond the localized Korean front. Truman and Roosevelt never have been able to operate the nation's economy without war as the principal customer and stimulant to employment. And the horrible old frauds of the union movement, incapable of any thought beyond their own power, their paltry vanity and their bellies, already have declared themselves in on the false boodle of the third and final world war.

There seems to be no other hope of restraining them and smashing the power of their organizations except Robert H. Taft. War is the only economic program of the Democratic party and its covert operators and war, of course, inevitably will wipe out the American economy if the War Party is elected again.

Yet, Republicans of cynical mien, the kind who think they are clever and original when they speak of "compromise" as a good substitute for victory, turn down Senator Taft offhand with the observation that although he is by far the best man to stand off doom, they would rather win with Eisenhower than lose with Taft. The conviction that their best man can't win is the best propaganda that the Marxian Truman conspiracy could want. And nobody is more active in spreading it than the very men who should be hollering up Taft's abilities and his chances.

Why can't Taft win? The reason is so shallow as to throw serious doubt on the right of the American people to the privilege of self-government. He has no political sex-appeal. He is, in other words, and honest, intellectual patriot with the belly for a fight and a gentleman who will not resort to the language which prompted Bernard Baruch, in the only moment of honest courage in all his political life, to call Truman "a rude, uncouth, ignorant man." Taft won't threaten to commit mayhem on Truman or write filthy letters, but he showed in 1948 and again in his senatorial re-election campaign that he wouldn't back away when the goons of the CIO and the A. F. of L. threatened him and his wife with mob assault.

How do these plush-pelt Republicans, these posturing dead-end kids, in their intervals between their poker games in their New York deadfall near the park, come to the conclusion that Taft can't win? Has he ever lost? How can they say he won't fight? Who fought through the Taft-Hartley law, the only victory for the people over the entrenched mob of murdering unioneers with their unlimited taxing power over almost fifteen million faceless serfs? Taft did it. Taft confronted the gangs in their own strongholds and never stepped back an inch.

The pathetic yearning for Eisenhower is the measure of the integrity and ability of petty name-droppers of the Republican directorate who think they are impressing lesser men by speaking familiarly of "Ike" and "Bob." Even if he should declare himself to be an orthodox Republican, Eisenhower would still have a ghastly guilt in the present tragic situation from which he is now trying to extricate us in Europe. He never raised his voice against the Russian onrush into Germany which overwhelmed Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Baltic and Balkans. And, after the war, he lacked the guts to defend the beaten German people from the revenge

Q—Was Helen of Troy a real person?

A—No, she was a character of ancient Greek mythology. Helen, the most beautiful of women, was the heroine of the Trojan War.

Q—Where is the deepest spot yet found in any ocean?

A—Cape Johnson Deep, located in an undersea canyon called the Mindanao Trench, in the Philippine Sea. On July 14, 1915, the Cape Johnson sounded a depth of 34,440 feet. The hole would hold 27 Empire State buildings.

Feed Supplies Are Abundant in State

Albany, Sept. 17—Supplies of home grown grains and roughage for the feeding of dairy cattle and other livestock are at about the same level as a year ago.

The 1951 crops of small grains in New York total 1,037,000 tons and are nearly three per cent more than in 1950 and 39 per cent more than the 10-year (1940-49) production, according to the federal-state crop report for September from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. Reductions below last year in wheat and buckwheat production were more than offset by a larger oats crop.

The 1951 hay crop of 6,243,000 tons is two per cent more than last year and six per cent above average. Frequent rains during the normal harvest period prolonged this operation and at the same time damaged the quality of considerable quantities of cured, partly dried hay before it could be moved to the barns. This reduces the feeding value.

The 1951 corn crop is widely variable in growth and maturity throughout the state. In total, it appears to be about one per cent less than last season, although 21 per cent more than average. In the past two years about 62 per cent of the corn acreage was cut for silage, eight per cent for fresh green feed and dry forage and 30 per cent husked for grain. The heavy job of "filling silo," already started, will continue into October.

Pasture conditions on September 1 were unusually good for the late summer season in much of the state but had deteriorated rather sharply in some of the western and southern tier counties, where protracted dry weather had retarded growth. On the whole, pasture feed has been reasonably abundant this summer.

Nationally, the 1951 feed grain crops appear adequate to insure New York farmers the necessarily large amount of grain required for feeding, in addition to home grown supplies. Cotton-seed, flax and soybeans, important for livestock because of the high protein feeds obtained as a by-product of oil extraction, will also be plentiful.

Weak, Run-Down Men and Women

Often Feel and Act Years Younger When They Take Ferrizan

Thousands of men and women with their youth behind them are finding the strain of modern life and work exhausting—their energy and vitality gone—their vitality and strength at a low ebb. Often because they fail to get from their food the proper amount of Iron and Iodine, and the necessary valuable vitamins every one needs if they expect to regain and retain a normal, healthy body.

Is it surprising that Doctors tell such folks to ease up—get more rest—give their tired nerves and body a chance to get well—and take vitamins? Certainly not. The Vitamin-Mineral way is the modern way—the tested, proven way; and one right way is to take Ferrizan, the complete modern dietary supplement that gives you each and every day a full supply of the important B Vitamins, with plenty of Iron to enrich the blood and the full daily requirement of that most important element—Iodine, so universally deficient in inland areas.

To all who suffer from these depressing symptoms we say, "try Ferrizan at our risk for thirty days. See if it doesn't bring about a remarkable improvement. If it fails or if you are in any way dissatisfied, it won't cost you a penny," says United Cut Rate Pharmacy.

Cooperation Is Called Need in Drugs Cases

Lake George, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP)—The chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Interstate and Federal Cooperation says the "drug menace has sharpened the need for further interstate and Federal cooperation" in control of crime.

Elisha T. Barrett made the statement in advance of the opening today of a two-day committee conference here.

Barrett, Republican Assemblyman from Suffolk county, said the group would work for "uniformity and cooperation among the states and between the states and the Federal Government to establish a complete, and where possible, a uniform pattern" of crime control.

Assemblyman Malcolm Wilson said that a study of New York's commerce and economic development was expected to result in legislation aimed at "full realization of the state's potential."

The Westchester Republican added in a prepared speech that the study already was underway.

Wilson, chairman of the committee on commerce and economic development, said:

"The utilization of the state's vast natural resources and our large supply of skilled labor in the most effective manner is the goal for which all who are interested in the interest of our people quite properly strive."

Jacoby on Canasta

No Rule to Follow for This Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"You have never commented," writes a Denver fan, "on the practice of melding all but two of a group that you pick up in a big pack. For example, suppose you win a big discard pile that contains five kings and six queens. Our habit out here is to meld three of the kings and four of the queens. A pair is kept in the hand to guard against a freeze. What do you think of this kind of play?"

It all depends on the size of the pack, the status of the opponents, and on whether you have five of a kind or six of a kind. One reason I have not commented on this before is that there is no simple rule to follow in this situation.

Suppose that the opponents have melded and that they already have a canasta. The danger of an immediate meld-out is very strong. It may be essential to meld nearly your entire hand. If your partner gets a turn, he may be able to complete an additional canasta or two. Neither of you can expect to get more than two or three turns at most.

Suppose, to take the other extreme, that the opponents have not yet melded, that they need a count of 120 points, and that your side has most of the jokers and aces. It is obvious that the opponents are going to have difficulty making their initial meld. There is no need to worry about a fast meld-out. In this situation you hold melds back.

It is seldom possible to see your course quite so clearly as in the extreme examples we have just discussed. Usually the opponents have melded but have not yet made a canasta; and it may be hard to know how near to a meld-out either opponent happens to be. Here you must be guided by the way the opponents have been discarding and by your knowledge of those particular opponents and their playing habits.

If you feel quite safe in holding back melds, it is often wise to put down nothing at all. Keeping a pair renders you safe against a squeeze provided you have a multitude of safe discards; keeping the entire group of five or six gives you both safety and also a large number of safe discards.

If you feel midway between safety and danger, it is sound to put down three of a kind and save a pair. With six of a kind, however, put down all six. Your partner can complete the canasta if he has the seventh. If you put down only four and your partner adds one, you will feel very foolish if the right-hand opponent then melds out before you can complete the canasta.

Health for All

LONG LIFE FOR TEETH

Many of us live in fear and dread of the day when we shall have to wear dentures, or false teeth. Perfect or not, our own, natural teeth are far more preferable to the finest "store-bought" dentures.

For many people, the day when plates must be fitted could be postponed for years with just a little sensible care of natural, "second" teeth. While the formation and biulding of teeth take place in early childhood, dental health can be safeguarded in adulthood if three general rules are observed: Keep the teeth clean, visit the dentist regularly, and eat a sensible diet of nourishing foods.

Although we cannot be certain that "a clean tooth is a healthy tooth," cleanliness helps cut down decay. There are bacteria present in everyone's mouth, most of them harmless but some of them capable of manufacturing acids from the bits of food remaining on or between the teeth. These acids can eat through the protective enamel covering of the teeth, enabling bacteria which causes decay to get into the teeth. As decay sets in, toothache results and the pain is nature's warning that the life of the tooth is in danger.

Whenever possible, it is a good idea to brush the teeth soon after meals. A good toothbrush with firm bristles serves the purpose best and the brush should be replaced with a new one as soon as it becomes limp or soggy. There are many good toothpastes and powders on the market today, but the dentist is the best source of advice on the cleansing agent to be used.

Regular visits to the dentist are a sound health habit. Most people find it advisable to visit the dentist about every six months, but the dentist is the best judge of how frequently the individual should come for a checkup. The dentist's periodic treatments can save pain, loss of teeth, and money in the long run.

While we can't "re-build" teeth in adulthood, a good diet will help keep teeth and gums healthy. It is wise to include in our daily diet the following foods: Milk and milk products; meat, fish, or poultry; cooked and raw vegetables and fruits; cereals and bread, and eggs and butter.

It is also good to remember that teeth were meant for chewing food—not for cracking nuts, holding pins, biting off threads, or opening bobby pins. These seemingly harmless habits eventually weaken and injure teeth. The person who is kind to his teeth has the best chance of avoiding toothache and holding on to his precious natural teeth.

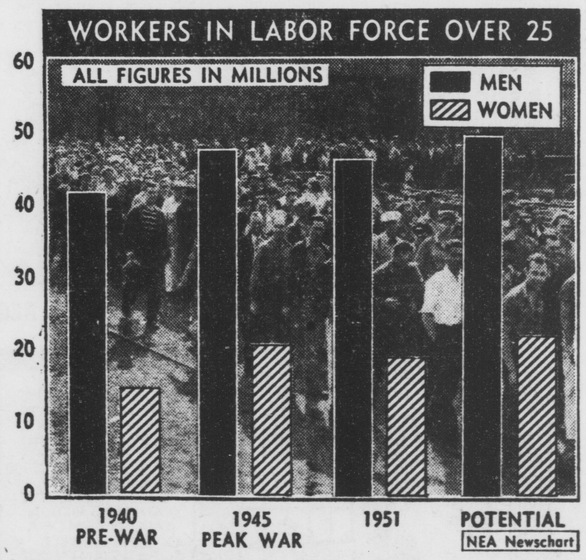
Cholera Report

Singapore (AP)—The Singapore government announced it had received information that cholera exists in Calcutta, Kanpur, Lucknow, Madras and Pondicherry. It declared all to be "infected places" under the quarantine and prevention of disease ordinance.



MANPOWER SITUATION—As the U. S. steps up its defense production, securing additional labor becomes ever more important. The above Newschart shows the number of workers in the labor force at three critical times. If the situation demands it, the labor force can be increased to an estimated 48.4 million men, and 20.7 million women compared to 46.4 million men and 19.8 million women who were working during 1945, according to Bureau of Labor Statistics figures.

TV Control Boss Dies at His Post

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—With their boss dead at the control board, four electricians behaved like real troupers last night and didn't miss a cue as the zany Spike Jones television show went on.

Frank Joseph Elsner, 76, was stricken with a heart attack and slumped against the big control board with about 40 minutes of the hour-long show still to go.

Two of the electricians—close friends of Elsner—had tears in their eyes as they went about their work, close by his body.

And nothing appeared wrong to televiewers of 43 stations on a National Broadcasting Company network from Boston to Jacksonville, Fla., and west to Omaha.

Presence backstage of a police emergency squad, which worked with doctors without success to revive Elsner, tipped 150-odd performers and technicians that something was wrong. But they didn't know what.

Elsner had been chief electrician of the Center Theatre since it was built in 1932.

Plans Are Underway

A committee of Union Hose Company 4 already has been formed and is making plans to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the organization. It is expected that the celebration will take the form of a dinner and open house at the fire house on East Union street. A tentative date has been set for Oct. 24. The guest of honor will be Christopher J. Burke, a charter member.

Runaway Circus Train

By FRANK TRIPP

Maybe every boy will feel the urge to ride on a diesel—even to run it. Still there doesn't seem to be the juvenile affection for the diesel that was bestowed upon the puffing locomotives. There's something about whirling drivers and exhausting steam which the diesel lacks.

All of which only prefaces an urge to tell of wonderful hours spent as a boy in the cab of my father's engine. It is the one thing for which I can remember being envied; something I couldn't share with my playmates, for even in those days I rode at risk of pop's job.

The ride that most stands out in my memory was in the night, on a runaway circus train. To ride on any engine was a thrill, but to ride the engine of a circus train! And then to have it run away, down a hill with a 140 foot grade to the mile—oh boy!

* * *

THE ORIGINAL Barnum & Bailey, "greatest show on earth," was leaving our town over my father's road and he was to haul one section. Days of teasing finally won me a ride. I was only 10 and my first midnight ride on an engine had been granted me with parental reluctance.

We were the first to leave, with the menagerie section, or part of it. I saw the elephants loaded; camels and caged wagons of lions, tigers, jaguars, monkeys and snakes. Then I took my place in the engine cab, in front of my father, on a nail keg. Back past the trainload of wild beasts the conductor's lantern semi-circled and we were off. The greatest night any boy ever lived was under way.

What would I not give to live again those moments as I peered into the dark, saw the shining rails and jumping phantoms ahead, felt the thrust and rumble of the driving rods beneath me and heard the roar of wheels and shriek of whistle.

On curves I looked back at the gaudy cars loaded with animals from every clime. I conjured strange thoughts about them. How they took this ride every night; about their life in captivity and what they would do if released into the forests through which we were passing. For an hour these muses possessed me, until I became sleepy and could barely keep my eyes open.

Then the engine cab filled with steam. My father whistled frantically for brakes. We were running away down Swartwood Hill.

* * *

THIS WAS in the day before air brakes. Trainmen rode the tops of cars carrying hickory sticks with which to wind up the brakes on each separate car. The only power brake was the steam brake on the engine. This night the engineer's brake valve blew out, filled the cab with burning steam and rendered the engine brakes useless. On the steep grade the heavy train was out of control. Brakemen could not get from car to car. They clung flat on their stomachs to the runways atop the cars.

Speed gathered. The wild ride was frightening. I was thrown to the floor of the cab. I could not see my father. He was groping for the master valve to shut off the flow of scalding steam which was enveloping us.

The wheels crunched and shrieked against the rails. We were rounding curves, dashing through cuts and over high trestles. My dream of animals free might come true, but would I be alive to see them?

A dozen times the engine leaned off the rails, first on one side, then the other, but landed back on them again. My father lifted me from the cab floor, braced himself against the boiler, hugged me close to him, leaned over and kissed me—goodbye, I guess he thought. We were beyond human ability to save us.

* * *

BUT GOD rode with the circus that night. Telegraph poles dashed past like fence posts. We passed Swartwood station as fast as man ever rode till came airplanes. Miraculously we reached the base of the grade.

We were safe at last, on a level straightaway. Pop whistled for brakes again. Slowly the brakemen could crawl from car to car. Gradually speed slackened. Floyd Zimmerman came over from the fireman's side. "My God, Ed, what ever kept her on the rails?" he said.

"It was the boy, I guess," my father patted me and said.

Then he spoke to me and made me very sad: "Boy, enjoy yourself tonight, for this is your last ride"—but it wasn't.

No, we didn't have any autos, radio or movies. Kids then only had minor thrills like this.

Feed Supplies Are Abundant in State

Albany, Sept. 17—Supplies of home grown grains and roughage for the feeding of dairy cattle and other livestock are at about the same level as a year ago.

The 1951 crops of small grains in New York total 1,037,000 tons and are nearly three per cent more than in 1950 and 39 per cent more than the 10-year (1940-49) production, according to the federal-state crop report for September from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. Reductions below last year in wheat and buckwheat production were more than offset by a larger oats crop.

The 1951 hay crop of 6,243,000 tons is two per cent more than last year and six per cent above average. Frequent rains during the normal harvest period prolonged this operation and at the same time damaged the quality of considerable quantities of cured, partly dried hay before it could be moved to the barns. This reduces the feeding value.

The 1951 corn crop is widely variable in growth and maturity throughout the state. In total, it appears to be about one per cent less than last season, although 21 per cent more than average. In the past two years about 62 per cent of the corn acreage was cut for silage, eight per cent for fresh green feed and dry forage and 30 per cent husked for grain. The heavy job of "filling silo," already started, will continue into October.

Pasture conditions on September 1 were unusually good for the late summer season in much of the state but had deteriorated rather sharply in some of the western and southern tier counties, where protracted dry weather had retarded growth. On the whole, pasture feed has been reasonably abundant this summer.

Nationally, the 1951 feed grain crops appear adequate to insure New York farmers the necessarily large amount of grain required for feeding, in addition to home grown supplies. Cotton-seed, flax and soybeans, important for livestock because of the high protein feeds obtained as a by-product of oil extraction, will also be plentiful.

Weak, Run-Down Men and Women

Often Feel and Act Years Younger When They Take Ferrizan

Thousands of men and women with their youth behind them are finding the strain of modern life and work exhausting—their energy and vitality gone—their vitality and strength at a low ebb. Often because they fail to get from their food the proper amount of Iron and Iodine, and the necessary valuable vitamins every one needs if they expect to regain and retain a normal, healthy body.

Is it surprising that Doctors tell such folks to ease up—get more rest—give their tired nerves and body a chance to get well—and take vitamins? Certainly not. The Vitamin-Mineral way is the modern way—the tested, proven way; and one right way is to take Ferrizan, the complete modern dietary supplement that gives you each and every day a full supply of the important B Vitamins, with plenty of Iron to enrich the blood and the full daily requirement of that most important element—Iodine, so universally deficient in inland areas.

To all who suffer from these depressing symptoms we say, "try Ferrizan at our risk for thirty days. See if it doesn't bring about a remarkable improvement. If it fails or if you are in any way dissatisfied, it won't cost you a penny," says United Cut Rate Pharmacy.

Cooperation Is Called Need in Drugs Cases

Lake George, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP)—The chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Interstate and Federal Cooperation says the "drug menace has sharpened the need for further interstate and Federal cooperation" in control of crime.

Elisha T. Barrett made the statement in advance of the opening today of a two-day committee conference here.

Barrett, Republican Assemblyman from Suffolk county, said the group would work for "uniformity and cooperation among the states and between the states and the Federal Government to establish a complete, and where possible, a uniform pattern" of crime control.

Assemblyman Malcolm Wilson said that a study of New York's commerce and economic development was expected to result in legislation aimed at "full realization of the state's potential."

The Westchester Republican added in a prepared speech that the study already was underway.

Wilson, chairman of the committee on commerce and economic development, said:

"The utilization of the state's vast natural resources and our large supply of skilled labor in the most effective manner is the goal for which all who are interested in the interest of our people quite properly strive."

Jacoby on Canasta

No Rule to Follow for This Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"You have never commented," writes a Denver fan, "on the practice of melding all but two of a group that you pick up in a big pack. For example, suppose you win a big discard pile that contains five kings and six queens. Our habit out here is to meld three of the kings and four of the queens. A pair is kept in the hand to guard against a freeze. What do you think of this kind of play?"

It all depends on the size of the pack, the status of the opponents, and on whether you have five of a kind or six of a kind. One reason I have not commented on this before is that there is no simple rule to follow in this situation.

Suppose that the opponents have melded and that they already have a canasta. The danger of an immediate meld-out is very strong. It may be essential to meld nearly your entire hand. If your partner gets a turn, he may be able to complete an additional canasta or two. Neither of you can expect to get more than two or three turns at most.

Suppose, to take the other extreme, that the opponents have not yet melded, that they need a count of 120 points, and that your side has most of the jokers and aces. It is obvious that the opponents are going to have difficulty making their initial meld. There is no need to worry about a fast meld-out. In this situation you hold melds back.

It is seldom possible to see your course quite so clearly as in the extreme examples we have just discussed. Usually the opponents have melded but have not yet made a canasta; and it may be hard to know how near to a meld-out either opponent happens to be. Here you must be guided by the way the opponents have been discarding and by your knowledge of those particular opponents and their playing habits.

If you feel quite safe in holding back melds, it is often wise to put down nothing at all. Keeping a pair renders you safe against a squeeze provided you have a multitude of safe discards; keeping the entire group of five or six gives you both safety and also a large number of safe discards.

If you feel midway between safety and danger, it is sound to put down three of a kind and save a pair. With six of a kind; however, put down all six. Your partner can complete the canasta if he has the seventh. If you put down only four and your partner adds one, you will feel very foolish if the right-hand opponent then melds out before you can complete the canasta.

TV Control Boss Dies at His Post

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—With their boss dead at the control board, four electricians behaved like real troupers last night and didn't miss a cue as the zany Spike Jones television show went on.

Frank Joseph Elsner, 76, was stricken with a heart attack and slumped against the big control board with about 40 minutes of the hour-long show still to go.

Two of the electricians—close friends of Elsner—had tears in their eyes as they went about their work, close by his body.

And nothing appeared wrong to televiewers of 43 stations on a National Broadcasting Company network from Boston to Jacksonville, Fla., and west to Omaha.

Presence backstage of a police emergency squad, which worked with doctors without success to revive Elsner, tipped 150-odd performers and technicians that something was wrong. But they didn't know what.

Elsner had been chief electrician of the Center Theatre since it was built in 1932.

Plans Are Underway

A committee of Union Hose Company 4 already has been formed and is making plans to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the organization. It is expected that the celebration will take the form of a dinner and open house at the fire house on East Union street. A tentative date has been set for Oct. 24. The guest of honor will be Christopher J. Burke, a charter member.

Health for All

LONG LIFE FOR TEETH

Many of us live in fear and dread of the day when we shall have to wear dentures, or false teeth. Perfect or not, our own, natural teeth are far more preferable to the finest "store-bought" dentures.

For many people, the day when plates must be fitted could be postponed for years with just a little sensible care of natural, "second" teeth. While the formation and biulding of teeth take place in early childhood, dental health can be safeguarded in adulthood if three general rules are observed: Keep the teeth clean, visit the dentist regularly, and eat a sensible diet of nourishing foods.

Although we cannot be certain that "a clean tooth is a healthy tooth," cleanliness helps cut down decay. There are bacteria present in everyone's mouth, most of them harmless but some of them capable of manufacturing acids from the bits of food remaining on or between the teeth. These acids can eat through the protective enamel covering of the teeth, enabling bacteria which causes decay to get into the teeth. As decay sets in, toothache results and the pain is nature's warning that the life of the tooth is in danger.

Whenever possible, it is a good idea to brush the teeth soon after meals. A good toothbrush with firm bristles serves the purpose best and the brush should be replaced with a new one as soon as it becomes limp or soggy. There are many good toothpastes and powders on the market today, but the dentist is the best source of advice on the cleansing agent to be used.

Regular visits to the dentist are a sound health habit. Most people find it advisable to visit the dentist about every six months, but the dentist is the best judge of how frequently the individual should come for a checkup. The dentist's periodic treatments can save pain, loss of teeth, and money in the long run.

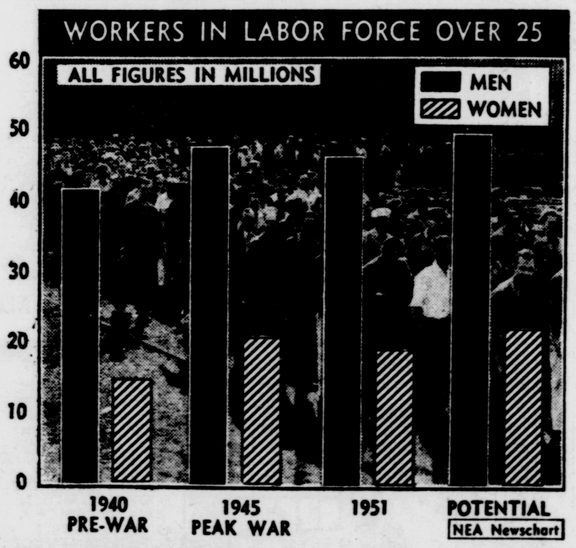
While we can't "re-build" teeth in adulthood, a good diet will help keep teeth and gums healthy. It is wise to include in our daily diet the following foods: Milk and milk products; meat, fish, or poultry; cooked and raw vegetables and fruits; cereals and bread, and eggs and butter.

It is also good to remember that teeth were meant for chewing food—not for cracking nuts, holding pins, biting off threads, or opening bobby pins. These seemingly harmless habits eventually weaken and injure teeth. The person who is kind to his teeth has the best chance of avoiding toothache and holding on to his precious natural teeth.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, 74 John street, Kingston, N. Y.

Cholera Report

Singapore (AP)—The Singapore government announced it had received information that cholera exists in Calcutta, Kanpur, Lucknow, Madras and Pondicherry. It declared all to be "infected places" under the quarantine and prevention of disease ordinance.



MANPOWER SITUATION—As the U. S. steps up its defense production, securing additional labor becomes ever more important. The above Newschart shows the number of workers in the labor force at three critical times. If the situation demands it, the labor force can be increased to an estimated 48.4 million men, and 20.7 million women compared to 46.4 million men and 19.8 million women who were working during 1945, according to Bureau of Labor Statistics figures.

Runaway Circus Train

By FRANK TRIPP

Maybe every boy will feel the urge to ride on a diesel—even to run it. Still there doesn't seem to be the juvenile affection for the diesel that was bestowed upon the puffing locomotives. There's something about whirling drivers and exhausting steam which the diesel lacks.

All of which only prefaces an urge to tell of wonderful hours spent as a boy in the cab of my father's engine. It is the one thing for which I can remember being envied; something I couldn't share with my playmates, for even in those days I rode at risk of pop's job.

The ride that most stands out in my memory was in the night, on a runaway circus train. To ride on any engine was a thrill, but to ride the engine of a circus train! And then to have it run away, down a hill with a 140 foot grade to the mile—oh boy!

* * *

was leaving our town over my father's road and he was to haul one section. Days of teasing finally won me a ride. I was only 10 and my first midnight ride on an engine had been granted me with parental reluctance.

We were the first to leave, with the menagerie section, or part of it. I saw the elephants loaded; camels and caged wagons of lions, tigers, jaguars, monkeys and snakes. Then I took my place in the engine cab, in front of my father, on a nail keg. Back past the trainload of wild beasts the conductor's lantern semi-circled and we were off. The greatest night any boy ever lived was under way.

What would I not give to live again those moments as I peered into the dark, saw the shining rails and jumping phantoms ahead, felt the thrust and rumble of the driving rods beneath me and heard the roar of wheels and shriek of whistle.

On curves I looked back at the gaudy cars loaded with animals from every clime. I conjured strange thoughts about them. How they took this ride every night; about their life in captivity and what they would do if released into the forests through which we were passing. For an hour these muses possessed me, until I became sleepy and could barely keep my eyes open.

Then the engine cab filled with steam. My father whistled frantically for brakes. We were running away down Swartwood Hill.

* * *

THIS WAS in the day before air brakes. Trainmen rode the tops of cars carrying hickory sticks with which to wind up the brakes on each separate car. The only power brake was the steam brake on the engine. This night the engineer's brake valve blew out, filled the cab with burning steam and rendered the engine brakes useless. On the steep grade the heavy train was out of control. Brakemen could not get from car to car. They clung flat on their stomachs to the runways atop the cars.

Speed gathered. The wild ride was frightening. I was thrown to the floor of the cab. I could not see my father. He was groping for the master valve to shut off the flow of scalding steam which was enveloping us.

The wheels crunched and shrieked against the rails. We were rounding curves, dashing through cuts and over high trestles. My dream of animals free might come true, but would I be alive to see them?

A dozen times the engine leaned off the rails, first on one side, then the other, but landed back on them again. My father lifted me from the cab floor, braced himself against the boiler, hugged me close to him, leaned over and kissed me—goodbye, I guess he thought. We were beyond human ability to save us.

* * *

BUT GOD rode with the circus that night. Telegraph poles dashed past like fence posts. We passed Swartwood station as fast as man ever rode till came airplanes. Miraculously we reached the base of the grade.

We were safe at last, on a level straightaway. Pop whistled for brakes again. Slowly the brakemen could crawl from car to car. Gradually speed slackened. Floyd Zimmerman came over from the fireman's side. "My God, Ed, what ever kept her on the rails?" he said.

"It was the boy, I guess," my father patted me and said.

Then he spoke to me and made me very sad: "Boy, enjoy yourself tonight, for this is your last ride"—but it wasn't.

For example, suppose you win a big discard pile that contains five kings and six queens. Our habit out here is to meld three of the kings and four of the queens. A pair is kept in the hand to guard against a freeze. What do you think of this kind of play?"

It all depends on the size of the pack, the status of the opponents, and on whether you have five of a kind or six of a kind. One reason I have not commented on this before is that there is no simple rule to follow in this situation.

Suppose that the opponents have melded and that they already have a canasta. The danger of an immediate meld-out is very strong. It may be essential to meld nearly your entire hand. If your partner gets a turn, he may be able to complete an additional canasta or two. Neither of you can expect to get more than two or three turns at most.

Suppose, to take the other extreme, that the opponents have not yet melded, that they need a count of 120 points, and that your side has most of the jokers and aces. It is obvious that the opponents are going to have difficulty making their initial meld. There is no need to worry about a fast meld-out. In this situation you hold melds back.

It is seldom possible to see your course quite so clearly as in the extreme examples we have just discussed. Usually the opponents have melded but have not yet made a canasta; and it may be hard to know how near to a meld-out either opponent happens to be. Here you must be guided by the way the opponents have been discarding and by your knowledge of those particular opponents and their playing habits.

If you feel quite safe in holding back melds, it is often wise to put down nothing at all. Keeping a pair renders you safe against a squeeze provided you have a multitude of safe discards; keeping the entire group of five or six gives you both safety and also a large number of safe discards.

If you feel midway between safety and danger, it is sound to put down three of a kind and save a pair. With six of a kind, however, put down all six. Your partner can complete the canasta if he has the seventh. If you put down only four and your partner adds one, you will feel very foolish if the right-hand opponent then melds out before you can complete the canasta.

Health for All

LONG LIFE FOR TEETH

Many of us live in fear and dread of the day when we shall have to wear dentures, or false teeth. Perfect or not, our own, natural teeth are far more preferable to the finest "store-bought" dentures.

For many people, the day when plates must be fitted could be postponed for years with just a little sensible care of natural, "second" teeth. While the formation and biulding of teeth take place in early childhood, dental health can be safeguarded in adulthood if three general rules are observed: Keep the teeth clean, visit the dentist regularly, and eat a sensible diet of nourishing foods.

Although we cannot be certain that "a clean tooth is a healthy tooth," cleanliness helps cut down decay. There are bacteria present in everyone's mouth, most of them harmless but some of them capable of manufacturing acids from the bits of food remaining on or between the teeth. These acids can eat through the protective enamel covering of the teeth, enabling bacteria which causes decay to get into the teeth. As decay sets in, toothache results and the pain is nature's warning that the life of the tooth is in danger.

Whenever possible, it is a good idea to brush the teeth soon after meals. A good toothbrush with firm bristles serves the purpose best and the brush should be replaced with a new one as soon as it becomes limp or soggy. There are many good toothpastes and powders on the market today, but the dentist is the best source of advice on the cleansing agent to be used.

Regular visits to the dentist are a sound health habit. Most people find it advisable to visit the dentist about every six months, but the dentist is the best judge of how frequently the individual should come for a checkup. The dentist's periodic treatments can save pain, loss of teeth, and money in the long run.

While we can't "re-build" teeth in adulthood, a good diet will help keep teeth and gums healthy. It is wise to include in our daily diet the following foods: Milk and milk products; meat, fish, or poultry; cooked and raw vegetables and fruits; cereals and bread, and eggs and butter.

It is also good to remember that teeth were meant for chewing food—not for cracking nuts, holding pins, biting off threads, or opening bobby pins. These seemingly harmless habits eventually weaken and injure teeth. The person who is kind to his teeth has the best chance of avoiding toothache and holding on to his precious natural teeth.

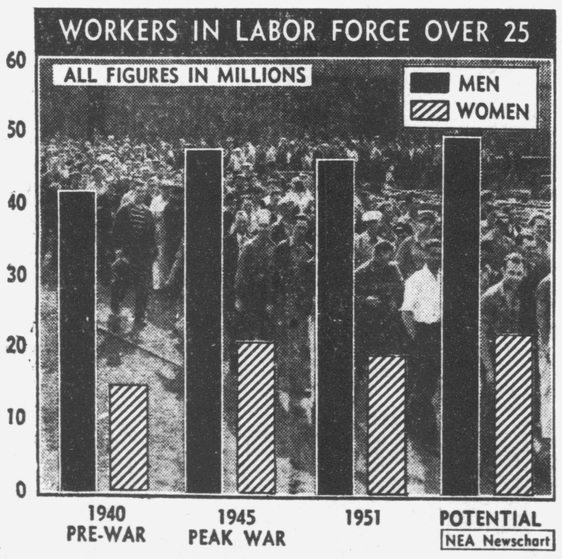
Cholera Report

Singapore (AP)—The Singapore government announced it had received information that cholera exists in Calcutta, Kanpur, Lucknow, Madras and Pondicherry. It declared all to be "infected places" under the quarantine and prevention of disease ordinance.



MANPOWER SITUATION—As the U. S. steps up its defense production, securing additional labor becomes ever more important. The above Newschart shows the number of workers in the labor force at three critical times. If the situation demands it, the labor force can be increased to an estimated 48.4 million men, and 20.7 million women compared to 46.4 million men and 19.8 million women who were working during 1945, according to Bureau of Labor Statistics figures.

TV Control Boss Dies at His Post

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—With their boss dead at the control board, four electricians behaved like real troupers last night and didn't miss a cue as the zany Spike Jones television show went on.

Frank Joseph Elsner, 76, was stricken with a heart attack and slumped against the big control board with about 40 minutes of the hour-long show still to go.

Two of the electricians—close friends of Elsner—had tears in their eyes as they went about their work, close by his body.

And nothing appeared wrong to televiewers of 43 stations on a National Broadcasting Company network from Boston to Jacksonville, Fla., and west to Omaha.

Presence backstage of a police emergency squad, which worked with doctors without success to revive Elsner, tipped 150-odd performers and technicians that something was wrong. But they didn't know what.

Elsner had been chief electrician of the Center Theatre since it was built in 1932.

Plans Are Underway

A committee of Union Hose Company 4 already has been formed and is making plans to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the organization. It is expected that the celebration will take the form of a dinner and open house at the fire house on East Union street. A tentative date has been set for Oct. 24. The guest of honor will be Christopher J. Burke, a charter member.

Runaway Circus Train

By FRANK TRIPP

Maybe every boy will feel the urge to ride on a diesel—even to run it. Still there doesn't seem to be the juvenile affection for the diesel that was bestowed upon the puffing locomotives. There's something about whirling drivers and exhausting steam which the diesel lacks.

All of which only prefaces an urge to tell of wonderful hours spent as a boy in the cab of my father's engine. It is the one thing for which I can remember being envied; something I couldn't share with my playmates, for even in those days I rode at risk of pop's job.

The ride that most stands out in my memory was in the night, on a runaway circus train. To ride on any engine was a thrill, but to ride the engine of a circus train! And then to have it run away, down a hill with a 140 foot grade to the mile—oh boy!

* * *

THE ORIGINAL Barnum & Bailey, "greatest show on earth," was leaving our town over my father's road and he was to haul one section. Days of teasing finally won me a ride. I was only 10 and my first midnight ride on an engine had been granted me with parental reluctance.

We were the first to leave, with the menagerie section, or part of it. I saw the elephants loaded; camels and caged wagons of lions, tigers, jaguars, monkeys and snakes. Then I took my place in the engine cab, in front of my father, on a nail keg. Back past the trainload of wild beasts the conductor's lantern semi-circled and we were off. The greatest night any boy ever lived was under way.

What would I not give to live again those moments as I peered into the dark, saw the shining rails and jumping phantoms ahead, felt the thrust and rumble of the driving rods beneath me and heard the roar of wheels and shriek of whistle.

On curves I looked back at the gaudy cars loaded with animals from every clime. I conjured strange thoughts about them. How they took this ride every night; about their life in captivity and what they would do if released into the forests through which we were passing. For an hour these muses possessed me, until I became sleepy and could barely keep my eyes open.

Then the engine cab filled with steam. My father whistled frantically for brakes. We were running away down Swartwood Hill.

* * *

THIS WAS in the day before air brakes. Trainmen rode the tops of cars carrying hickory sticks with which to wind up the brakes on each separate car. The only power brake was the steam brake on the engine. This night the engineer's brake valve blew out, filled the cab with burning steam and rendered the engine brakes useless. On the steep grade the heavy train was out of control. Brakemen could not get from car to car. They clung flat on their stomachs to the runways atop the cars.

Speed gathered. The wild ride was frightening. I was thrown to the floor of the cab. I could not see my father. He was groping for the master valve to shut off the flow of scalding steam which was enveloping us.

The wheels crunched and shrieked against the rails. We were rounding curves, dashing through cuts and over high trestles. My dream of animals free might come true, but would I be alive to see them?

A dozen times the engine leaned off the rails, first on one side, then the other, but landed back on them again. My father lifted me from the cab floor, braced himself against the boiler, hugged me close to him, leaned over and kissed me—goodbye, I guess he thought. We were beyond human ability to save us.

* * *

BUT GOD rode with the circus that night. Telegraph poles dashed past like fence posts. We passed Swartwood station as fast as man ever rode till came airplanes. Miraculously we reached the base of the grade.

We were safe at last, on a level straightaway. Pop whistled for brakes again. Slowly the brakemen could crawl from car to car. Gradually speed slackened. Floyd Zimmerman came over from the fireman's side. "My God, Ed, what ever kept her on the rails?" he said.

"It was the boy, I guess," my father patted me and said.

Then he spoke to me and made me very sad: "Boy, enjoy yourself tonight, for this is your last ride"—but it wasn't.

No, we didn't have any autos, radio or movies. Kids then only had minor thrills like this.

Limousine Ride—Sure-footed and gentle . . . The broad-beam suspension system assures comfort no other car can equal.

Motordom's top durability record—Over 50% of the Packards built in 52 years are still in service!

New everything—Our engineers and stylists anticipate your driving desires.

So, take the wheel—see how it feels to drive America's most exciting car!

Tired Business Man—You told me that I'd get a good rest here because you didn't have any mosquitoes (after a night of slapping).

Farmer — I haven't. Those you've been slapping came over from next door. They're not mine.

Considerable building of expensive homes is taking place in suburban sites. Almost without exception the various builders arrive at work in motor cars. Quite often the men for whom the houses are being built, arrive on bicycle or on foot to look over their future homes.

Bears Follow Buzz Of Power Line and Free Support Wires

An undetermined number of Ulster county bears recently had a bee in their bonnet and there was lots of buzzing about it, but no honey.

With a keen ear tuned in to what they thought was the humming of bees, the hungry bruins traced their quarry to Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation power poles. With the promising goal of a store of honey only minutes away, the bears followed the buzzing of electric current along the wires, down the poles and into the ground wires. In no time at all a dozen support wires were clawed free of the ground—but no bees, no honey, no nothing. Clearly stung, the duped bruins plodded unbelieving back up the game trail.

Investigating the extricated ground wires near the Honk Falls Electric Station, Central Hudson crewmen found the unmistakable signs of the bears' determination—and disappointment. So far as the bears were concerned, the question remained: When is a bee not a bee?

Will Map Cancer

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 17 (AP)—The World Medical Association is going to map where cancer most occurs throughout the world in the hope it will turn up clues to the causes of the disease. The decision was made at the opening session of the fifth general assembly yesterday. The 250 physicians from 29 countries elected Dr. Dag Knutsson of Sweden president, to succeed Dr. Elmer L. Henderson, of Louisville, Ky. Delegates will debate socialized medicine and a plan for worldwide prevention of tuberculosis.

Truckers' Time Is Growing Shorter

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP)—Truckers who have not applied for permits and plates required under New York's weight-distance tax law will have to hurry if they expect to operate legally after Oct. 1.

Only 15,858 carriers of an estimated 35,000 have applied, the State Tax Commission said Saturday. The applications cover 85,251 of the estimated 150,000 vehicles affected by the law.

Trucks with a maximum weight of nine tons or more must have the highway use permit and plate after Sept. 30.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Since I wrote that column on stamps, strange things have been happening which perhaps will add stamp collecting to my other hobbies of which I have too many already, I'm afraid. I received a very interesting envelope addressed to my late father, I Ginzburg, druggist, 93 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y. On which was a Diamond Jubilee Stamp of the American Chemical Society (1876-1951). On envelope is a picture of a chemist in Merck & Co. laboratory, over which is printed "First day of Issue" on bottom printed in elaborate lettering "75th Anniversary, American Chemical Society." Under which is artist pallette with brushes with 'Art Craft.' Perhaps that is the name of the firm which produced the interesting envelope.

Inside is a card explaining the envelope which is from Merck & Co. Inc., the pharmaceutical firm, it says in part: "Chemistry plays such an important part in the pharmacist's professional education and practice that you feel more than a passing interest in the 75th Anniversary of the American Chemical Society. As a memento of the occasion, we take pleasure in sending you one of the special Commemorative Stamps, cancelled on the first day of its issue." I am sure my father would have placed the stamp and cover in his collection. I take it every drug store in Kingston and Ulster county received one. It was post marked Sept. 4th. Then I received another such stamp, postmarked from Kingston on Sept. 11th, from Thendara Farm, R.F.D. No. 2, Box 142, Kingston, N. Y.

It came from Harry J. Siemsen, historian of the Town of Kingston of Thendara Farm. Letter and card enclosed. Card was handed out at the old Bijou back in 1913 telling of a coming attraction at the Kingston theatre. The show it advertised was called "The Universe" and it predicted what would come about on July 4, 1950. Here are some of the predictions: "The Universe show starts on the evening of July 4, 1950, in New York city. Captain Aero is starting on his cruise from the new Airship Station in Central Park. The Station Tower at its base covers an area of five city blocks. The upper landing station is at an elevation of 1,500 feet. Amid a din of salutes from the port below, the great airship shoots from the tower on the first aerial trip around the world. Shooting stars and meteors flash by, the airship is suddenly enveloped in blazing hail and takes fire, but the crew extinguishes the flame and they pass the meteor. On the way a reception holds up the passengers at Pekin..also an allegorical vision of the services of Dewey, McKinly and Roosevelt winning and holding, for all time, the now flourishing Pacific Islands etc." It would be exciting to see such a picture today.

Mr. Siemsen, also mentions in his letter the Hamilton Ferry of the Town of Kingston when around 1804 or 5 it was moved further down the stream. He also wants to know how many folks remember, being in a hurry, and having to sit in a Kingston trolley, on one of the switches, waiting for the other car, to come from the other direction and pass. How many folks remember where the switches were? Also, how many folks remember, how the loaded bob sleighs would stick to the bare car tracks in winter, giving the teamsters and motormen headaches?

Alabama Convict Hunt Goes On

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 17 (AP)—An intensive search for the six Draper Prison convicts still at large continued throughout Alabama today after the capture of a ringleader and four other escapees.

Latest to be taken were three prisoners who were flushed by bloodhounds between Elmore and Coosada near the prison at Speigner, Ala. They were nabbed early today by dog wardens who trailed them into a lake in front of the prison main gate.

Guard M. H. McCord said the three were unarmed. They were not immediately identified.

Convicted murderer Frank Green and Milton Wesson were surprised and taken without a struggle near here last night by highway patrolmen Ed Owens and Jack Hudson.

Draper Warden B. R. Reeves said Green was a ringleader in the daring escape Friday night. Nineteen prisoners broke for freedom after a guard had been slugged and five others overpowered at the prison some 22 miles from Montgomery.

Still unaccounted for was Leo Self, one of the state's most notorious desperadoes. Self, who has a record of four previous escapes and two attempts, was reported seen in Birmingham last night with two other men believed to be escapees.

Meanwhile, two men believed to be escapees broke out of a trap set near Jasper, Ala., north of Birmingham yesterday. They apparently got away.

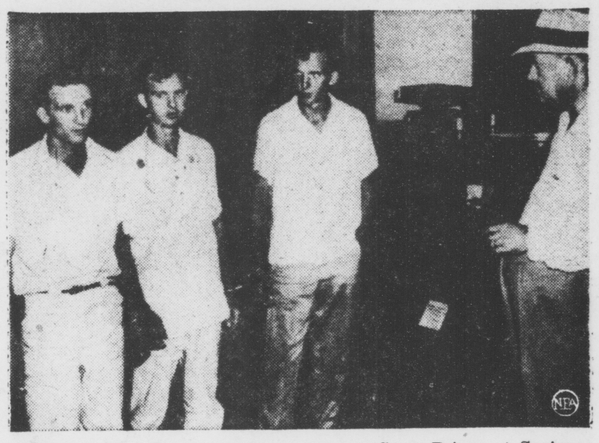
Their 'Break' Over



Warden Burr Reeves (right) of Draper State Prison at Speigner, Ala., questions three escaped prisoners who were captured at Selma, Ala., about 50 miles west of Montgomery. Seven of the 19 who "walked out" of the prison have been caught. The rest, heavily-armed, are believed to be the cause of a week-end crime wave in and around the capital. An extensive search for the convicts is on. At the same time, Idaho's Canyon County Jail had its mass jailbreak. Six of the ten who escaped have been captured, leaving only four at large. (NEA Telephoto).

Leaves for New Home

Chicago, Sept. 17 (AP)—Orphaned Mary Richardson, seven, left St. James Hospital in suburban Chicago Heights Saturday—11 days after a highway crash killed her parents and two younger brothers. Mary wore a new Scotch plaid dress as she directed her uncle, James Nevins, to be careful stowing her nine new dolls in his car. Mary was told only Thursday that the Sept. 4 crash of the Richardsons' family car and a truck killed her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Richardson, formerly of Tarrytown, N. Y., and her brothers, James, 11, and Daniel, one. The girl will stay for a while in Gary, Ind., with Nevins and his wife, Ann. Later, she probably will live with an older sister in New York.

Will Continue Deferments

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—College students who get good enough marks will continue to be deferred from the draft despite larger draft calls, a Selective Service official said last night. Only a "substantial change" in the size of the armed forces, now set at 3,500,000, would change the present deferment schedule for college men, Daniel Omer, general counsel for Selective Service, told a radio (Liberty network) audience.

As Pegler Sees It

which for more than four years held them in a condition to which no western race had been degraded since reconstruction in the South. You judge a man's wisdom and his ability by his past performances. But Eisenhower was a flunkey to Roosevelt, bucking for the job of C-in-C and yessing the Mad Mahatma to keep it. And his weakness in joining the cowardly persecution of the Germans was disgraceful by contrast with Taft's immediate, uncompromising fight in the Senate against retroactive criminal legislation and his great and wise courage in holding out for a return to sanity at once—not eventually.

The anti-Taft campaign within his own camp by men who pretend to be straight Republicans is a mad freak of politics. A few hundred self-important magnates take it on themselves to decide that the people of the United States shall not have a chance to vote for the man whom they frankly concede to be the best man in the nation.

Truman is still a true protege of crooked old Tom Pendergast. His own people hold him in contempt so, in malice, he turned to Americans for Democratic action and the criminal goons of unionism, willingly selling his country into war and Marx for the pay and power that goes with the job of president.

If Taft can't lick that specimen, the people won't deserve Taft but will deserve Truman and the worst that that implies.

Bears Follow Buzz Of Power Line and Free Support Wires

An undetermined number of Ulster county bears recently had a bee in their bonnet and there was lots of buzzing about it, but no honey.

With a keen ear tuned in to what they thought was the humming of bees, the hungry bruins traced their quarry to Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation power poles. With the promising goal of a store of honey only minutes away, the bears followed the buzzing of electric current along the wires, down the poles and into the ground wires. In no time at all a dozen support wires were clawed free of the ground—but no bees, no honey, no nothing. Clearly stung, the duped bruins plodded unbelieving back up the game trail.

Investigating the extricated ground wires near the Honk Falls Electric Station, Central Hudson crewmen found the unmistakable signs of the bears' determination—and disappointment. So far as the bears were concerned, the question remained: When is a bee not a bee?

Truckers' Time Is Growing Shorter

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP)—Truckers who have not applied for permits and plates required under New York's weight-distance tax law will have to hurry if they expect to operate leg ly after Oct. 1.

Only 15,858 carriers of an estimated 35,000 have applied, the State Tax Commission said Saturday. The applications cover 85,251 of the estimated 150,000 vehicles affected by the law.

Trucks with a maximum weight of nine tons or more must have the highway use permit and plate after Sept. 30.

Will Map Cancer

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 17 (AP)—The World Medical Association is going to map where cancer most occurs throughout the world in the hope it will turn up clues to the causes of the disease. The decision was made at the opening session of the fifth general assembly yesterday. The 250 physicians from 29 countries elected Dr. Dag Knutsson of Sweden president, to succeed Dr. Elmer L. Henderson, of Louisville, Ky. Delegates will debate socialized medicine and a plan for worldwide prevention of tuberculosis.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Since I wrote that column on stamps, strange things have been happening which perhaps will add stamp collecting to my other hobbies of which I have too many already, I'm afraid. I received a very interesting envelope addressed to my late father, I Ginzburg, druggist, 93 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y. On which was a Diamond Jubilee Stamp of the American Chemical Society (1876-1951). On envelope is a picture of a chemist in Merck & Co. laboratory, over which is printed "First day of Issue" on bottom printed in elaborate lettering "75th Anniversary, American Chemical Society." Under which is artist pallette with brushes with 'Art Craft.' Perhaps that is the name of the firm which produced the interesting envelope.

Inside is a card explaining the envelope which is from Merck & Co. Inc., the pharmaceutical firm, it says in part: "Chemistry plays such an important part in the pharmacist's professional education and practice that you feel more than a passing interest in the 75th Anniversary of the American Chemical Society. As a memento of the occasion, we take pleasure in sending you one of the special Commemorative Stamps, cancelled on the first day of its issue." I am sure my father would have placed the stamp and cover in his collection. I take it every drug store in Kingston and Ulster county received one. It was post marked Sept. 4th. Then I received another such stamp, postmarked from Kingston on Sept. 11th, from Thendara Farm, R.F.D. No. 2, Box 142, Kingston, N. Y.

It came from Harry J. Siemsen, historian of the Town of Kingston of Thendara Farm. Letter and card enclosed. Card was handed out at the old Bijou back in 1913 telling of a coming attraction at the Kingston theatre. The show it advertised was called "The Universe" and it predicted what would come about on July 4, 1950. Here are some of the predictions: "The Universe show starts on the evening of July 4, 1950, in New York city. Captain Aero is starting on his cruise from the new Airship Station in Central Park. The Station Tower at its base covers an area of five city blocks. The upper landing station is at an elevation of 1,500 feet. Amid a din of salutes from the port below, the great airship shoots from the tower on the first aerial trip around the world. Shooting stars and meteors flash by, the airship is suddenly enveloped in blazing hail and takes fire, but the crew extinguishes the flame and they pass the meteor. On the way a reception holds up the passengers at Pekin..also an allegorical vision of the services of Dewey, McKinly and Roosevelt winning and holding, for all time, the now flourishing Pacific Islands etc." It would be exciting to see such a picture today.

Mr. Siemsen, also mentions in his letter the Hamilton Ferry of the Town of Kingston when around 1804 or 5 it was moved further down the stream. He also wants to know how many folks remember, being in a hurry, and having to sit in a Kingston trolley, on one of the switches, waiting for the other car, to come from the other direction and pass. How many folks remember where the switches were? Also, how many folks remember, how the loaded bob sleighs would stick to the bare car tracks in winter, giving the teamsters and motormen headaches?

Alabama Convict Hunt Goes On

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 17 (AP)—An intensive search for the six Draper Prison convicts still at large continued throughout Alabama today after the capture of a ringleader and four other escapees.

Latest to be taken were three prisoners who were flushed by bloodhounds between Elmore and Coosada near the prison at Speigner, Ala. They were nabbed early today by dog wardens who trailed them into a lake in front of the prison main gate.

Guard M. H. McCord said the three were unarmed. They were not immediately identified.

Convicted murderer Frank Green and Milton Wesson were surprised and taken without a struggle near here last night by highway patrolmen Ed Owens and Jack Hudson.

Draper Warden B. R. Reeves said Green was a ringleader in the daring escape Friday night. Nineteen prisoners broke for freedom after a guard had been slugged and five others overpowered at the prison some 22 miles from Montgomery.

Still unaccounted for was Leo Self, one of the state's most notorious desperadoes. Self, who has a record of four previous escapes and two attempts, was reported seen in Birmingham last night with two other men believed to be escapees.

Meanwhile, two men believed to be escapees broke out of a trap set near Jasper, Ala., north of Birmingham yesterday. They apparently got away.

Their 'Break' Over

Warden Burr Reeves (right) of Draper State Prison at Speigner, Ala., questions three escaped prisoners who were captured at Selma, Ala., about 50 miles west of Montgomery. Seven of the 19 who "walked out" of the prison have been caught. The rest, heavily-armed, are believed to be the cause of a week-end crime wave in and around the capital. An extensive search for the convicts is on. At the same time, Idaho's Canyon County Jail had its mass jailbreak. Six of the ten who escaped have been captured, leaving only four at large. (NEA Telephoto).

Leaves for New Home

Chicago, Sept. 17 (AP)—Orphaned Mary Richardson, seven, left St. James Hospital in suburban Chicago Heights Saturday—11 days after a highway crash killed her parents and two younger brothers. Mary wore a new Scotch plaid dress as she directed her uncle, James Nevins, to be careful stowing her nine new dolls in his car. Mary was told only Thursday that the Sept. 4 crash of the Richardsons' family car and a truck killed her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Richardson, formerly of Tarrytown, N. Y., and her brothers, James, 11, and Daniel, one. The girl will stay for a while in Gary, Ind., with Nevins and his wife, Ann. Later, she probably will live with an older sister in New York.

St. Ursula's Academy To Give New Music Appreciation Course

AMELIA ALTAMARI

A new course in music appreciation opened at the Academy of St. Ursula today, instructed by Miss Amelia Altamari, an alumna of the academy who has attained distinction in the music field.

Miss Altamari began her musical training in the academy's primary grades when she studied piano under Mother Marie St. John. During her high school course her talents developed under teachers Mother Marie Visitation and Mother Marie Beatrice.

Following graduation, the promising young student enrolled in the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, where she received her degree of bachelor of music in piano. She earned her master of music degree in historical research, and was appointed to the conservatory's faculty. Further advanced work in music followed during summer sessions at Juilliard in New York under Dr. Carl Friednerg and Miss Jane Carlson.

Teachers Consider New Amendments At First Meeting

Members of the Teachers' Association of the First Supervisory District during their first meeting of the academic year Thursday afternoon at the court house were urged to consider Amendments No. 3 and No. 6, which it was reported, generally affect teachers and education.

At the same meeting Clarence Johnson, superintendent, and Reginald Russell, suupervisor, instructed teachers on recent educational trends and procedures. It was stressed that children must reach an age of five years, eight months before entering the first grade. Younger children are to be considered for pre-primary or the kindergarten level.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Annetta Roosa, retiring president, who gave a brief report on the third annual leaders' workshop sponsored by the New York State Teachers' Association at Lake George September 6-9.

Speaking of the two amendments which will be voted on in the November elections, it was said that Amendment No. 3 will give the legislature the right to consider legislation to increase the retirement allowance of teachers already on retirement. Such an increase is now prevented by constitutional restrictions.

Amendment No. 6, according to the association, will allow boards of education in cities with less than 125,000 population fiscal independence and responsibility in regard to debt service. All teachers attending were urged to support both amendments.

Other business included the appointment of Mrs. Leola Monn as alternate for Reginald Russell, delegate to the House of Delegates

Grange News

Hurley Unit

During the recent regular meeting of Hurley Grange the following officers were elected: Walter Stauble, master; Frank Kruetzfeldt, overseer; Beatrice Ten Eyck, lecturer; Christiana Dixon, chaplain; Andrew Lehtonen, steward; Chester Decker, assistant steward; Matthew Tryon, treasurer; Ethel E. Palen, secretary; Vernon Goetchius, gatekeeper; Helen Lehtonen, Ceres; Ida Decker, Pomona; Martha Kruetzfeldt, Flora; Ann Goetchius, lady assistant steward.

It was announced that the Hurley blood bank, which serves the town, has sent more than 20 donors to the laboratory to donate blood. Several replacements of blood also have been made, it was reported.

The Grange recently sponsored the repainting, relettering and stone piers rebuilt on the Town of Hurley Honor Roll.

At the next regular meeting, Sept. 25, installation of officers will take place with Ross Osterhoudt and his installing team from Stone Ridge in charge. A flower show also will be held in conjunction with the meeting.

During a recent meeting, a member of the Grange appeared before the town board and requested that the dump road be repaired and made passable. Action has been taken on this.

The literary program by Helen Lehtonen was a reading by Mrs. Lehtonen; songs, entire Grange; monologue, Ethel Lockwood; and a game. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Justin Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Tryon.

One pound of kitchen fat makes enough glycerine to send one shell flying.

Plans Are Underway For New Paltz Adult Education Program

Plans are underway for the New Paltz Central School's adult education program, scheduled to begin in a few weeks, it was announced today. Courses will include arts, crafts, ceramics and stenciling.

This year there will also be a driver-training group. Those interested are advised to send in their names and addresses immediately as the class, which is already beginning to form, is limited in size.

It was also announced that those who wish a different course from those usually offered are asked to contact Jack Brereton at the high school (6211). The course will be offered if 10 members register, and a competent instructor can be found.

The school has reminded the community that adult courses are offered for the community's instruction, entertainment, and enjoyment. Suggestions for the program's improvement will receive close consideration.

Kingston Hospital School of Nursing Welcomes Students

A total of 22 students were admitted to Kingston Hospital School of Nursing September 10 according to Miss Almena A. Porter, director of nursing. The group was welcomed by faculty members and "big sisters" in the school who had arranged a "get acquainted" party with music and refreshments.

There followed a full week's program of orientation, class assignment, and final registration for the three-year basic course in nursing which will prepare them for the state boards, their registered professional nurse license, and a career which will prove useful the rest of their lives.

This year's group represents the far extremes of the state from Henderson on Lake Ontario to Cocheton near the Pennsylvania border and New York.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

LOSING FRIENDSHIP

A reader today says: "Don't you feel that even friends have no right to ask some of the personal questions they do? When my daughter was married one of my friends asked me what their honeymoon cost, who paid for it, whether his family was rich, etc. To me questions like these are definitely in bad taste."

These questions are in worse than bad taste!

Waitress in Wrong

Dear Mrs. Post: I noticed your answer lately that there was no objection to a waitress pouring coffee which had spilled over the saucer back into the cup before serving it. I'm wondering when the waitress is not around whether the individual may do this herself rather than have the bottom of the cup drip every time it is lifted.

Answer: Ideally, what the waitress should have done was to have gone back into the pantry and got a fresh saucer. However, you certainly could pour the coffee out of the saucer yourself in the situation you describe.

Allowances for Allergy

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is marrying a man who is seriously allergic to fresh flowers. What can we do about the flowers for the wedding?

Answer: It would be very easy to omit flowers if he can stand greens for decoration of the chancel. The bride and bridesmaids can carry prayer books instead of flowers. If he can't stand greens, a few good artificial flowers and greens for decoration would have to substitute for many real ones.

Just Smile

Dear Mrs. Post: When a gentleman thanks a lady for having danced with him what is her response? "You're welcome" doesn't seem quite right.

Answer: Usually you merely smile.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. If your problem is what to wear to a wedding, you will find her leaflet E-6, helpful. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

French Designs Accent High Bust, Bell Skirt

Winter fashions from Paris show the suit with the fuller skirt, the coat with elongated lines, the elegant, formal look for evening and the simple wool dress with fitted bodice. Suit (left) by Jean Desses in medium blue has skirt set atop stiffened petticoats, flat basque with boot-button trim. Christian Dior's full length coat (left center) is elephant gray mohair cloth with deep yoke and long-line pleats.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Writer

Paris — (NEA) — For the average woman, each fashion report from Paris means a new tussle with budget and silhouette. This year, while there are basic changes over last year's fashions, she'll be pleased to know that she doesn't have to scratch her old wardrobe completely.

The basic changes come, first, in the disappearance of the tight and slinky skirt. Even suit skirts show more width at the hem, a width that is belled out over the stiffening provided by crinoline and taffeta petticoats. Fullness is massed at the back, or the front, or distributed about the waist, bell-wise, by such designers as Fath, Desses and Paquin.

A second basic change arrives in the higher, accented bustline that is the result of Empire influence. Collars achieve choker proportions and in daytime dresses, there are bows, jabot, and shoulder drapery. For evening gowns, molded brassiere effects concentrate attention above the waistline.

The normal waist and diaphragm are still molded by high, shaped corselet belts from Desses and Maggy Rouff. But the unbelted princess line reappears in Dior designs. Hips remain rounded with many of the swinging skirts stemming from deep hip yokes or graduated gores.

A third basic change comes in the realm of femininity. Even in tailored clothes, Balenciaga has introduced widened, unfitted shoulders and complicated sleeves. The man-tailored suit is temporarily eclipsed. Sleeves are important in many ways. They become full Regency with Fath, start half-crescent with Desses, are raglan, bishop, modernized leg o' mutton or bell. All but the bell sleeve have one fashion point in common: they taper off from elbow to wrist.

The fashion-conscious, budget-flattened woman will find many notions in the new collections that will help her bring her wardrobe up-to-date. The use of ribbon is one of these. It's seen in enormous butterfly or bustle bows with trailing ends on evening gowns by Maggy Rouff and Balmain. It appears in narrower widths and pastel colors to underline the high bustline and eighteen-inch waist in Dior designs.

Coats offer a wide choice of lines. Dior does casual, medium full, belted ulsters, these sometimes fur-lined. Balmain and Paquin have redingotes with full, swinging skirts and Desses and Fath design unfitted coats with excessive or restrained fullness starting from the shoulder-line. Balmain's afternoon coats have postillion cape collars and shawl collars are draped waist-deep by Paquin in fur or fabric. The fashionable, bulky look comes, of course, from pebbly or long-haired woolens.

Black is once again out in front for wear around the clock, but gray, from a deep shade to a pale pewter, is a strong daytime color. And there is a whole new range of blues, launched by Desses and featuring drake and peacock, kingfisher and Brazilian, butterfly and petrol blue.

Plans Are Underway For New Paltz Adult Education Program

Plans are underway for the New Paltz Central School's adult education program, scheduled to begin in a few weeks, it was announced today. Courses will include arts, crafts, ceramics and stenciling.

This year there will also be a driver-training group. Those interested are advised to send in their names and addresses immediately as the class, which is already beginning to form, is limited in size.

It was also announced that those who wish a different course from those usually offered are asked to contact Jack Brereton at the high school (6211). The course will be offered if 10 members register, and a competent instructor can be found.

The school has reminded the community that adult courses are offered for the community's instruction, entertainment, and enjoyment. Suggestions for the program's improvement will receive close consideration.

Kingston Hospital School of Nursing Welcomes Students

A total of 22 students were admitted to Kingston Hospital School of Nursing September 10 according to Miss Almena A. Porter, director of nursing. The group was welcomed by faculty members and "big sisters" in the school who had arranged a "get acquainted" party with music and refreshments.

There followed a full week's program of orientation, class assignment, and final registration for the three-year basic course in nursing which will prepare them for the state boards, their registered professional nurse license, and a career which will prove useful the rest of their lives.

LOSING FRIENDSHIP

A reader today says: "Don't you feel that even friends have no right to ask some of the personal questions they do? When my daughter was married one of my friends asked me what their honeymoon cost, who paid for it, whether his family was rich, etc. To me questions like these are definitely in bad taste."

These questions are in worse than bad taste!

Waitress in Wrong

Dear Mrs. Post: I noticed your answer lately that there was no objection to a waitress pouring coffee which had spilled over the saucer back into the cup before serving it. I'm wondering when the waitress is not around whether the individual may do this herself rather than have the bottom of the cup drip every time it is lifted.

Answer: Ideally, what the waitress should have done was to have gone back into the pantry and got a fresh saucer. However, you certainly could pour the coffee out of the saucer yourself in the situation you describe.

Allowances for Allergy

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is marrying a man who is seriously allergic to fresh flowers. What can we do about the flowers for the wedding?

Answer: It would be very easy to omit flowers if he can stand greens for decoration of the chancel. The bride and bridesmaids can carry prayer books instead of flowers. If he can't stand greens, a few good artificial flowers and greens for decoration would have to substitute for many real ones.

Just Smile

Dear Mrs. Post: When a gentleman thanks a lady for having danced with him what is her response? "You're welcome" doesn't seem quite right.

Answer: Usually you merely smile.

French Designs Accent High Bust, Bell Skirt

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Writer

Paris — (NEA) — For the average woman, each fashion report from Paris means a new tussle with budget and silhouette. This year, while there are basic changes over last year's fashions, she'll be pleased to know that she doesn't have to scratch her old wardrobe completely.

The basic changes come, first, in the disappearance of the tight and slinky skirt. Even suit skirts show more width at the hem, a width that is belled out over the stiffening provided by crinoline and taffeta petticoats. Fullness is massed at the back, or the front, or distributed about the waist, bell-wise, by such designers as Fath, Desses and Paquin.

A second basic change arrives in the higher, accented bustline that is the result of Empire influence. Collars achieve choker proportions and in daytime dresses, there are bows, jabot, and shoulder drapery. For evening gowns, molded brassiere effects concentrate attention above the waistline.

The normal waist and diaphragm are still molded by high, shaped corselet belts from Desses and Maggy Rouff. But the unbelted princess line reappears in Dior designs. Hips remain rounded with many of the swinging skirts stemming from deep hip yokes or graduated gores.

A third basic change comes in the realm of femininity. Even in tailored clothes, Balenciaga has introduced widened, unfitted shoulders and complicated sleeves. The man-tailored suit is temporarily eclipsed. Sleeves are important in many ways. They become full Regency with Fath, start half-crescent with Desses, are raglan, bishop, modernized leg o' mutton or bell. All but the bell sleeve have one fashion point in common: they taper off from elbow to wrist.

The fashion-conscious, budget-flattened woman will find many notions in the new collections that will help her bring her wardrobe up-to-date. The use of ribbon is one of these. It's seen in enormous butterfly or bustle bows with trailing ends on evening gowns by Maggy Rouff and Balmain. It appears in narrower widths and pastel colors to underline the high bustline and eighteen-inch waist in Dior designs.

Coats offer a wide choice of lines. Dior does casual, medium full, belted ulsters, these sometimes fur-lined. Balmain and Paquin have redingotes with full, swinging skirts and Desses and Fath design unfitted coats with excessive or restrained fullness starting from the shoulder-line. Balmain's afternoon coats have postillion cape collars and shawl collars are draped waist-deep by Paquin in fur or fabric. The fashionable, bulky look comes, of course, from pebbly or long-haired woolens.

Black is once again out in front for wear around the clock, but gray, from a deep shade to a pale pewter, is a strong daytime color. And there is a whole new range of blues, launched by Desses and featuring drake and peacock, kingfisher and Brazilian, butterfly and petrol blue.

St. Ursula's Academy To Give New Music Appreciation Course

AMELIA ALTAMARI

A new course in music appreciation opened at the Academy of St. Ursula today, instructed by Miss Amelia Altamari, an alumna of the academy who has attained distinction in the music field.

Miss Altamari began her musical training in the academy's primary grades when she studied piano under Mother Marie St. John. During her high school course her talents developed under teachers Mother Marie Visitation and Mother Marie Beatrice.

Following graduation, the promising young student enrolled in the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, where she received her degree of bachelor of music in piano. She earned her master of music degree in historical research, and was appointed to the conservatory's faculty. Further advanced work in music followed during summer sessions at Juilliard in New York under Dr. Carl Friedberg and Miss Jane Carlson.

Teachers Consider New Amendments At First Meeting

Members of the Teachers' Association of the First Supervisory District during their first meeting of the academic year Thursday afternoon at the court house were urged to consider Amendments No. 3 and No. 6, which it was reported, generally affect teachers and education.

At the same meeting Clarence Johnson, superintendent, and Reginald Russell, suupervisor, instructed teachers on recent educational trends and procedures. It was stressed that children must reach an age of five years, eight months before entering the first grade. Younger children are to be considered for pre-primary or the kindergarten level.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Annetta Roosa, retiring president, who gave a brief report on the third annual leaders' workshop sponsored by the New York State Teachers' Association at Lake George September 6-9.

Speaking of the two amendments which will be voted on in the November elections, it was said that Amendment No. 3 will give the legislature the right to consider legislation to increase the retirement allowance of teachers already on retirement. Such an increase is now prevented by constitutional restrictions.

Amendment No. 6, according to the association, will allow boards of education in cities with less than 125,000 population fiscal independence and responsibility in regard to debt service. All teachers attending were urged to support both amendments.

Other business included the appointment of Mrs. Leola Monn as alternate for Reginald Russell, delegate to the House of Delegates

Grange News

Hurley Unit

During the recent regular meeting of Hurley Grange the following officers were elected: Walter Stauble, master; Frank Kruetzfeldt, overseer; Beatrice Ten Eyck, lecturer; Christiana Dixon, chaplain; Andrew Lehtonen, steward; Chester Decker, assistant steward; Matthew Tryon, treasurer; Ethel E. Palen, secretary; Vernon Goetchius, gatekeeper; Helen Lehtonen, Ceres; Ida Decker, Pomona; Martha Kruetzfeldt, Flora; Ann Goetchius, lady assistant steward.

It was announced that the Hurley blood bank, which serves the town, has sent more than 20 donors to the laboratory to donate blood. Several replacements of blood also have been made, it was reported.

The Grange recently sponsored the repainting, relettering and stone piers rebuilt on the Town of Hurley Honor Roll.

At the next regular meeting, Sept. 25, installation of officers will take place with Ross Osterhoudt and his installing team from Stone Ridge in charge. A flower show also will be held in conjunction with the meeting.

During a recent meeting, a member of the Grange appeared before the town board and requested that the dump road be repaired and made passable. Action has been taken on this.

The literary program by Helen Lehtonen was a reading by Mrs. Lehtonen; songs, entire Grange; monologue, Ethel Lockwood; and a game. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Justin Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Tryon.

French Designs Accent High Bust, Bell Skirt

Winter fashions from Paris show the suit with the fuller skirt, the coat with elongated lines, the elegant, formal look for evening and the simple wool dress with fitted bodice. Suit (left) by Jean Desses in medium blue has skirt set atop stiffened petticoats, flat basque with boot-button trim. Christian Dior's full length coat (left center) is elephant gray mohair cloth with deep yoke and long-line pleats.

NEA Staff Writer

Paris — (NEA) — For the average woman, each fashion report from Paris means a new tussle with budget and silhouette. This year, while there are basic changes over last year's fashions, she'll be pleased to know that she doesn't have to scratch her old wardrobe completely.

The basic changes come, first, in the disappearance of the tight and slinky skirt. Even suit skirts show more width at the hem, a width that is belled out over the stiffening provided by crinoline and taffeta petticoats. Fullness is massed at the back, or the front, or distributed about the waist, bell-wise, by such designers as Fath, Desses and Paquin.

A second basic change arrives in the higher, accented bustline that is the result of Empire influence. Collars achieve choker proportions and in daytime dresses, there are bows, jabot, and shoulder drapery. For evening gowns, molded brassiere effects concentrate attention above the waistline.

The normal waist and diaphragm are still molded by high, shaped corselet belts from Desses and Maggy Rouff. But the unbelted princess line reappears in Dior designs. Hips remain rounded with many of the swinging skirts stemming from deep hip yokes or graduated gores.

A third basic change comes in the realm of femininity. Even in tailored clothes, Balenciaga has introduced widened, unfitted shoulders and complicated sleeves. The man-tailored suit is temporarily eclipsed. Sleeves are important in many ways. They become full Regency with Fath, start half-crescent with Desses, are raglan, bishop, modernized leg o' mutton or bell. All but the bell sleeve have one fashion point in common: they taper off from elbow to wrist.

The fashion-conscious, budget-flattened woman will find many notions in the new collections that will help her bring her wardrobe up-to-date. The use of ribbon is one of these. It's seen in enormous butterfly or bustle bows with trailing ends on evening gowns by Maggy Rouff and Balmain. It appears in narrower widths and pastel colors to underline the high bustline and eighteen-inch waist in Dior designs.

Coats offer a wide choice of lines. Dior does casual, medium full, belted ulsters, these sometimes fur-lined. Balmain and Paquin have redingotes with full, swinging skirts and Desses and Fath design unfitted coats with excessive or restrained fullness starting from the shoulder-line. Balmain's afternoon coats have postillion cape collars and shawl collars are draped waist-deep by Paquin in fur or fabric. The fashionable, bulky look comes, of course, from pebbly or long-haired woolens.

Black is once again out in front for wear around the clock, but gray, from a deep shade to a pale pewter, is a strong daytime color. And there is a whole new range of blues, launched by Desses and featuring drake and peacock, kingfisher and Brazilian, butterfly and petrol blue.

Tone Loses His Fight Over Blonde, But He Gets Her

Hollywood, Sept. 17 (AP)—Franchot Tone, the suave screen lover, lost a fight over a shapely blonde but apparently has won the girl.

Actress Barbara Payton says he proposed and she said "Yes."

Thus the ultimate loser of a pre-dawn movie colony brawl is muscular Tom Neal, who threw the punch which pulped Tone's patrician profile and hospitalized him with a brain concussion.

Neal took it hard. 'I was very much in love with the girl, and still am today," he admitted. "I hope she and Tone will be very happy."

Tone, his doctors report, is on the road to rapid recovery. He proposed marriage yesterday to Miss Payton during her second fire escape visit to his room.

"I love him very much," the 25-year-old film player said afterward in her first cordial encounter with newsmen since the fight. "We knew yesterday that we would marry, but today he asked me."

All of which leaves but one question unanswered in the aftermath of the Friday morning bloodletting in Miss Payton's patio, namely:

Will Tone press charges against Neal, the bull shouldered actor and weight lifter, or will all three principals be content to let the matter drop? Apparently the answer to that one hinges on further conferences, between Tone and his lawyer.

Expresses His Regrets

Neal emerged from seclusion last night to supplement his previous account of the fight and to express his regrets. He still insisted that Tone threw the first punch.

"Barbara came out and asked Franchot when he was going to get rid of me," said Neal in an interview with the Times. "Then she threw her arms around him and gave him a long kiss.

"That kiss is what touched it off."

From behind the wheel of her convertible yesterday, Miss Payton passed a few remarks about Neal, too, none of them complimentary. She denied published reports that it was Neal's superb physique, displayed in swim trunks, that first attracted her to him.

"I wouldn't have the man in my house," she snapped. "I wouldn't call him a gentleman."

Her announcement of Tone's proposal followed by 24 hours her scheduled trip to the altar with Neal. She also revealed that she did, indeed, suffer a black eye when she tried to halt the thrashing.

"Neal sat on Franchot and just beat him," she related. "It's a criminal thing."

Compliments Tone

Across town, the apologetic athlete offered a compliment to the fallen aesthete, Tone. "I'll have to give him credit," Neal said. "He wasn't yellow. He stood up and took it."

Of his ex-fiancee, Neal said: "She couldn't make up her mind between Tone and me. First it was Tone, then it was me, then Tone, then me. Now, I guess, it's Tone."

And Tone? He was feeling quite chipper. He sat up in bed, ate a hearty meal and played jazz music on the radio.

"Did he kiss you?" a photographer asked Miss Payton outside the hospital.

Beef, Pork Prices Are to Be Raised

Average of 2 Cents More Per Pound Ahead; Packers Howl

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—Beef prices are going up at wholesale and retail. So are butcher shop ceilings for ham, bacon and pork shoulder. For the housewife it will mean about two cents a pound more.

The government's Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) announced the increase in wholesale beef ceilings last night and said the beef and pork retail hikes will be coming out in the next few days.

A beef carcass under the new wholesale ceilings, effective Wednesday, will be about a penny-a-pound higher. The OPS said this is necessary because prices for hides and fats from a beef animal have dropped, denting packer processing profits.

Packers Protest

Two big midwest packing houses immediately protested that the penny increase is not enough to help them out of a squeeze between the price of live beef and the amount they can pay for it under ceiling regulations.

The higher beef wholesale prices will require the higher retail prices. These changes in butcher shop ceilings will average about 1½ to 2 cents a pound more to the housewife for beef cuts.

In adjusting wholesale beef prices, the OPS also moved to correct what it said had been generally too high ceilings for the better cuts of beef and to low ceilings for cheaper cuts.

The good steaks weren't selling too well, so OPS plans to cut choice porterhouse, for instance, about four cents a pound. Less desirable cuts which people were scrambling for will get increased ceilings.

Expect Little Help

The two packers, both located in Indianapolis, said they doubted the increase in prices they are allowed to pay for live beef will help them. Stark, Wetzel and Company said it would be forced to reduce its beef kill by 30 to 35 per cent. Kingan and Company said it would not reduce the beef kill now but will continue to lose money on beef.

One consolation for higher beef prices is that the lower tallow and hide prices probably foreshadow somewhat lower retail costs for soap and shoes. However, OPS officials declined to say what they would do to beef prices if tallow and hides markets soar once more.

The higher retail ceilings for ham, bacon and pork shoulder are due this week—a few cents a pound, officials said. This will continue the profit-margin principle for these pork cuts which OPS already has granted for pork roasts and chops.

Based on Decline

However, the pork profit margin regulations require that retail ceilings go down automatically when live hog prices decline. OPS officials said that if the recent hog market decline continues, lower pork ceilings will result.

Along with its new wholesale beef ceilings, OPS raised ceilings for the Utility grade of live cattle. The change at Chicago was from $21.80 to $23.45 a hundred pounds with the same relative adjustment at other cattle centers.

Utility grade beef is used mainly for sausage and canned meats. Little of it is sold in butcher shops.

Will Effect Changes

New Delhi, India, Sept. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru announced in Parliament today, to storms of applause, that his government will go forward with a highly controversial bill to enact revolutionary changes in the 5,000-year-old Hindu laws. Stormy debate began at once on the bill, which would confer personal property rights on 160,000,000 women—including the right to sue for divorce. Up to now, such a thing has been unthinkable in the Hindu religion, which makes marriage binding on the wife for her lifetime.

How to Fight Off Attacks On Your Love for Child

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Recently, a mother writes, her husband has begun accusing her of not loving their 11-year-old daughter. Since he makes this charge in the child's presence, she is beginning to resist her mother's discipline. The home is so unhappy that the mother is beginning to wonder if she does love her little daughter the way she should. She asks if I have any helpful suggestion to make.

I have a suggestion. I suggest that this mother stop worrying about whether she loves her child and start in loving herself.

Dr. Erich Fromm has given us a definition of love which this confused mother should ponder. "Love," he says, "is the expression of intimacy between two human beings, under the condition of the preservation of each other's integrity."

My correspondent's integrity is under attack. Let her repair the damage that has been done to it. When she has regained her sense of herself as a lovable, worthy person, she can begin to concern herself with loving her little girl.

It is very hard indeed for us to love anyone at all when we are tormented with fear that we are a wicked unnatural person. Very few of us can endure such a fear without beginning to hate.

A parent who is accused of not liking his child should take account of this fear and laugh it out of existence. If he takes it seriously, he may end up by actually coming to resent the youngster who seems responsible for exposing his parent as a bad human being.

My correspondent does not have to prove that she is lovable and good to either her child or her husband. Just to herself.

Don't Fall for Envy and Discouragement

We should recognize as simple aggression any pressure that insists that we prove to others that we are good efficient, and worthy. Envy, hurt, and discouragement are always saying to us, "Come on, let's see how good you are. Let's see you prove you're what you claim to be." We shouldn't fall for it. We prove what we claim to be to ourselves, and to God if we believe in Him.

I think that if my correspondent can accept this idea, she may be able to solve her problem. As she develops self-acceptance and self-appreciation, love for her little girl will just happen to her. It will happen so obviously that nobody will be able to question it.

When we are trying to work out a problem like this, the less we talk about our strategy, the better. One of the pitfalls is the trick that gets us into defensive arguments. We shoudn't fall for that, either. The business of rebuilding our sense of our own value is a deeply private one and our sincere effort should not be made the subject of discussion or argument.

Anything that tries to diminish or destroy our sense of ourselves as good is not helping us to love. It is helping us to doubt, to fear, to resent and to feel guilt.

The child psychologists have told us often that this is true of children. It's true for their fathers and mothers, too.

The good steaks weren't selling too well, so OPS plans to cut choice porterhouse, for instance, about four cents a pound. Less desirable cuts which people were scrambling for will get increased ceilings.

Expect Little Help

The two packers, both located in Indianapolis, said they doubted the increase in prices they are allowed to pay for live beef will help them. Stark, Wetzel and Company said it would be forced to reduce its beef kill by 30 to 35 per cent. Kingan and Company said it would not reduce the beef kill now but will continue to lose money on beef.

One consolation for higher beef prices is that the lower tallow and hide prices probably foreshadow somewhat lower retail costs for soap and shoes. However, OPS officials declined to say what they would do to beef prices if tallow and hides markets soar once more.

The higher retail ceilings for ham, bacon and pork shoulder are due this week—a few cents a pound, officials said. This will continue the profit-margin principle for these pork cuts which OPS already has granted for pork roasts and chops.

Based on Decline

However, the pork profit margin regulations require that retail ceilings go down automatically when live hog prices decline. OPS officials said that if the recent hog market decline continues, lower pork ceilings will result.

Along with its new wholesale beef ceilings, OPS raised ceilings for the Utility grade of live cattle. The change at Chicago was from $21.80 to $23.45 a hundred pounds with the same relative adjustment at other cattle centers.

Utility grade beef is used mainly for sausage and canned meats. Little of it is sold in butcher shops.

New Delhi, India, Sept. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru announced in Parliament today, to storms of applause, that his government will go forward with a highly controversial bill to enact revolutionary changes in the 5,000-year-old Hindu laws. Up to now, such a thing has been unthinkable in the Hindu religion, which makes marriage binding on the wife for her lifetime.

WE ARE NOW FOUR YEARS OLD

It was four years ago this morning that we first opened the doors of our home appliance showroom on the Saugerties Road.

Before entering into this business venture or selecting the site for our building we first made a careful survey of this area.

We found that what the people of Kingston and nearby Ulster County wanted most was a concern located where parking would never be a problem, one that specialized in quality appliances, sold them at reasonable prices and most important of all, backed them up fully with good service.

You have proven by your patronage during these last four years that we guessed right. Our sales, we are happy to say, have gone far beyond our expectations, of course we plan to continue our present policy.

May we take this opportunity to thank each and every customer for your valued patronage, it has been a pleasure doing business with you.

We hope that we may continue to serve you.

Tone Loses His Fight Over Blonde, But He Gets Her

Hollywood, Sept. 17 (AP)—Franchot Tone, the suave screen lover, lost a fight over a shapely blonde but apparently has won the girl.

Actress Barbara Payton says he proposed and she said "Yes."

Thus the ultimate loser of a pre-dawn movie colony brawl is muscular Tom Neal, who threw the punch which pulped Tone's patrician profile and hospitalized him with a brain concussion.

Neal took it hard. "I was very much in love with the girl, and still am today," he admitted. "I hope she and Tone will be very happy."

Tone, his doctors report, is on the road to rapid recovery. He proposed marriage yesterday to Miss Payton during her second fire escape visit to his room.

"I love him very much," the 25-year-old film player said afterward in her first cordial encounter with newsmen since the fight. "We knew yesterday that we would marry, but today he asked me."

All of which leaves but one question unanswered in the aftermath of the Friday morning bloodletting in Miss Payton's patio, namely:

Will Tone press charges against Neal, the bull shouldered actor and weight lifter, or will all three principals be content to let the matter drop? Apparently the answer to that one hinges on further conferences, between Tone and his lawyer.

Expresses His Regrets

Neal emerged from seclusion last night to supplement his previous account of the fight and to express his regrets. He still insisted that Tone threw the first punch.

"Barbara came out and asked Franchot when he was going to get rid of me," said Neal in an interview with the Times. "Then she threw her arms around him and gave him a long kiss.

"That kiss is what touched it off."

From behind the wheel of her convertible yesterday, Miss Payton passed a few remarks about Neal, too, none of them complimentary. She denied published reports that it was Neal's superb physique, displayed in swim trunks, that first attracted her to him.

"I wouldn't have the man in my house," she snapped. "I wouldn't call him a gentleman."

Her announcement of Tone's proposal followed by 24 hours her scheduled trip to the altar with Neal. She also revealed that she did, indeed, suffer a black eye when she tried to halt the thrashing.

"Neal sat on Franchot and just beat him," she related. "It's a criminal thing."

Compliments Tone

Across town, the apologetic athlete offered a compliment to the fallen aesthete, Tone. "I'll have to give him credit," Neal said. "He wasn't yellow. He stood up and took it."

Of his ex-fiancee, Neal said: "She couldn't make up her mind between Tone and me. First it was Tone, then it was me, then Tone, then me. Now, I guess, it's Tone."

And Tone? He was feeling quite chipper. He sat up in bed, ate a hearty meal and played jazz music on the radio.

"Did he kiss you?" a photographer asked Miss Payton outside the hospital.

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Recently, a mother writes, her husband has begun accusing her of not loving their 11-year-old daughter. Since he makes this charge in the child's presence, she is beginning to resist her mother's discipline. The home is so unhappy that the mother is beginning to wonder if she does love her little daughter the way she should. She asks if I have any helpful suggestion to make.

I have a suggestion. I suggest that this mother stop worrying about whether she loves her child and start in loving herself.

Dr. Erich Fromm has given us a definition of love which this confused mother should ponder. "Love," he says, "is the expression of intimacy between two human beings, under the condition of the preservation of each other's integrity."

My correspondent's integrity is under attack. Let her repair the damage that has been done to it. When she has regained her sense of herself as a lovable, worthy person, she can begin to concern herself with loving her little girl.

It is very hard indeed for us to love anyone at all when we are tormented with fear that we are a wicked unnatural person. Very few of us can endure such a fear without beginning to hate.

A parent who is accused of not liking his child should take account of this fear and laugh it out of existence. If he takes it seriously, he may end up by actually coming to resent the youngster who seems responsible for exposing his parent as a bad human being.

My correspondent does not have to prove that she is lovable and good to either her child or her husband. Just to herself.

Don't Fall for Envy and Discouragement

We should recognize as simple aggression any pressure that insists that we prove to others that we are good efficient, and worthy. Envy, hurt, and discouragement are always saying to us, "Come on, let's see how good you are. Let's see you prove you're what you claim to be." We shouldn't fall for it. We prove what we claim to be to ourselves, and to God if we believe in Him.

I think that if my correspondent can accept this idea, she may be able to solve her problem. As she develops self-acceptance and self-appreciation, love for her little girl will just happen to her. It will happen so obviously that nobody will be able to question it.

When we are trying to work out a problem like this, the less we talk about our strategy, the better. One of the pitfalls is the trick that gets us into defensive arguments. We shoudn't fall for that, either. The business of rebuilding our sense of our own value is a deeply private one and our sincere effort should not be made the subject of discussion or argument.

Anything that tries to diminish or destroy our sense of ourselves as good is not helping us to love. It is helping us to doubt, to fear, to resent and to feel guilt.

pursued by another vehicle operated by Rudolph Stalder, of 12 Scanandaga Road, Scotia, the report said.

Stalder forced the Bostel car to the roadside "and tried to get Bostel to leave the car there," police said, but he refused. Stalder went to the gas station and informed the police and when he had returned Bostel had driven away.

The police report said that "Stalder claimed that Bostel narrowly missed striking two small boys when they were proceeding out East Chester street just past the Shultz grocery store."

The Bostel car, police said, "backed up into the Stalder car at East Chester street and Hasbrouck avenue," near the traffic light.

Proclamation

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today issued the following proclamation in behalf of Christian Education Week:

WHEREAS, the well being of our city, Kingston, can rise no higher than the character of our citizens;

WHEREAS, those character traits of integrity, good will, and social concern so greatly needed in our community life are those which have been nurtured by high religious devotion;

WHEREAS, the effective and faithful teaching now being carried on in our homes and churches should be more generally recognized, being basic to the welfare of every aspect of desirable family life;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Oscar V. Newkirk, Mayor of the City of Kingston, hereby proclaim the period beginning Sunday, September 30, and continuing through Sunday, October 7, 1951, as the Twenty-first Annual Christian Education Week and request that our people take seriously to heart their obligations to the churches and other religious institutions of their choice, remembering that only as religious faith is taught with understanding, skill, and zeal will our people remain forever free.

Beef, Pork Prices Are to Be Raised

Average of 2 Cents More Per Pound Ahead; Packers Howl

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—Beef prices are going up at wholesale and retail. So are butcher shop ceilings for ham, bacon and pork shoulder. For the housewife it will mean about two cents a pound more.

The government's Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) announced the increase in wholesale beef ceilings last night and said the beef and pork retail hikes will be coming out in the next few days.

A beef carcass under the new wholesale ceilings, effective Wednesday, will be about a penny-a-pound higher. The OPS said this is necessary because prices for hides and fats from a beef animal have dropped, denting packer processing profits.

Packers Protest

Two big midwest packing houses immediately protested that the penny increase is not enough to help them out of a squeeze between the price of live beef and the amount they can pay for it under ceiling regulations.

The higher beef wholesale prices will require the higher retail prices. These changes in butcher shop ceilings will average about 1½ to 2 cents a pound more to the housewife for beef cuts.

In adjusting wholesale beef prices, the OPS also moved to correct what it said had been generally too high ceilings for the better cuts of beef and to low ceilings for cheaper cuts.

The good steaks weren't selling too well, so OPS plans to cut choice porterhouse, for instance, about four cents a pound. Less desirable cuts which people were scrambling for will get increased ceilings.

Expect Little Help

The two packers, both located in Indianapolis, said they doubted the increase in prices they are allowed to pay for live beef will help them. Stark, Wetzel and Company said it would be forced to reduce its beef kill by 30 to 35 per cent. Kingan and Company said it would not reduce the beef kill now but will continue to lose money on beef.

One consolation for higher beef prices is that the lower tallow and hide prices probably foreshadow somewhat lower retail costs for soap and shoes. However, OPS officials declined to say what they would do to beef prices if tallow and hides markets soar once more.

The higher retail ceilings for ham, bacon and pork shoulder are due this week—a few cents a pound, officials said. This will continue the profit-margin principle for these pork cuts which OPS already has granted for pork roasts and chops.

Based on Decline

However, the pork profit margin regulations require that retail ceilings go down automatically when live hog prices decline. OPS officials said that if the recent hog market decline continues, lower pork ceilings will result.

Along with its new wholesale beef ceilings, OPS raised ceilings for the Utility grade of live cattle. The change at Chicago was from $21.80 to $23.45 a hundred pounds with the same relative adjustment at other cattle centers.

Dairymen Win, 5-2; Second Playoff Game Ends in 1-1 Tie

Magley (Not Sal) Excels for Gulfmen In Second Contest

Boulevards File Protest in Nightcap

If they can ever get away from those 1-1 ball games they'll crown a 1951 champion in the post-season Shaughnessy playoffs of the City Baseball League one of these days.

After Jones Dairy kept alive its hopes by winning the opener Sunday afternoon at the Athletic Field by 5 to 2, the Dairymen and Boulevard Gulf tangled in another tie contest and after nine innings of play the game was called due to darkness with the scoreboard reading a familiar 1 to 1 score.

Thus, after Sunday's big double-header, the Gulfmen still hold a 2 to 1 edge in the playoffs with the next game scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 30, at 2:30 p. m. at the Smith avenue ball park.

Game Under Protest

The 1-1 tie game, however, was played under protest by Boulevards due to a rhubarb in the ninth inning on a ground rule technicality.

With Boulevard runners on first and second, "Dolph" Munson hoisted a fly to Tommy Maines in right center. Schoonmaker, on second, tagged up after the catch and galloped to third. Meanwhile, Maines' relay bounced away from the Jones on Third base and hit the water bucket adjacent to the Dairymen's bench on the third base line. The Gulfmen contended that the water bucket is part of the player's bench but Umpire Bill Schwab refused to allow the extra base and the protest was lodged by the Boulevards at that point.

According to the league rule, one base is automatically awarded when any thrown ball bounces into the player's bench.

Fisher Is Winner

If the protest is upheld the game will be played from the point of protest in the ninth inning. If disallowed, a full game will be played.

Veteran Tommy Fisher and Bullet Bill Tierney hooked up in yesterday's opener with Fisher hanging up a five-hit victory. The Dairymen collected eight hits off Tierney.

After the Gulfmen took a 1-0 lead in the first on a double by Koch and a subsequent double steal by Koch and Vogt who had reached on an error, the Dairymen tied the count in the second with a single tally.

The tying marker came across when Maines walked and romped home on "Daisy" Schatzel's double into the right field corner.

The Dairymen put over what proved to be the winning runs in the third. Bob Shelightner opened with a walk but was forced at second by Fisher. Berardi slapped a single to left, sending Fisher to third. Bob Graves' single scored Fisher and when Bob Lyons erred, Berardi came in with the second run of the frame.

Graves, Maines Whack Homers

Home runs by Maines in the sixth and another by Graves in the seventh completed the victory. Graves led the winners by stroking three safeties in four trips.

Except for a sterling relief job by George Magley (no relation to Sal Maglie of the Giants) the playoffs might have been all tied up this morning.

Boulevard Gulf, without a first line pitcher, called upon Magley, an outfielder, to do the second game pitching chores and he responded with a neat four-hit job in the nine-inning stint. Clark Donlon went all the way for Jones in the nightcap and permitted five hits.

The Dairymen opened the second game scoring in the fourth when Carlino singled, stole second and scored on Maines' one-baser.

The Boulevard marker came in the seventh when Cliff Schoonmaker singled, pilfered second and rode home when Carlino booted Munson's ground ball at short.

Messinger's Memos: Bob Graves was the big run in the first game, his homer and two singles off Bill Tierney capped the outstanding offensive effort of the day, but, by far the greatest exhibition was staged by George Magley in the second game. Any pitcher that can hold the vaunted Jonesmen to four singles in nine innings deserves orchids. Magley's one lapse came in the fourth when he allowed two of the four hits and together with a stolen base lost his chance for a well deserved win . . . Graves and Brinkman collaborated on a short fly by Koch in the fourth inning of the second game when the ball bounced out of Graves' glove and was smothered by Brinkman . . . Throughout both games the play was sharp with both teams coming up with fine fielding plays. The fans were alive and the league treasury had itself quite a face-lifting . . . An oddity occurred in the first game when each of the Oilmen were credited with three official times at bat . . . All in all, the City League's first double-header was quite a success with the possibility of another on September 30. It depends on the outcome of the protest meeting as to how the second game will be entered into the records.

Winning Big Ones Still Formula As Yanks Take Over First Place

Bosox Only 2½ Games Off Pace

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York's defending champion Yankees still win the big ones—and that is why they're back in first place today.

Because of their ability to rise to the occasion, because they seldom folded in the clutch, and because they were able to beat the team in front of them, the Yankees won the flag in 1949 and '50.

History simply repeated itself yesterday when the Bronx Bombers crushed Cleveland, 5-1, and replaced the Indians at the top of the American League.

At the same time, Boston's third-place Red Sox remained right in the thick of things by beating the Chicago White Sox, 5-4, and climbing to within 2½ games of the top.

The Yankee victory came on the anniversary of their taking the league lead a year ago. Only on Sept. 16, 1950, it was the Tigers they beat to grab a lead they never lost.

New York's first-place hold is a precarious three percentage points and it can be expunged today if Ed Lopat loses to Cleveland's Bob Lemon in the last meeting between the two clubs.

Stadium Tough on Tribe

Up to now, however, the Indians have shown a pathetic inepteness at the Yankee Stadium. Of 10 games on the Yankees' home grounds they have won only one.

Allie Reynolds, whom the Indians traded to the Yankees in the winter of '46, wielded the tomahawk yesterday. He set the Tribe back on five hits and drove in the winning run with a second-inning single.

It was in the Yankee half of the fifth, however, that this crucial contest reached its most dramatic point, as far as the capacity crowd of 68,760 was concerned.

The Yankees, leading 3-1, had a runner on third with two away. Cleveland strategy dictated an intentional pass to the lefthanded Yogi Berra so the righthanded Bob Feller could pitch to Joe Di Maggio. It was the third time in DiMaggio's illustrious career—all coming this season—that a batter was passed to get at Joe. It was the first time at the Stadium.

The Yankee Clipper knocked the strategy into a cocked hat and slammed Feller out of the box with a two-run triple that rolled to the left-center field fence 457 feet away.

The victory was the 15th for Reynolds. Five of these have come over Cleveland. Feller, whose 22 victories leads all the hurlers, was charged with his eighth setback and his third in four duels with Reynolds.

The Indians, who move on to Boston tomorrow for a two-game series, have nine games left to play. The Yankees have 13 and the Red Sox 14, but eight are against each other.

Dodger Lead 4½ Games

Lest it be forgotten, there still is a pennant race in the National League. Two victories over Pittsburgh, 7-1 and 6-4, kept the faint hopes of the New York Giants alive as Brooklyn's first-place margin shrunk to 4½ games despite their 6-1 triumph over the Cubs in Chicago.

The Dodgers' "magic" number still is eight. That is the number of games they have to win in order to clinch the flag. Brooklyn has 14 games to play, the Giants nine.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia's Athletics whipped the St. Louis Browns twice, 7-1 and 7-5; Detroit took two from Washington, 3-1 and 4-3; St. Louis' Cardinals vanquished the Philadelphia Phils, 9-2 and Cincinnati and the Boston Braves split. Kenny Raffensberger pitched the Braves to a 4-0 victory after Boston won, 6-5, for Warren Spahn's 21st triumph.

Maury McDermott, the Boston Red Sox southpaw, will return to his home town of Poughkeepsie in conjunction with "Bill Whalen Day" at Riverview Field on Sunday, Oct. 14. The same group that did such a terrific job on "Wes Westrum Day" at the Polo Grounds will honor the former semi-pro figure for his contribution to the game over the past several years.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The Amsterdam Rugmakers apparently got the hitting prospects and the Oneonta Red Sox the pitching prizes in the Cam-Am League this season. Willie Casanova, Frank Wehner and Bella should move a few notches up the Yankee chain, while the Osox's Paul Alyward looks like a pitcher in the Tex Hughson mould. Most valuable player voting in the Can-Am resulted in a scrambling of ballots. George McPhail, the Pittsfield flinger, drew heavy support we understand but this corner voted for an every day performer. Dr. Fred Holcomb tells about shooting a "legit" 74 on the Wiltwyck layout and getting fleeced by Watts Bailey and Leon Randall. The Catskill Country Club hole-in-one tournament the next two week-ends features a novel plan whereby additional shots may be purchased beyond the allotted four and the money will be turned over to some Catskill charity. Tommy Danaher is looking forward to the finest field in the history of the Wiltwyck Pro-Am on September 30. Armand Farina, the hot man of this year's Northeastern PGA circuit, is a definite starter. A share of the enry fees will be turned over to Warren Townley, the former Woodstock Country Club pro, who had to undergo leg amputations several months ago.

Hank Cragan tells an amusing story about the heartbreak of one of his youngsters when the kid discovered that his favorite Cleveland Indians were not real Indians as he had suspected. A youthful tragedy, indeed.

"Somebody told the kid that Bobby Avila is a Mexican and not an Indian," Hank told friends, "and he's been broken-hearted ever since. Now he won't root for anybody."

Just by way of proving that our own Bob Saehloff of the advertising department did more than just make five copies during the recent stint in the armed forces prescribed by a group of friends and neighbors, here is a bit of poetry that Robert concocted for the Army Times, an official Army newspaper:

Burning Embers

"A cigarette please,"
He murmered soft and low,
Then lay and rested
Watching its smoking glow.
The rising smoke took form,
The glowing gave it life,
His heart grew steadily warm . . .
The image was his wife.
"My darling," he said,
That's all and nothing more,
For the imbedded, jagged piece of lead
Had closed his short life's door.
The cigarette still burned.
White smoke was rising high,
Thank God, the image it had formed
Had not seen the soldier die.
—Cpl. R. Saehloff

In reference to statements that Cadet Ed Weaver is being silenced by the rest of the cadets at West Point, even though he has been cleared of any connection with the recent cheating ring, the Cadet Honor Committee, Thomas W. Collier, had this to say:

"Cadet Weaver is neither under official silence by the Honor Committee, nor is he being snubbed unofficially by any members of the Corps. On the contrary, we are rather proud of him and have nothing but support for him and the rest of this year's Army team."

Week-End Sports

(By The Associated Press)

Bethlehem, Pa.—Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., defeated Joe Gagliardi, Mamaroneck, 4 and 3, in finals of National Amateur Golf championship.

Baltimore — Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, won Eastern Open tournament with 72-hole score of 279.

Atlanta—Betsy Rawls, Austin, Tex., scored a three-over-par 75 and 72-hole total of 293 for victory in the National Women's Open.

Los Angeles—Frank Sedgman, U. S. National champion from Australia defeated Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, in finals of Pacific Southwest tournament; national titleholder Maureen Connolly won women's title with 9-7, 6-4 decision over Beverly Baker.

Miami—Bill Klem, one of the most famed of all baseball umpires, died at age of 77.

Gibson Island, Md.—E. W. (Skip) Etchells, Rocky Point, Conn., won world championship for star class sailboats.

Breezes to Victory

Perth Amboy, N. J., Sept. 17 (AP) — Ed Moylan of Trenton breezed through the finals yesterday to win the Perth Amboy Men's Invitational tennis championship. Moylan knocked off defending champ Charles Masterson of Hicksville, N. Y., 6-2, 6-4, 6-0. Masterson was not in peak form in his match with Moylan. He had been pushed to the limit in his semi-final victory over Tony Vincent of New York, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5. He was a tired player when he got to Moylan.

'Magic' Number Eight

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—The "magic" number for the Brooklyn Dodgers still is eight. That means they need eight victories—or eight New York Giant defeats, or a combination of both—to sew up the National League pennant. Brooklyn has 14 games left to play, the Giants nine.

Beicherts Defeat Newburgh Twice Behind Enright

Beichert's Studebakers, champions of the City Softball League, registered a double victory over the Newburgh Studies Sunday by scores of 4 to 2 and 8 to 2.

The Newburgh club won the Newburgh "B" Division with 15 straight wins.

Joe Enright hurled both wins for the locals Sunday and gave up a total of 13 hits in both games.

He had a shutout going in the opener until Newburgh shoved across two runs in the bottom half of the ninth inning.

J. Woods, while playing a sparkling defensive job at third for Beicherts, hammered a homer and had three runs batted in in the first game. He also rapped out a triple. DeLuca of Newburgh reached Enright for a homer.

A big three-run first inning was all Enright needed to post the win in the nightcap. Enright was cuffed for two runs in the second frame but blanked the Hilly City softballers the rest of the distance.

E. Dasher slammed a homer for the winners.

The scores:

(First Game)

Beicherts	201	001	0	4	8	1
Newburgh	000	000	2	2	5	1

Batteries — Enright and Matheus; Maytka and Shapiro.

(Second Game)

Beicherts	310	220	0	8	12	2
Newburgh	020	000	0	2	8	3

Batteries — Enright and Matheus; D. Shapiro and S. Shapiro.

Batting: Al Dark, Giants—Collected six hits, including an inside-the-park homer, and drove in three runs as New York swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 7-1 and 6-4.

Pitching: Allie Reynolds, Yankees — Spun a five-hitter and fanned eight as the Yankees defeated Cleveland, 5-1. It was his fifth victory over the Indians.

Oneonta Sweeps Can-Am Laurels

Gloversville, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP)—The Oneonta Red Sox have completed a grand slam in the Canadian-American League—winning both halves of the split season and the playoffs.

The Sox rounded out the sweep Saturday night by shading Gloversville, 2-1, in 10 innings to win the league's playoff title.

The victory was Oneonta's third straight after losing the opener of the best-of-five final.

Bob Guttilla's single knocked in Bob Atwood for the winning run. Atwood had singled and advanced on a sacrifice and an infield out.

Paul Aylward stopped the Glovers on six hits. The Sox reached Al Barkus for nine.

Gloversville finished the regular season in fourth place.

Dairymen Win, 5-2; Second Playoff Game Ends in 1-1 Tie

Magley (Not Sal) Excels for Gulfmen In Second Contest

Boulevards File Protest in Nightcap

If they can ever get away from those 1-1 ball games they'll crown a 1951 champion in the post-season Shaughnessy playoffs of the City Baseball League one of these days.

After Jones Dairy kept alive its hopes by winning the opener Sunday afternoon at the Athletic Field by 5 to 2, the Dairymen and Boulevard Gulf tangled in another tie contest and after nine innings of play the game was called due to darkness with the scoreboard reading a familiar 1 to 1 score.

Thus, after Sunday's big double-header, the Gulfmen still hold a 2 to 1 edge in the playoffs with the next game scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 30, at 2:30 p. m. at the Smith avenue ball park.

Game Under Protest

The 1-1 tie game, however, was played under protest by Boulevards due to a rhubarb in the ninth inning on a ground rule technicality.

With Boulevard runners on first and second, "Dolph" Munson hoisted a fly to Tommy Maines in right center. Schoonmaker, on second, tagged up after the catch and galloped to third. Meanwhile, Maines' relay bounced away from the Jones on Third base and hit the water bucket adjacent to the Dairymen's bench on the third base line. The Gulfmen contended that the water bucket is part of the player's bench but Umpire Bill Schwab refused to allow the extra base and the protest was lodged by the Boulevards at that point.

According to the league rule, one base is automatically awarded when any thrown ball bounces into the player's bench.

Fisher Is Winner

If the protest is upheld the game will be played from the point of protest in the ninth inning. If disallowed, a full game will be played.

Veteran Tommy Fisher and Bullet Bill Tierney hooked up in yesterday's opener with Fisher hanging up a five-hit victory. The Dairymen collected eight hits off Tierney.

After the Gulfmen took a 1-0 lead in the first on a double by Koch and a subsequent double steal by Koch and Vogt who had reached on an error, the Dairymen tied the count in the second with a single tally.

The tying marker came across when Maines walked and romped home on "Daisy" Schatzel's double into the right field corner.

The Dairymen put over what proved to be the winning runs in the third. Bob Shelightner opened with a walk but was forced at second by Fisher. Berardi slapped a single to left, sending Fisher to third. Bob Graves' single scored Fisher and when Bob Lyons erred, Berardi came in with the second run of the frame.

Graves, Maines Whack Homers

Home runs by Maines in the sixth and another by Graves in the seventh completed the victory. Graves led the winners by stroking three safeties in four trips.

Except for a sterling relief job by George Magley (no relation to Sal Maglie of the Giants) the playoffs might have been all tied up this morning.

Boulevard Gulf, without a first line pitcher, called upon Magley, an outfielder, to do the second game pitching chores and he responded with a neat four-hit job in the nine-inning stint. Clark Donlon went all the way for Jones in the nightcap and permitted five hits.

The Dairymen opened the second game scoring in the fourth when Carlino singled, stole second and scored on Maines' one-baser.

The Boulevard marker came in the seventh when Cliff Schoonmaker singled, pilfered second and rode home when Carlino booted Munson's ground ball at short.

Messinger's Memos: Bob Graves was the big run in the first game, his homer and two singles off Bill Tierney capped the outstanding offensive effort of the day, but, by far the greatest exhibition was staged by George Magley in the second game. Any pitcher that can hold the vaunted Jonesmen to four singles in nine innings deserves orchids. Magley's one lapse came in the fourth when he allowed two of the four hits and together with a stolen base lost his chance for a well deserved win . . . Graves and Brinkman collaborated on a short fly by Koch in the fourth inning of the second game when the ball bounced out of Graves' glove and was smothered by Brinkman . . . Throughout both games the play was sharp with both teams coming up with fine fielding plays. The fans were alive and the league treasury had itself quite a face-lifting . . . An oddity occurred in the first game when each of the Oilmen were credited with three official times at bat . . . All in all, the City League's first double-header was quite a success with the possibility of another on September 30. It depends on the outcome of the protest meeting as to how the second game will be entered into the records.

Winning Big Ones Still Formula As Yanks Take Over First Place

Bosox Only 2½ Games Off Pace

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York's defending champion Yankees still win the big ones—and that is why they're back in first place today.

Because of their ability to rise to the occasion, because they seldom folded in the clutch, and because they were able to beat the team in front of them, the Yankees won the flag in 1949 and '50.

History simply repeated itself yesterday when the Bronx Bombers crushed Cleveland, 5-1, and replaced the Indians at the top of the American League.

At the same time, Boston's third-place Red Sox remained right in the thick of things by beating the Chicago White Sox, 5-4, and climbing to within 2½ games of the top.

The Yankee victory came on the anniversary of their taking the league lead a year ago. Only on Sept. 16, 1950, it was the Tigers they beat to grab a lead they never lost.

New York's first-place hold is a precarious three percentage points and it can be expunged today if Ed Lopat loses to Cleveland's Bob Lemon in the last meeting between the two clubs.

Stadium Tough on Tribe

Up to now, however, the Indians have shown a pathetic inceptness at the Yankee Stadium. Of 10 games on the Yankees' home grounds they have won only one.

Allie Reynolds, whom the Indians traded to the Yankees in the winter of '46, wielded the tomahawk yesterday. He set the Tribe back on five hits and drove in the winning run with a second-inning single.

It was in the Yankee half of the fifth, however, that this crucial contest reached its most dramatic point, as far as the capacity crowd of 68,760 was concerned.

The Yankees, leading 3-1, had a runner on third with two away. Cleveland strategy dictated an intentional pass to the lefthanded Yogi Berra so the righthanded Bob Feller could pitch to Joe Di Maggio. It was the third time in DiMaggio's illustrious career—all coming this season—that a batter was passed to get at Joe. It was the first time at the Stadium.

The Yankee Clipper knocked the strategy into a cocked hat and slammed Feller out of the box with a two-run triple that rolled to the left-center field fence 457 feet away.

The victory was the 15th for Reynolds. Five of these have come over Cleveland. Feller, whose 22 victories leads all the hurlers, was charged with his eighth setback and his third in four duels with Reynolds.

The Indians, who move on to Boston tomorrow for a two-game series, have nine games left to play. The Yankees have 13 and the Red Sox 14, but eight are against each other.

Dodger Lead 4½ Games

Lest it be forgotten, there still is a pennant race in the National League. Two victories over Pittsburgh, 7-1 and 6-4, kept the faint hopes of the New York Giants alive as Brooklyn's first-place margin shrunk to 4½ games despite their 6-1 triumph over the Cubs in Chicago.

The Dodgers' "magic" number still is eight. That is the number of games they have to win in order to clinch the flag. Brooklyn has 14 games to play, the Giants nine.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia's Athletics whipped the St. Louis Browns twice, 7-1 and 7-5; Detroit took two from Washington, 3-1 and 4-3; St. Louis' Cardinals vanquished the Philadelphia Phils, 9-2 and Cincinnati and the Boston Braves split. Kenny Raffensberger pitched the Braves to a 4-0 victory after Boston won, 6-5, for Warren Spahn's 21st triumph.

Maury McDermott, the Boston Red Sox southpaw, will return to his home town of Poughkeepsie in conjunction with "Bill Whalen Day" at Riverview Field on Sunday, Oct. 14. The same group that did such a terrific job on "Wes Westrum Day" at the Polo Grounds will honor the former semi-pro figure for his contribution to the game over the past several years.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The Amsterdam Rugmakers apparently got the hitting prospects and the Oneonta Red Sox the pitching prizes in the Cam-Am League this season. Willie Casanova, Frank Wehner and Bella should move a few notches up the Yankee chain, while the Osox's Paul Alyward looks like a pitcher in the Tex Hughson mould. Most valuable player voting in the Can-Am resulted in a scrambling of ballots. George McPhail, the Pittsfield flinger, drew heavy support we understand but this corner voted for an every day performer. Dr. Fred Holcomb tells about shooting a "legit" 74 on the Wiltwyck layout and getting fleeced by Watts Bailey and Leon Randall. The Catskill Country Club hole-in-one tournament the next two week-ends features a novel plan whereby additional shots may be purchased beyond the allotted four and the money will be turned over to some Catskill charity. Tommy Danaher is looking forward to the finest field in the history of the Wiltwyck Pro-Am on September 30. Armand Farina, the hot man of this year's Northeastern PGA circuit, is a definite starter. A share of the enry fees will be turned over to Warren Townley, the former Woodstock Country Club pro, who had to undergo leg amputations several months ago.

Hank Cragan tells an amusing story about the heartbreak of one of his youngsters when the kid discovered that his favorite Cleveland Indians were not real Indians as he had suspected. A youthful tragedy, indeed.

"Somebody told the kid that Bobby Avila is a Mexican and not an Indian," Hank told friends, "and he's been broken-hearted ever since. Now he won't root for anybody."

Just by way of proving that our own Bob Saehloff of the advertising department did more than just make five copies during the recent stint in the armed forces prescribed by a group of friends and neighbors, here is a bit of poetry that Robert concocted for the Army Times, an official Army newspaper:

Burning Embers

"A cigarette please,"
He murmered soft and low,
Then lay and rested
Watching its smoking glow.
The rising smoke took form,
The glowing gave it life,
His heart grew steadily warm . . .
The image was his wife.
"My darling," he said,
That's all and nothing more,
For the imbedded, jagged piece of lead
Had closed his short life's door.
The cigarette still burned.
White smoke was rising high,
Thank God, the image it had formed
Had not seen the soldier die.
—Cpl. R. Saehloff

In reference to statements that Cadet Ed Weaver is being silenced by the rest of the cadets at West Point, even though he has been cleared of any connection with the recent cheating ring, the Cadet Honor Committee, Thomas W. Collier, had this to say:

"Cadet Weaver is neither under official silence by the Honor Committee, nor is he being snubbed unofficially by any members of the Corps. On the contrary, we are rather proud of him and have nothing but support for him and the rest of this year's Army team."

Week-End Sports

(By The Associated Press)

Bethlehem, Pa.—Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., defeated Joe Gagliardi, Mamaroneck, 4 and 3, in finals of National Amateur Golf championship.

Baltimore—Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, won Eastern Open tournament with 72-hole score of 279.

Atlanta—Betsy Rawls, Austin, Tex., scored a three-over-par 75 and 72-hole total of 293 for victory in the National Women's Open.

Los Angeles—Frank Sedgman, U. S. National champion from Australia defeated Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, in finals of Pacific Southwest tournament; national titleholder Maureen Connolly won women's title with 9-7, 6-4 decision over Beverly Baker.

Miami—Bill Klem, one of the most famed of all baseball umpires, died at age of 77.

Gibson Island, Md.—E. W. (Skip) Etchells, Rocky Point, Conn., won world championship for star class sailboats.

Breezes to Victory

Perth Amboy, N. J., Sept. 17 (AP) — Ed Moylan of Trenton breezed through the finals yesterday to win the Perth Amboy Men's Invitational tennis championship. Moylan knocked off defending champ Charles Masterson of Hicksville, N. Y., 6-2, 6-4, 6-0. Masterson was not in peak form in his match with Moylan. He had been pushed to the limit in his semi-final victory over Tony Vincent of New York, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5. He was a tired player when he got to Moylan.

'Magic' Number Eight

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—The "magic" number for the Brooklyn Dodgers still is eight. That means they need eight victories—or eight New York Giant defeats, or a combination of both—to sew up the National League pennant. Brooklyn has 14 games left to play, the Giants nine.

MAKING PASSES—University of Miami footballers manage to keep their eyes on the ball as they toss pigskins into a net held by Sandra Pendry, left, and Doris Medlin, local beauties, in a pre-season workout on the beach at Miami. Beicherts Defeat Newburgh Twice Behind Enright

Beichert's Studebakers, champions of the City Softball League, registered a double victory over the Newburgh Studies Sunday by scores of 4 to 2 and 8 to 2.

The Newburgh club won the Newburgh "B" Division with 15 straight wins.

Joe Enright hurled both wins for the locals Sunday and gave up a total of 13 hits in both games.

He had a shutout going in the opener until Newburgh shoved across two runs in the bottom half of the ninth inning.

J. Woods, while playing a sparkling defensive job at third for Beicherts, hammered a homer and had three runs batted in in the first game. He also rapped out a triple. DeLuca of Newburgh reached Enright for a homer.

A big three-run first inning was all Enright needed to post the win in the nightcap. Enright was cuffed for two runs in the second frame but blanked the Hilly City softballers the rest of the distance.

E. Dasher slammed a homer for the winners.

(First Game)

Beicherts	201 001 0	4	8 1
Newburgh	000 000 2	2	5 1

Batteries—Enright and Matheus; Maytka and Shapiro.

(Second Game)

Beicherts	310 220 0	8	12 2
Newburgh	020 000 0	2	8 3

Batteries—Enright and Matheus; D. Shapiro and S. Shapiro.

Batting: Al Dark, Giants—Collected six hits, including an inside-the-park homer, and drove in three runs as New York swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 7-1 and 6-4.

Pitching: Allie Reynolds, Yankees—Spun a five-hitter and fanned eight as the Yankees defeated Cleveland, 5-1. It was his fifth victory over the Indians.

Oneonta Sweeps Can-Am Laurels

Gloversville, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP)—The Oneonta Red Sox have completed a grand slam in the Canadian-American League—winning both halves of the split season and the playoffs.

The Sox rounded out the sweep Saturday night by shading Gloversville, 2-1, in 10 innings to win the league's playoff title.

The victory was Oneonta's third straight after losing the opener of the best-of-five final.

Bob Guttila's single knocked in Bob Atwood for the winning run. Atwood had singled and advanced on a sacrifice and an infield out.

Willy Williams of Gloversville hit a homer in the second inning. John Minarcin of the Sox duplicated the drive in the fourth.

Paul Aylward stopped the Glovers on six hits. The Sox reached Al Barkus for nine.

Gloversville finished the regular season in fourth place.

Dairymen Win, 5-2; Second Playoff Game Ends in 1-1 Tie

Magley (Not Sal) Excels for Gulfmen In Second Contest

Boulevards File Protest in Nightcap

If they can ever get away from those 1-1 ball games they'll crown a 1951 champion in the post-season Shaughnessy playoffs of the City Baseball League one of these days.

After Jones Dairy kept alive its hopes by winning the opener Sunday afternoon at the Athletic Field by 5 to 2, the Dairymen and Boulevard Gulf tangled in another tie contest and after nine innings of play the game was called due to darkness with the scoreboard reading a familiar 1 to 1 score.

Thus, after Sunday's big double-header, the Gulfmen still hold a 2 to 1 edge in the playoffs with the next game scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 30, at 2:30 p. m. at the Smith avenue ball park.

Game Under Protest

The 1-1 tie game, however, was played under protest by Boulevards due to a rhubarb in the ninth inning on a ground rule technicality.

With Boulevard runners on first and second, "Dolph" Munson hoisted a fly to Tommy Maines in right center. Schoonmaker, on second, tagged up after the catch and galloped to third. Meanwhile, Maines' relay bounced away from the Jones on Third base and hit the water bucket adjacent to the Dairymen's bench on the third base line. The Gulfmen contended that the water bucket is part of the player's bench but Umpire Bill Schwab refused to allow the extra base and the protest was lodged by the Boulevards at that point.

According to the league rule, one base is automatically awarded when any thrown ball bounces into the player's bench.

Fisher Is Winner

If the protest is upheld the game will be played from the point of protest in the ninth inning. If disallowed, a full game will be played.

Veteran Tommy Fisher and Bullet Bill Tierney hooked up in yesterday's opener with Fisher hanging up a five-hit victory. The Dairymen collected eight hits off Tierney.

After the Gulfmen took a 1-0 lead in the first on a double by Koch and a subsequent double steal by Koch and Vogt who had reached on an error, the Dairymen tied the count in the second with a single tally.

The tying marker came across when Maines walked and romped home on "Daisy" Schatzel's double into the right field corner.

The Dairymen put over what proved to be the winning runs in the third. Bob Shelightner opened with a walk but was forced at second by Fisher. Berardi slapped a single to left, sending Fisher to third. Bob Graves' single scored Fisher and when Bob Lyons erred, Berardi came in with the second run of the frame.

Graves, Maines Whack Homers

Home runs by Maines in the sixth and another by Graves in the seventh completed the victory. Graves led the winners by stroking three safeties in four trips.

Except for a sterling relief job by George Magley (no relation to Sal Maglie of the Giants) the playoffs might have been all tied up this morning.

Boulevard Gulf, without a first line pitcher, called upon Magley, an outfielder, to do the second game pitching chores and he responded with a neat four-hit job in the nine-inning stint. Clark Donlon went all the way for Jones in the nightcap and permitted five hits.

The Dairymen opened the second game scoring in the fourth when Carlino singled, stole second and scored on Maines' one-baser.

The Boulevard marker came in the seventh when Cliff Schoonmaker singled, pilfered second and rode home when Carlino booted Munson's ground ball at short.

Messinger's Memos: Bob Graves was the big run in the first game, his homer and two singles off Bill Tierney capped the outstanding offensive effort of the day, but, by far the greatest exhibition was staged by George Magley in the second game. Any pitcher that can hold the vaunted Jonesmen to four singles in nine innings deserves orchids. Magley's one lapse came in the fourth when he allowed two of the four hits and together with a stolen base lost his chance for a well deserved win . . . Graves and Brinkman collaborated on a short fly by Koch in the fourth inning of the second game when the ball bounced out of Graves' glove and was smothered by Brinkman . . . Throughout both games the play was sharp with both teams coming up with fine fielding plays. The fans were alive and the league treasury had itself quite a face-lifting . . . An oddity occurred in the first game when each of the Oilmen were credited with three official times at bat . . . All in all, the City League's first double-header was quite a success with the possibility of another on September 30. It depends on the outcome of the protest meeting as to how the second game will be entered into the records.

Winning Big Ones Still Formula As Yanks Take Over First Place

Bosox Only 2½ Games Off Pace

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York's defending champion Yankees still win the big ones—and that is why they're back in first place today.

Because of their ability to rise to the occasion, because they seldom folded in the clutch, and because they were able to beat the team in front of them, the Yankees won the flag in 1949 and '50.

History simply repeated itself yesterday when the Bronx Bombers crushed Cleveland, 5-1, and replaced the Indians at the top of the American League.

At the same time, Boston's third-place Red Sox remained right in the thick of things by beating the Chicago White Sox, 5-4, and climbing to within 2½ games of the top.

The Yankee victory came on the anniversary of their taking the league lead a year ago. Only on Sept. 16, 1950, it was the Tigers they beat to grab a lead they never lost.

New York's first-place hold is a precarious three percentage points and it can be expunged today if Ed Lopat loses to Cleveland's Bob Lemon in the last meeting between the two clubs.

Stadium Tough on Tribe

Up to now, however, the Indians have shown a pathetic ineptness at the Yankee Stadium. Of 10 games on the Yankees' home grounds they have won only one.

Allie Reynolds, whom the Indians traded to the Yankees in the winter of '46, wielded the tomahawk yesterday. He set the Tribe back on five hits and drove in the winning run with a second-inning single.

It was in the Yankee half of the fifth, however, that this crucial contest reached its most dramatic point, as far as the capacity crowd of 68,760 was concerned.

The Yankees, leading 3-1, had a runner on third with two away. Cleveland strategy dictated an intentional pass to the lefthanded Yogi Berra so the righthanded Bob Feller could pitch to Joe Di Maggio. It was the third time in DiMaggio's illustrious career—all coming this season—that a batter was passed to get at Joe. It was the first time at the Stadium.

The Yankee Clipper knocked the strategy into a cocked hat and slammed Feller out of the box with a two-run triple that rolled to the left-center field fence 457 feet away.

The victory was the 15th for Reynolds. Five of these have come over Cleveland. Feller, whose 22 victories leads all the hurlers, was charged with his eighth setback and his third in four duels with Reynolds.

The Indians, who move on to Boston tomorrow for a two-game series, have nine games left to play. The Yankees have 13 and the Red Sox 14, but eight are against each other.

Dodger Lead 4½ Games

Lest it be forgotten, there still is a pennant race in the National League. Two victories over Pittsburgh, 7-1 and 6-4, kept the faint hopes of the New York Giants alive as Brooklyn's first-place margin shrunk to 4½ games despite their 6-1 triumph over the Cubs in Chicago.

The Dodgers' "magic" number still is eight. That is the number of games they have to win in order to clinch the flag. Brooklyn has 14 games to play, the Giants nine.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia's Athletics whipped the St. Louis Browns twice, 7-1 and 7-5; Detroit took two from Washington, 3-1 and 4-3; St. Louis' Cardinals vanquished the Philadelphia Phils, 9-2 and Cincinnati and the Boston Braves split. Kenny Raffensberger pitched the Braves to a 4-0 victory after Boston won, 6-5, for Warren Spahn's 21st triumph.

Maury McDermott, the Boston Red Sox southpaw, will return to his home town of Poughkeepsie in conjunction with "Bill Whalen Day" at Riverview Field on Sunday, Oct. 14. The same group that did such a terrific job on "Wes Westrum Day" at the Polo Grounds will honor the former semi-pro figure for his contribution to the game over the past several years.

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

The Amsterdam Rugmakers apparently got the hitting prospects and the Oneonta Red Sox the pitching prizes in the Cam-Am League this season. Willie Casanova, Frank Wehner and Bella should move a few notches up the Yankee chain, while the Osox's Paul Alyward looks like a pitcher in the Tex Hughson mould. Most valuable player voting in the Can-Am resulted in a scrambling of ballots. George McPhail, the Pittsfield flinger, drew heavy support we understand but this corner voted for an every day performer. Dr. Fred Holcomb tells about shooting a "legit" 74 on the Wiltwyck layout and getting fleeced by Watts Bailey and Leon Randall. The Catskill Country Club hole-in-one tournament the next two week-ends features a novel plan whereby additional shots may be purchased beyond the allotted four and the money will be turned over to some Catskill charity. Tommy Danaher is looking forward to the finest field in the history of the Wiltwyck Pro-Am on September 30. Armand Farina, the hot man of this year's Northeastern PGA circuit, is a definite starter. A share of the enry fees will be turned over to Warren Townley, the former Woodstock Country Club pro, who had to undergo leg amputations several months ago.

Hank Cragan tells an amusing story about the heartbreak of one of his youngsters when the kid discovered that his favorite Cleveland Indians were not real Indians as he had suspected. A youthful tragedy, indeed.

"Somebody told the kid that Bobby Avila is a Mexican and not an Indian," Hank told friends, "and he's been broken-hearted ever since. Now he won't root for anybody."

Just by way of proving that our own Bob Saehloff of the advertising department did more than just make five copies during the recent stint in the armed forces prescribed by a group of friends and neighbors, here is a bit of poetry that Robert concocted for the Army Times, an official Army newspaper:

Burning Embers

"A cigarette please,"
He murmered soft and low,
Then lay and rested
Watching its smoking glow.
The rising smoke took form,
The glowing gave it life,
His heart grew steadily warm . . .
The image was his wife.
"My darling," he said,
That's all and nothing more,
For the imbedded, jagged piece of lead
Had closed his short life's door.
The cigarette still burned.
White smoke was rising high,
Thank God, the image it had formed
Had not seen the soldier die.

—Cpl. R. Saehloff

In reference to statements that Cadet Ed Weaver is being silenced by the rest of the cadets at West Point, even though he has been cleared of any connection with the recent cheating ring, the Cadet Honor Committee, Thomas W. Collier, had this to say:

"Cadet Weaver is neither under official silence by the Honor Committee, nor is he being snubbed unofficially by any members of the Corps. On the contrary, we are rather proud of him and have nothing but support for him and the rest of this year's Army team."

Week-End Sports

(By The Associated Press)

Bethlehem, Pa.—Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., defeated Joe Gagliardi, Mamaroneck, 4 and 3, in finals of National Amateur Golf championship.

Baltimore — Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, won Eastern Open tournament with 72-hole score of 279.

Atlanta—Betsy Rawls, Austin, Tex., scored a three-over-par 75 and 72-hole total of 293 for victory in the National Women's Open.

Los Angeles—Frank Sedgman, U. S. National champion from Australia defeated Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, in finals of Pacific Southwest tournament; national titleholder Maureen Connolly won women's title with 9-7, 6-4 decision over Beverly Baker.

Miami—Bill Klem, one of the most famed of all baseball umpires, died at age of 77.

Gibson Island, Md.—E. W. (Skip) Etchells, Rocky Point, Conn., won world championship for star class sailboats.

Breezes to Victory

Perth Amboy, N. J., Sept. 17 (AP) — Ed Moylan of Trenton breezed through the finals yesterday to win the Perth Amboy Men's Invitational tennis championship. Moylan knocked off defending champ Charles Masterson of Hicksville, N. Y., 6-2, 6-4, 6-0. Masterson was not in peak form in his match with Moylan. He had been pushed to the limit in his semi-final victory over Tony Vincent of New York, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5. He was a tired player when he got to Moylan.

'Magic' Number Eight

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—The "magic" number for the Brooklyn Dodgers still is eight. That means they need eight victories—or eight New York Giant defeats, or a combination of both—to sew up the National League pennant. Brooklyn has 14 games left to play, the Giants nine.

MAKING PASSES—University of Miami footballers manage to keep their eyes on the ball as they toss pigskins into a net held by Sandra Pendry, left, and Doris Medlin, local beauties, in a pre-season workout on the beach at Miami. Beicherts Defeat Newburgh Twice Behind Enright

Beichert's Studebakers, champions of the City Softball League, registered a double victory over the Newburgh Studies Sunday by scores of 4 to 2 and 8 to 2.

The Newburgh club won the Newburgh "B" Division with 15 straight wins.

Joe Enright hurled both wins for the locals Sunday and gave up a total of 13 hits in both games.

He had a shutout going in the opener until Newburgh shoved across two runs in the bottom half of the ninth inning.

J. Woods, while playing a sparkling defensive job at third for Beicherts, hammered a homer and had three runs batted in in the first game. He also rapped out a triple. DeLuca of Newburgh reached Enright for a homer.

A big three-run first inning was all Enright needed to post the win in the nightcap. Enright was cuffed for two runs in the second frame but blanked the Hilly City softballers the rest of the distance.

E. Dasher slammed a homer for the winners.

(First Game)

Beicherts	201 001 0—4	8	1
Newburgh	000 000 2—2	5	1

Batteries — Enright and Matheus; Maytka and Shapiro.

(Second Game)

Beicherts	310 220 0—8	12	2
Newburgh	020 000 0—2	8	3

Batteries — Enright and Matheus; D. Shapiro and S. Shapiro.

Oneonta Sweeps Can-Am Laurels

Gloversville, N. Y., Sept. 17 (AP)—The Oneonta Red Sox have completed a grand slam in the Canadian-American League—winning both halves of the split season and the playoffs.

The Sox rounded out the sweep Saturday night by shading Gloversville, 2-1, in 10 innings to win the league's playoff title.

The victory was Oneonta's third straight after losing the opener of the best-of-five final.

Bob Guttila's single knocked in Bob Atwood for the winning run. Atwood had singled and advanced on a sacrifice and an infield out.

Willy Williams of Gloversville hit a homer in the second inning. John Minarcin of the Sox duplicated the drive in the fourth.

Paul Aylward stopped the Glovers on six hits. The Sox reached Al Barkus for nine.

Gloversville finished the regular season in fourth place.

Walking Batter to Get at DiMaggio Still Violates Stadium Etiquette

Joe Responds With Booming Triple

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Walking a batter to get at Joe DiMaggio violates the rules of etiquette at Yankee Stadium.

Al Lopez knows now, but it may be too late for the manager of the Cleveland Indians, now reposing in second place.

Not in the memory of the oldest settler has a manager intentionally passed a hitter to pitch to the Yankee Clipper at the stadium—not until Lopez tried it yesterday in the fifth inning of the vital Cleveland-New York game.

Some 68,670 fans told him how wrong he was, even before the jolter boomed a two-run triple that ran 457 feet to the wall in left center before Larry Doby retrieved it.

They loosened a thunderous boo to still the rattle of the elevated trains when Cleveland strategy dictated an intentional pass to Yogi Berra, the Yanks' new clean-up hitter, with DiMaggio on deck.

"I hope he hits it out of the lot," one Cleveland supporter told his neighbor.

Such is the DiMaggio prestige in the cavernous stadium that women wept and small boys danced in the aisles when the big fellow put the wood to Bobby Feller's slider.

Blow Not Vital

The blow wasn't vital to the game. It merely boosted a 3-1 lead to a 5-1 winning Yankee margin. But it came a few minutes after Allie Reynolds survived his most menacing threat of the game.

After it was over, DiMaggio sat in the clubhouse, as is his custom. He lingered long after the other Yanks dressed and departed.

He wouldn't say so but you knew his pride had been wounded by Lopez' gesture. It was the second time the Cleveland pilot did it. The first time, in Cleveland, Joe came through with a run-scoring single.

"I guess I would have done the same thing myself," said DiMaggio. "Who knows?" Maybe Yogi would have hit the ball in the seats."

Offers No Apologies

Today was the first time DiMaggio had been out of the clean-up spot this year.

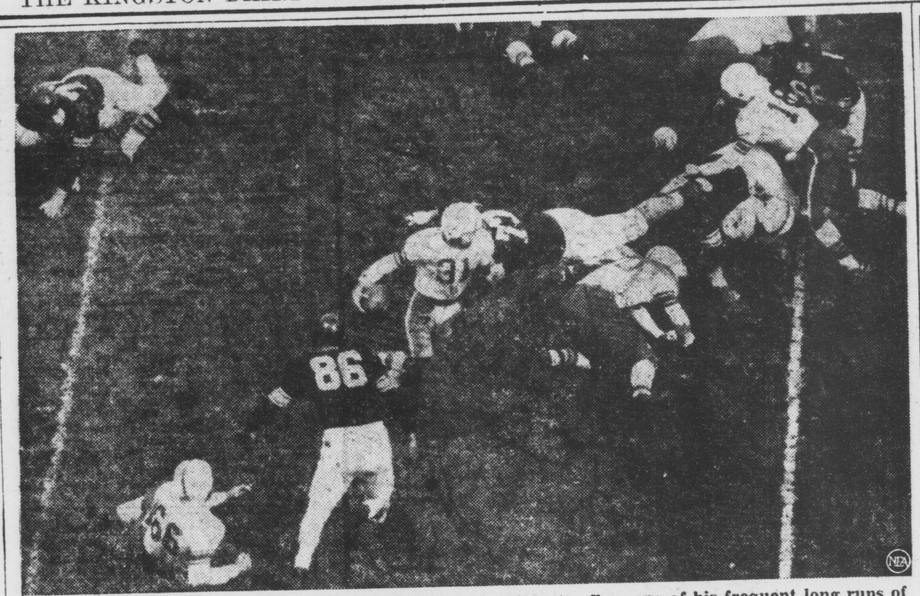
Lopez had no apologies for his strategy that backfired.

"I thought it was a good idea," he said. "But the guy just crossed me up."

It's a good bet those present will long remember Dimaggio's blow after they have forgotten the score.

You see, it's against the rules to take Dimaggio lightly at Yankee Stadium. Even if he is hitting only .263.

Big Bertha, long-range gun of World War 1, would have a range of 2,200 miles on the moon.



BUCKEYE BEAUTIES—Ohio State's Vic Janowicz (31) gets off on one of his frequent long runs of last season. With Janowicz and 24 other lettermen returning, experienced personnel is plentiful in Columbus. The Buckeyes have the inside track on the Big 10 title. (NEA)

Game Changes With Personnel - - - Paul Richards; Video Popularizes Players, Adds Pressure

Last of six dispatches by managers of leading major league clubs written for NEA Service

By PAUL RICHARDS
White Sox Manager

Baseball changes every 10 years with the players.

Television has a tremendous influence on the mental workings of the player of today.

Not too many years ago, before the owners dreamt they'd be plagued by such Frankenstein monsters as radio and video, clubs, especially losing ones, more frequently than not played in comparative privacy on mid-week afternoons.

First radio, and now TV, changed all that.

Win, lose or draw, millions of eyes are constantly pressed on the players.

The athlete today is a personality.

Knowing that his every move is being watched, the player now has the advantage of crowd psychology.

This makes him more determined to turn in his best. A pitcher, for instance, does his utmost to avoid humiliation of being knocked from the box. Like all other hands, he's starkly aware that millions, not just his teammates, members of the other side and a comparative handful of spectators, are watching.

This increases the pressure, and those who respond to it will improve.

There is the financial side. Take the case of Orestes Minoso. With the Cleveland club, Minny Minoso was just another name on the roster.

Minoso became a star overnight with the deal that brought him to the White Sox.

Within only a few days, the versatile Cuban was paid an additional $25,000 for endorsements.

With such lucrative rewards, a player naturally stays in shape, tries harder and continues striving to expand his potentiality.

When the players share directly in the radio and television World Series money, I can see the day when an individual winning share will jump from $6000 to $60,000.

Paul Richards

Players are different, require different handling.

The era of the iron fist is gone. Players can't be whipped, threatened and fined any more.

Yet the manager must be the boss, run the works with a firm hand, and at the same time have the respect of his men. A manager's job is to lead.

Reporting to a major league club doesn't necessarily mean a player is a finished product.

You learn more about baseball as long as you are in it.

The superior players everlastingly try to improve their weaker points.

Building morale begins in spring training and in the clubhouse rather than on the field.

It's the foundation of success.

It's another word for loyalty, or interest in the club and job.

A pennant winner, it has been said, must be 25 per cent stronger than the others. I could subscribe to that.

By building morale and determination and enforcing discipline, I can't see why a manager can't get 25 per cent more effort out of his club.

One loafer can slow down the entire operation.

Rapps Cop Three In HVBL Match

Hank Kemmerer led the pinfall for the winners with a hefty 644 blast on scores of 225-233-186.

Betsy Rawls Cops Women's Open Play

Atlanta, Sept. 17 (AP)—Beaming Betsy Rawls, the Texas scholar, counted her first season as a professional golfer a financial as well as an artistic success today after winning the National Women's Open from the classiest field in the tournment's history.

The 23-year-old Phi Beta Kappa lass from Austin picked up $1,500 because her 72-hole total of 293 yesterday outstripped such highly rated stars as Babe Zaharias, Louise Suggs, Patty Berg and the beauteous Bauer sisters.

Her conquest of the ancient, 6,200-yard, par 72 Druid Hills course — first major tournament triumph for Betsy — brought her winnings to $46,645.83, according to the figures of Fred Corcoran, tournament director Ladies Professional Golf Association.

These earnings left her far behind Mrs. Zaharias and Misses Berg and Suggs but she still had a tidy sum and her bright future promises much more.

The Babe, who alternately shot brilliant and terrible golf, skidded into third place with a fourth-round 78 for a 299 total. A six on the 360-yard third hole was Babe's undoing and she lost second money to Suggs' superb 71, which gave the Carrollton, Ga., girl a 298.

Mrs. Zaharias picked up $900 here and finished the PGA circuit as top collector with $14,587.50. Second place gave Suggs $1,000 for $6,237.50. Patty Berg, whose $13,137.50 winnings place her next to the Babe, had a bad week in the open and earned only $450 for her 305, eighth-ranking score.

Bowling

Phil Sinagra fired 386, Frank Jankowski 350; Bill Constable 332 and Bob Paulus 331.

Taverns to Open

The 16-team Tavern Association opens its 1951-52 campaign tonight at the Bowlatorium at 7 o'clock. A complete one team roster is still needed to round out the league.

Mercantile Meeting

A special meeting of the YMCA Mercantile Bowling League will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. All bowlers are requested to attend.

Young Nimrods Urged to Sign

Junior hunters up to the age of 17 who must pass a firearms test before they can qualify for a hunting license were urged today by Ted Haines, local chairman of the National Rifle Association, to sign up at once for instruction periods. Application for the 10-man instruction classes can be made at the local Conservation Department office, Potter Bros. and Ray Tillson's. The hunting season opens on October 19 and all youthful applicants are urged to register and receive firing instructions well in advance of that time.

Coleman Battles To Draw With Lenny Passafaro

Veteran Abe Coleman, undefeated in wrestling appearances this year, threw his record on the line Saturday night at the municipal auditorium but could no better than to gain a draw with Lenny Montana Passafaro, the 225-pound Italian giant.

Last week, Coleman, 218, of New York, halted the winning streak of the sensational Ivan Gorky, the Russian madman, in a sizzler at the mid-town arena.

Three of the other big bouts ended in a draw Saturday night.

Another draw wound up the match between Mickey Cortelano, 221, of New York, vs. Nick Lucenti, 221, of Maspeth, L. I.

After both grunt and groaners wound up outside of the ring and still battling, Referee Danny Murine of Troy counted out both Lord Spears, 225, of London, and Sailor Bob Riker, 205, of Norfolk, Va., and declared the bout a draw.

Riker was conceded the first fall at 18 minutes and the London wrestler drop-kicked his way to a second fall win at 7:20.

Will Honor Jockey

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Ted Atkinson, the Canadian jockey from Toronto, will be given a "Day" Thursday at Aqueduct Race Track. The Queens County Jockey Club will honor the contract rider in ceremonies between races in the winner's enclosure. He will receive an award from Cyrus S. Jullien, president of the track.

Television Booms

London (AP)—British radio manufacturers have received so many orders for television sets at the national radio show, being held in London, that they have started to ration dealers. No figures were announced of sales in the opening stages of the show. Main reason for the spurt, however, was said to be that the public is getting ready for the B.B.C.'s new North of England television station, which begins broadcasts at Holme Moss, Huddersfield, Oct. 12.

Walking Batter to Get at DiMaggio Still Violates Stadium Etiquette

Joe Responds With Booming Triple

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Walking a batter to get at Joe DiMaggio violates the rules of etiquette at Yankee Stadium.

Al Lopez knows now, but it may be too late for the manager of the Cleveland Indians, now reposing in second place.

Not in the memory of the oldest settler has a manager intentionally passed a hitter to pitch to the Yankee Clipper at the stadium—not until Lopez tried it yesterday in the fifth inning of the vital Cleveland-New York game.

Some 68,670 fans told him how wrong he was, even before the jolter boomed a two-run triple that ran 457 feet to the wall in left center before Larry Doby retrieved it.

They loosened a thunderous boo to still the rattle of the elevated trains when Cleveland strategy dictated an intentional pass to Yogi Berra, the Yanks' new cleanup hitter, with DiMaggio on deck.

"I hope he hits it out of the lot," one Cleveland supporter told his neighbor.

Such is the DiMaggio prestige in the cavernous stadium that women wept and small boys danced in the aisles when the big fellow put the wood to Bobby Feller's slider.

Blow Not Vital

The blow wasn't vital to the game. It merely boosted a 3-1 lead to a 5-1 winning Yankee margin. But it came a few minutes after Allie Reynolds survived his most menacing threat of the game.

After it was over, DiMaggio sat in the clubhouse, as is his custom. He lingered long after the other Yanks dressed and departed.

He wouldn't say so but you knew his pride had been wounded by Lopez' gesture. It was the second time the Cleveland pilot did it. The first time, in Cleveland, Joe came through with a run-scoring single.

"I guess I would have done the same thing myself," said DiMaggio. "Who knows?" Maybe Yogi would have hit the ball in the seats."

Offers No Apologies

Today was the first time DiMaggio had been out of the clean-up spot this year.

Lopez had no apologies for his strategy that backfired.

"I thought it was a good idea," he said. "But the guy just crossed me up."

It's a good bet those present will long remember Dimaggio's blow after they have forgotten the score.

You see, it's against the rules to take Dimaggio lightly at Yankee Stadium. Even if he is hitting only .263.

Game Changes With Personnel - - - Paul Richards; Video Popularizes Players, Adds Pressure

Last of six dispatches by managers of leading major league clubs written for NEA Service

By PAUL RICHARDS
White Sox Manager

Baseball changes every 10 years with the players.

Television has a tremendous influence on the mental workings of the player of today.

Not too many years ago, before the owners dreamt they'd be plagued by such Frankenstein monsters as radio and video, clubs, especially losing ones, more frequently than not played in comparative privacy on mid-week afternoons.

First radio, and now TV, changed all that.

Win, lose or draw, millions of eyes are constantly pressed on the players.

The athlete today is a personality.

Knowing that his every move is being watched, the player now has the advantage of crowd psychology.

This makes him more determined to turn in his best. A pitcher, for instance, does his utmost to avoid humiliation of being knocked from the box. Like all other hands, he's starkly aware that millions, not just his teammates, members of the other side and a comparative handful of spectators, are watching.

This increases the pressure, and those who respond to it will improve.

There is the financial side. Take the case of Orestes Minoso. With the Cleveland club, Minny Minoso was just another name on the roster.

Minoso became a star overnight with the deal that brought him to the White Sox.

Within only a few days, the versatile Cuban was paid an additional $25,000 for endorsements.

With such lucrative rewards, a player naturally stays in shape, tries harder and continues striving to expand his potentiality.

When the players share directly in the radio and television World Series money, I can see the day when an individual winning share will jump from $6000 to $60,000.

Paul Richards

Players are different, require different handling.

The era of the iron fist is gone. Players can't be whipped, threatened and fined any more.

Yet the manager must be the boss, run the works with a firm hand, and at the same time have the respect of his men. A manager's job is to lead.

They must be convinced that they are sure to get justice, rough or smooth.

A manager has to be a male nurse, father confessor, bar-room bouncer and a psychiatrist all rolled into one.

Rapps Cop Three In HVBL Match

Betsy Rawls Cops Women's Open Play

Atlanta, Sept. 17 (AP)—Beaming Betsy Rawls, the Texas scholar, counted her first season as a professional golfer a financial as well as an artistic success today after winning the National Women's Open from the classiest field in the tournment's history.

The 23-year-old Phi Beta Kappa lass from Austin picked up $1,500 because her 72-hole total of 293 yesterday outstripped such highly rated stars as Babe Zaharias, Louise Suggs, Patty Berg and the beauteous Bauer sisters.

Her conquest of the ancient, 6,200-yard, par 72 Druid Hills course — first major tournament triumph for Betsy — brought her winnings to $46,645.83, according to the figures of Fred Corcoran, tournament director Ladies Professional Golf Association.

The Babe, who alternately shot brilliant and terrible golf, skidded into third place with a fourth-round 78 for a 299 total. A six on the 360-yard third hole was Babe's undoing and she lost second money to Suggs' superb 71, which gave the Carrollton, Ga., girl a 298.

Mrs. Zaharias picked up $900 here and finished the PGA circuit as top collector with $14,587.50. Second place gave Suggs $1,000 for $6,237.50. Patty Berg, whose $13,137.50 winnings place her next to the Babe, had a bad week in the open and earned only $450 for her 305, eighth-ranking score.

Young Nimrods Urged to Sign

Junior hunters up to the age of 17 who must pass a firearms test before they can qualify for a hunting license were urged today by Ted Haines, local chairman of the National Rifle Association, to sign up at once for instruction periods. Application for the 10-man instruction classes can be made at the local Conservation Department office, Potter Bros. and Ray Tillson's. The hunting season opens on October 19 and all youthful applicants are urged to register and receive firing instructions well in advance of that time.

Coleman Battles To Draw With Lenny Passafaro

Veteran Abe Coleman, undefeated in wrestling appearances this year, threw his record on the line Saturday night at the municipal auditorium but could no better than to gain a draw with Lenny Montana Passafaro, the 225-pound Italian giant.

Another draw wound up the match between Mickey Cortelano, 221, of New York, vs. Nick Lucenti, 221, of Maspeth, L. I.

After both grunt and groaners wound up outside of the ring and still battling, Referee Danny Murine of Troy counted out both Lord Spears, 225, of London, and Sailor Bob Riker, 205, of Norfolk, Va., and declared the bout a draw.

Television Booms

London (AP)—British radio manufacturers have received so many orders for television sets at the national radio show, being held in London, that they have started to ration dealers. No figures were announced of sales in the opening stages of the show. Main reason for the spurt, however, was said to be that the public is getting ready for the B.B.C.'s new North of England television station, which begins broadcasts at Holme Moss, Huddersfield, Oct. 12.

Walking Batter to Get at DiMaggio Still Violates Stadium Etiquette

Joe Responds With Booming Triple

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Walking a batter to get at Joe DiMaggio violates the rules of etiquette at Yankee Stadium.

Al Lopez knows now, but it may be too late for the manager of the Cleveland Indians, now reposing in second place.

Not in the memory of the oldest settler has a manager intentionally passed a hitter to pitch to the Yankee Clipper at the stadium—not until Lopez tried it yesterday in the fifth inning of the vital Cleveland-New York game.

Some 68,670 fans told him how wrong he was, even before the jolter boomed a two-run triple that ran 457 feet to the wall in left center before Larry Doby retrieved it.

They loosened a thunderous boo to still the rattle of the elevated trains when Cleveland strategy dictated an intentional pass to Yogi Berra, the Yanks' new clean-up hitter, with DiMaggio on deck.

"I hope he hits it out of the lot," one Cleveland supporter told his neighbor.

Such is the DiMaggio prestige in the cavernous stadium that women wept and small boys danced in the aisles when the big fellow put the wood to Bobby Feller's slider.

Blow Not Vital

The blow wasn't vital to the game. It merely boosted a 3-1 lead to a 5-1 winning Yankee margin. But it came a few minutes after Allie Reynolds survived his most menacing threat of the game.

After it was over, DiMaggio sat in the clubhouse, as is his custom. He lingered long after the other Yanks dressed and departed.

He wouldn't say so but you knew his pride had been wounded by Lopez' gesture. It was the second time the Cleveland pilot did it. The first time, in Cleveland, Joe came through with a run-scoring single.

"I guess I would have done the same thing myself," said DiMaggio. "Who knows?" Maybe Yogi would have hit the ball in the seats."

Offers No Apologies

Today was the first time DiMaggio had been out of the clean-up spot this year.

Lopez had no apologies for his strategy that backfired.

"I thought it was a good idea," he said. "But the guy just crossed me up."

It's a good bet those present will long remember Dimaggio's blow after they have forgotten the score.

You see, it's against the rules to take Dimaggio lightly at Yankee Stadium. Even if he is hitting only .263.

Big Bertha, long-range gun of World War 1, would have a range of 2,200 miles on the moon.

BUCKEYE BEAUTIES—Ohio State's Vic Janowicz (31) gets off on one of his frequent long runs of last season. With Janowicz and 24 other lettermen returning, experienced personnel is plentiful in Columbus. The Buckeyes have the inside track on the Big 10 title. (NEA)

Game Changes With Personnel - - - Paul Richards; Video Popularizes Players, Adds Pressure

By PAUL RICHARDS
White Sox Manager

Baseball changes every 10 years with the players.

Television has a tremendous influence on the mental workings of the player of today.

Not too many years ago, before the owners dreamt they'd be plagued by such Frankenstein monsters as radio and video, clubs, especially losing ones, more frequently than not played in comparative privacy on mid-week afternoons.

First radio, and now TV, changed all that.

Win, lose or draw, millions of eyes are constantly pressed on the players.

The athlete today is a personality.

Knowing that his every move is being watched, the player now has the advantage of crowd psychology.

This makes him more determined to turn in his best. A pitcher, for instance, does his utmost to avoid humiliation of being knocked from the box. Like all other hands, he's starkly aware that millions, not just his teammates, members of the other side and a comparative handful of spectators, are watching.

This increases the pressure, and those who respond to it will improve.

There is the financial side. Take the case of Orestes Minoso. With the Cleveland club, Minny Minoso was just another name on the roster.

Minoso became a star overnight with the deal that brought him to the White Sox.

Within only a few days, the versatile Cuban was paid an additional $25,000 for endorsements.

With such lucrative rewards, a player naturally stays in shape, tries harder and continues striving to expand his potentiality.

When the players share directly in the radio and television World Series money, I can see the day when an individual winning share will jump from $6000 to $60,000.

Paul Richards

Players are different, require different handling.

The era of the iron fist is gone. Players can't be whipped, threatened and fined any more.

Yet the manager must be the boss, run the works with a firm hand, and at the same time have the respect of his men. A manager's job is to lead.

Reporting to a major league club doesn't necessarily mean a player is a finished product.

You learn more about baseball as long as you are in it.

Building morale begins in spring training and in the clubhouse rather than on the field.

It's the foundation of success.

It's another word for loyalty, or interest in the club and job.

By building morale and determination and enforcing discipline, I can't see why a manager can't get 25 per cent more effort out of his club.

One loafer can slow down the entire operation.

As for the playing of the game, it's great to win by the book, but there is positively no percentage in losing by it.

There is a great advantage in the element of surprise.

They must be convinced that they are sure to get justice, rough or smooth.

A manager has to be a male nurse, father confessor, bar-room bouncer and a psychiatrist all rolled into one.

He must know personalities.

Rapps Cop Three In HVBL Match

Hank Kemmerer led the pinfall for the winners with a hefty 644 blast on scores of 225-233-186.

Betsy Rawls Cops Women's Open Play

Atlanta, Sept. 17 (AP)—Beaming Betsy Rawls, the Texas scholar, counted her first season as a professional golfer a financial as well as an artistic success today after winning the National Women's Open from the classiest field in the tournment's history.

The 23-year-old Phi Beta Kappa lass from Austin picked up $1,500 because her 72-hole total of 293 yesterday outstripped such highly rated stars as Babe Zaharias, Louise Suggs, Patty Berg and the beauteous Bauer sisters.

Her conquest of the ancient, 6,200-yard, par 72 Druid Hills course — first major tournament triumph for Betsy — brought her winnings to $46,645.83, according to the figures of Fred Corcoran, tournament director Ladies Professional Golf Association.

These earnings left her far behind Mrs. Zaharias and Misses Berg and Suggs but she still had a tidy sum and her bright future promises much more.

The Babe, who alternately shot brilliant and terrible golf, skidded into third place with a fourth-round 78 for a 299 total. A six on the 360-yard third hole was Babe's undoing and she lost second money to Suggs' superb 71, which gave the Carrollton, Ga., girl a 298.

Mrs. Zaharias picked up $900 here and finished the PGA circuit as top collector with $14,587.50. Second place gave Suggs $1,000 for $6,237.50. Patty Berg, whose $13,137.50 winnings place her next to the Babe, had a bad week in the open and earned only $450 for her 305, eighth-ranking score.

Bowling

Phil Sinagra fired 386, Frank Jankowski 350; Bill Constable 332 and Bob Paulus 331.

Taverns to Open

The 16-team Tavern Association opens its 1951-52 campaign tonight at the Bowlatorium at 7 o'clock. A complete one team roster is still needed to round out the league.

Mercantile Meeting

A special meeting of the YMCA Mercantile Bowling League will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. All bowlers are requested to attend.

Young Nimrods Urged to Sign

Junior hunters up to the age of 17 who must pass a firearms test before they can qualify for a hunting license were urged today by Ted Haines, local chairman of the National Rifle Association, to sign up at once for instruction periods. Application for the 10-man instruction classes can be made at the local Conservation Department office, Potter Bros. and Ray Tillson's. The hunting season opens on October 19 and all youthful applicants are urged to register and receive firing instructions well in advance of that time.

Coleman Battles To Draw With Lenny Passafaro

Veteran Abe Coleman, undefeated in wrestling appearances this year, threw his record on the line Saturday night at the municipal auditorium but could no better than to gain a draw with Lenny Montana Passafaro, the 225-pound Italian giant.

Last week, Coleman, 218, of New York, halted the winning streak of the sensational Ivan Gorky, the Russian madman, in a sizzler at the mid-town arena.

Three of the other big bouts ended in a draw Saturday night.

Another draw wound up the match between Mickey Cortelano, 221, of New York, vs. Nick Lucenti, 221, of Maspeth, L. I.

After both grunt and groaners wound up outside of the ring and still battling, Referee Danny Murine of Troy counted out both Lord Spears, 225, of London, and Sailor Bob Riker, 205, of Norfolk, Va., and declared the bout a draw.

Riker was conceded the first fall at 18 minutes and the London wrestler drop-kicked his way to a second fall win at 7:20.

Will Honor Jockey

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Ted Atkinson, the Canadian jockey from Toronto, will be given a "Day" Thursday at Aqueduct Race Track. The Queens County Jockey Club will honor the contract rider in ceremonies between races in the winner's enclosure. He will receive an award from Cyrus S. Jullien, president of the track.

Iceland exports cod, haddock and herring to the world.

Television Booms

London (AP)—British radio manufacturers have received so many orders for television sets at the national radio show, being held in London, that they have started to ration dealers. No figures were announced of sales in the opening stages of the show. Main reason for the spurt, however, was said to be that the public is getting ready for the B.B.C.'s new North of England television station, which begins broadcasts at Holme Moss, Huddersfield, Oct. 12.

Several good pairs reached a contract of six diamonds in the hand shown today when it came along during the recent national tournament in Washington. The bidding shown with the hand is typical of their style.

North's raise to three diamonds is a slight overbid because the distribution is so poor. Some experts prefer to bid one of the three-card suits rather than jump to three diamonds.

South naturally shows ambition with a bid of four clubs, and North tries to sign off by returning to diamonds. When South makes a second slam try by bidding four hearts, North must show his ace. South then bids the slam in diamonds.

The slam contract is easily made. South draws three rounds of trumps and can then set up his clubs by ruffing the fourth round in dummy. Nothing could be much easier.

At one table South climbed up to six no-trump. Don't ask me how he got there, because the bidding was too horrible to relate. The truth is that this particular South was having a bad day and was trying to regain lost ground by making something out of nothing.

If West had opened a heart, there would be no story to tell. South would be forced to take his singleton ace, setting up West's king. Sooner or later, South would be obliged to start the diamonds, whereupon the defenders could take the ace of diamonds and the king of hearts to set the contract.

West didn't know it was safe to lead hearts, so he opened the queen of spades. South rejoiced mightily when he saw the dummy, because twelve tricks were laydown with a normal club break. South was a very fine player, even though he had bid this hand like a foot, so he decided not to rely entirely on a normal club break.

Declarer won the first trick with the king of spades and led diamonds until East took his ace. East returned a spade (as good as anything), and dummy won with the ace. Declarer thereupon took the ace of hearts and the rest of the diamonds, discarding a small club from dummy on the last diamond.

West could save only five cards. Four of these cards had to be clubs, since otherwise South's long suit would take the rest of the tricks. Hence West was obliged to release the high spade or the king of hearts. Either discard would set up a trick in dummy. South could get to dummy with the queen of clubs in order to cash the trick that had been squeezed out of West; and that trick would squeeze poor West again.

Sanders Sets October 15 Date

George Sanders, president of the Hudson River Day Line, who has set Oct. 15 as the deadline date for his decision on the proposal to extend river boat service beyond Poughkeepsie indicated in a recent statement that he seeks the cooperation of upstate communities in any plan for more boat service.

Sanders said at Catskill Friday that if boat service is to be extended as far as that community that he wants a cooperative advertising campaign to sell Greene county to New Yorkers, seeks an offer on docking facilities at Catskill Point, and wants a plan to provide bus and taxi service from the boat station.

A move to bring the boat service to Kingston has been stalled because of the inability to execute a lease of land needed for bus and taxi facilities.

Nothing for Kingston

Sanders said that Kingston has been seeking a return of the Day Line ever since he acquired it three years ago, but nothing has been done to date. He said that adequate docks had been available for purchase for $5,000 a year ago, but the price had been hiked to $30,000 as soon as the Hudson River Day Line expressed interest.

Sanders did not indicate whether he would by-pass Kingston if service was resumed as far as Catskill. He felt that Greene county had been slow in acting on extending service of the line, said that whatever is done at Kingston will have "no bearing on what we do at Catskill." He said the company had spent $83,000 this year on advertising and $70,000 went to newspapers.

Albert Kurdt, secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and E. M. Huben, of the Ulster-Greene Vacationland committee, spoke at the meeting with Sanders in Catskill Friday. Kurdt told of local efforts to obtain Kingston Point facilities for the boat line and Huben told of the formation of the vacationland committee 10 years ago.

200 Attend GOP Picnic on Sunday

The picnic program was sponsored by the Ulster County Republican Women's Club and the Town of Lloyd GOP committee.

Among the speakers listed were Harry Sutton, candidate for reelection as county clerk. Ward Tongue, deputy county clerk, who is not a candidate, spoke of the workings in that office, praised the abilities of Sutton and urged his reelection. Coronor Ernest A. Kelly, candidate for reelection, did not attend due to illness.

Among the others in attendance from Kingston were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly, Surrogate John B. Sterley and Sheriff Cluett Schantz.

Fred Stang, county attorney, was the master of ceremonies.

Ask for More Voice

Ottawa, Sept. 17 (AP)—Small nation members today were reported demanding a greater voice in major policy decisions of the North Atlantic Council. A Canadian source, linking the demands to the current controversy over Greek-Turkish membership in the alliance, said it seemed certain some "custom" would have to be established to give the smaller nations greater power in the early stages of policy making.

Billion-Dollar Project

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—The hydrogen bomb project became a billion dollar venture today. President Truman asked Congress for an additional $484,240,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission's Savannah river plant—where work on the awesome H-bomb is scheduled to get underway.

Pilot Dies When Plane Crashes Into Spectators

Because of the parachute strapped on the back, this was identified as the body of First Lt. Norman L. Jones of Denver, pilot of stunting monoplane which crashed into crowd of 1,000 spectators at a Flagler, Colo., air show killing 20 and injuring at least 17 others. The body of Jones, a student at the Lowry Air Force Base Photo School, was found huddled among the automobiles of spectators at the air show. In left background is wreckage of the plane. Boy, 10, Is Dead

Marist Preparatory School at West Park.

Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Quinlan of Dutchess county notified the Ulster county sheriff's office Sunday afternoon that two rowboats, valued at $100 each, had been taken from the Marist School, and that one of them had been recovered near the Patterson residence on the east bank of the river. The boys left the Wiltwyck School at Esopus about 10 o'clock Sunday morning, Quinlan reported.

The death of Meisell this morning caused Dutchess County Sheriff C. Fred Close to unleash criticism on the authorities of the Wiltwyck School for Boys, Inc. The sheriff said there had been numerous escapes from the school, and that police authorities were never notified when the boys were missing.

Sheriff Close said, "We are very critical of the authorities at the Wiltwyck School. This was the fourth time that this house (Patterson's) has been entered."

On Saturday night, the Poughkeepsie police picked up four boys from the school, and returned them. Two of them were among the group involved in the shooting affair, Sheriff Close said.

Stole Property, Report

The sheriff charged that boys from the school "stole considerable property on both sides of the river," and that they entered boat houses and took boats on several occasions.

On all the occasions when groups took unauthorized leave from the school, the authorities "had not placed an alarm with any police authority," the sheriff said.

Industrial Club Opens Fall Sessions Thursday

Richard Dean, assistant professor of the New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations, will be the first guest speaker at a new series of programs beginning Thursday night at the YMCA sponsored by the Industrial Management Club of Kingston.

Several other interesting speakers have been procured to speak at future meetings of the local organization.

Smuggling Reported

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—A Senate subcommittee said yesterday an on-the-spot investigation in the Far East had disclosed the smuggling of goods into Red China from U. S.-controlled areas in the Pacific. Specific instances were cited of motorized junks carrying oil, heavy-duty truck tires, scrap aircraft aluminum, scrap lead and other materials from the Ryukyu Islands. The places named included Okinawa, where this country has a large military base.

Motion Is Denied

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz today denied a prosecution motion to jail without bond the 18 defendants in the Brooklyn police graft trial. The judge, who had reserved decision on the motion which was made Friday, said he saw "no valid reason" for confining the defendants. They were continued in their present bail.

3,000 Go on Strike

London, Sept. 17 (AP)—Nearly 3,000 dock workers went on strike and 4,500 tug and lightermen began a slowdown in the London and Avonmouth areas today. At least 33 ships were tied up. Demands for more pay and disputes over hiring of men and the number to be placed in work gangs were factors in the labor difficulties.

Fire School Meeting

A meeting of the fire school for the members of Wiltwyck Hose Company No. 1 will be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 18, under the direction of Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and his deputies. The school will begin at 7:30 p. m. Members of the company who report for the school have been asked to wear old clothes.

Alligator Mauls Girl Saved by Boy, 10

Coral Gables, Fla., Sept. 17 (AP)—A nine-year-old girl was in "fair" condition today after her companion, 10, pulled her from the jaws of an alligator.

Patrolman George Tomlinson reported Jerry Gustafson had a broken right arm and had lost considerable blood after being mauled by the six-foot reptile.

The boy pulled her from its jaws and the alligator submerged. It has not been seen since.

Five Minor Thefts

reported at 9:15 p. m., Saturday that someone had taken a spare tire and wheel, valued at $25, from his car either while it was parked in the Cedar street lot or while it was in his garage between Friday night and Saturday morning.

Ray Cole, 5 Spruce street, reported at 7:22 p. m., Saturday that someone had taken three hub caps from his car while it was parked in front of his home. He said also that the tail light wire had been cut and his wife had found a pair of pliers near the car Saturday morning.

Webster Stickles, 47 Howland avenue, reported at 2:15 p. m., Sunday that someone had drained his gas tank of nine gallons of gas.

President

McCarthy (R-Wis.) has been at the forefront of attacks on the loyalty of some government employes.

In his criticism of some magazine publishers, also unidentified, Mr. Truman said the taxpayers are subsidizing publishers and advertisers "to the tune of several hundred million dollars a year" through low rates on second and third class mail.

"That is not right," he said, adding that he hopes Congress soon will pass legislation boosting the rates substantially.

The Senate already has voted to increase all mail rates and the House will take up a measure this week to hike second and third class rates.

Hits at Magazines

Mr. Truman said most of the opposition to rate increases comes from "the magazine publishers who are getting the benefit of millions of dollars of the taxpayer's money each year." He said some of the concerns have "lobbied the members of Congress from breakfast to bedtime" to prevent increases.

Yet, Mr. Truman said, those magazine publishers "are writing editorials and printing articles complaining about high taxes and government deficits.

Mr. Truman said most of the $500,000,000 a year deficit in the Postoffice Department comes from losses on second and third class rates. These cover the mailing of newspapers and books as well as magazines.

"I am glad to say that a large number of newspaper publishers know this is not right and are entirely willing to pay their own way," he added.

Mr. Truman said there was some justification in subsidizing the mailing of small weekly papers in rural areas.

"But," he continued, "I see no excuse whatever for subsidizing huge publishing concerns which make millions of dollars in profits every year."

Several good pairs reached a contract of six diamonds in the hand shown today when it came along during the recent national tournament in Washington. The bidding shown with the hand is typical of their style.

North's raise to three diamonds is a slight overbid because the distribution is so poor. Some experts prefer to bid one of the three-card suits rather than jump to three diamonds.

South naturally shows ambition with a bid of four clubs, and North tries to sign off by returning to diamonds. When South makes a second slam try by bidding four hearts, North must show his ace. South then bids the slam in diamonds.

The slam contract is easily made. South draws three rounds of trumps and can then set up his clubs by ruffing the fourth round in dummy. Nothing could be much easier.

At one table South climbed up to six no-trump. Don't ask me how he got there, because the bidding was too horrible to relate. The truth is that this particular South was having a bad day and was trying to regain lost ground by making something out of nothing.

If West had opened a heart, there would be no story to tell. South would be forced to take his singleton ace, setting up West's king. Sooner or later, South would be obliged to start the diamonds, whereupon the defenders could take the ace of diamonds and the king of hearts to set the contract.

West didn't know it was safe to lead hearts, so he opened the queen of spades. South rejoiced mightily when he saw the dummy, because twelve tricks were laydown with a normal club break. South was a very fine player, even though he had bid this hand like a foot, so he decided not to rely entirely on a normal club break.

Declarer won the first trick with the king of spades and led diamonds until East took his ace. East returned a spade (as good as anything), and dummy won with the ace. Declarer thereupon took the ace of hearts and the rest of the diamonds, discarding a small club from dummy on the last diamond.

West could save only five cards. Four of these cards had to be clubs, since otherwise South's long suit would take the rest of the tricks. Hence West was obliged to release the high spade or the king of hearts. Either discard would set up a trick in dummy. South could get to dummy with the queen of clubs in order to cash the trick that had been squeezed out of West; and that trick would squeeze poor West again.

Sanders Sets October 15 Date

George Sanders, president of the Hudson River Day Line, who has set Oct. 15 as the deadline date for his decision on the proposal to extend river boat service beyond Poughkeepsie indicated in a recent statement that he seeks the cooperation of upstate communities in any plan for more boat service.

Sanders said at Catskill Friday that if boat service is to be extended as far as that community that he wants a cooperative advertising campaign to sell Greene county to New Yorkers, seeks an offer on docking facilities at Catskill Point, and wants a plan to provide bus and taxi service from the boat station.

A move to bring the boat service to Kingston has been stalled because of the inability to execute a lease of land needed for bus and taxi facilities.

Nothing for Kingston

Sanders said that Kingston has been seeking a return of the Day Line ever since he acquired it three years ago, but nothing has been done to date. He said that adequate docks had been available for purchase for $5,000 a year ago, but the price had been hiked to $30,000 as soon as the Hudson River Day Line expressed interest.

Sanders did not indicate whether he would by-pass Kingston if service was resumed as far as Catskill. He felt that Greene county had been slow in acting on extending service of the line, said that whatever is done at Kingston will have "no bearing on what we do at Catskill." He said the company had spent $83,000 this year on advertising and $70,000 went to newspapers.

Albert Kurdt, secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and E. M. Huben, of the Ulster-Greene Vacationland committee, spoke at the meeting with Sanders in Catskill Friday. Kurdt told of local efforts to obtain Kingston Point facilities for the boat line and Huben told of the formation of the vacationland committee 10 years ago.

200 Attend GOP Picnic on Sunday

More than 200 persons attended the annual Republican Club picnic Sunday afternoon on the grounds of Alma's Restaurant, Highland.

During the course of the day, several GOP speakers were heard and refreshments served.

The picnic program was sponsored by the Ulster County Republican Women's Club and the Town of Lloyd GOP committee.

Among the speakers listed were Harry Sutton, candidate for reelection as county clerk. Ward Tongue, deputy county clerk, who is not a candidate, spoke of the workings in that office, praised the abilities of Sutton and urged his reelection. Coronor Ernest A. Kelly, candidate for reelection, did not attend due to illness.

Among the others in attendance from Kingston were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly, Surrogate John B. Sterley and Sheriff Cluett Schantz.

Fred Stang, county attorney, was the master of ceremonies.

Ask for More Voice

Ottawa, Sept. 17 (AP)—Small nation members today were reported demanding a greater voice in major policy decisions of the North Atlantic Council. A Canadian source, linking the demands to the current controversy over Greek-Turkish membership in the alliance, said it seemed certain some "custom" would have to be established to give the smaller nations greater power in the early stages of policy making.

Billion-Dollar Project

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—The hydrogen bomb project became a billion dollar venture today. President Truman asked Congress for an additional $484,240,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission's Savannah river plant—where work on the awesome H-bomb is scheduled to get underway.

Boy, 10, Is Dead

Marist Preparatory School at West Park.

Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Quinlan of Dutchess county notified the Ulster county sheriff's office Sunday afternoon that two rowboats, valued at $100 each, had been taken from the Marist School, and that one of them had been recovered near the Patterson residence on the east bank of the river. The boys left the Wiltwyck School at Esopus about 10 o'clock Sunday morning, Quinlan reported.

The death of Meisell this morning caused Dutchess County Sheriff C. Fred Close to unleash criticism on the authorities of the Wiltwyck School for Boys, Inc. The sheriff said there had been numerous escapes from the school, and that police authorities were never notified when the boys were missing.

Sheriff Close said, "We are very critical of the authorities at the Wiltwyck School. This was the fourth time that this house (Patterson's) has been entered."

On Saturday night, the Poughkeepsie police picked up four boys from the school, and returned them. Two of them were among the group involved in the shooting affair, Sheriff Close said.

Stole Property, Report

The sheriff charged that boys from the school "stole considerable property on both sides of the river," and that they entered boat houses and took boats on several occasions.

On all the occasions when groups took unauthorized leave from the school, the authorities "had not placed an alarm with any police authority," the sheriff said.

Industrial Club Opens Fall Sessions Thursday

Specific instances were cited of motorized junks carrying oil, heavy-duty truck tires, scrap aircraft aluminum, scrap lead and other materials from the Ryukyu Islands. The places named included Okinawa, where this country has a large military base.

Sanders Sets October 15 Date

George Sanders, president of the Hudson River Day Line, who has set Oct. 15 as the deadline date for his decision on the proposal to extend river boat service beyond Poughkeepsie indicated in a recent statement that he seeks the cooperation of upstate communities in any plan for more boat service.

Sanders said at Catskill Friday that if boat service is to be extended as far as that community that he wants a cooperative advertising campaign to sell Greene county to New Yorkers, seeks an offer on docking facilities at Catskill Point, and wants a plan to provide bus and taxi service from the boat station.

A move to bring the boat service to Kingston has been stalled because of the inability to execute a lease of land needed for bus and taxi facilities.

Nothing for Kingston

Sanders said that Kingston has been seeking a return of the Day Line ever since he acquired it three years ago, but nothing has been done to date. He said that adequate docks had been available for purchase for $5,000 a year ago, but the price had been hiked to $30,000 as soon as the Hudson River Day Line expressed interest.

Sanders did not indicate whether he would by-pass Kingston if service was resumed as far as Catskill. He felt that Greene county had been slow in acting on extending service of the line, said that whatever is done at Kingston will have "no bearing on what we do at Catskill." He said the company had spent $83,000 this year on advertising and $70,000 went to newspapers.

Albert Kurdt, secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and E. M. Huben, of the Ulster-Greene Vacationland committee, spoke at the meeting with Sanders in Catskill Friday. Kurdt told of local efforts to obtain Kingston Point facilities for the boat line and Huben told of the formation of the vacationland committee 10 years ago.

200 Attend GOP Picnic on Sunday

More than 200 persons attended the annual Republican Club picnic Sunday afternoon on the grounds of Alma's Restaurant, Highland.

During the course of the day, several GOP speakers were heard and refreshments served.

The picnic program was sponsored by the Ulster County Republican Women's Club and the Town of Lloyd GOP committee.

Among the speakers listed were Harry Sutton, candidate for reelection as county clerk. Ward Tongue, deputy county clerk, who is not a candidate, spoke of the workings in that office, praised the abilities of Sutton and urged his reelection. Coronor Ernest A. Kelly, candidate for reelection, did not attend due to illness.

Among the others in attendance from Kingston were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly, Surrogate John B. Sterley and Sheriff Cluett Schantz.

Fred Stang, county attorney, was the master of ceremonies.

Ask for More Voice

Ottawa, Sept. 17 (AP)—Small nation members today were reported demanding a greater voice in major policy decisions of the North Atlantic Council. A Canadian source, linking the demands to the current controversy over Greek-Turkish membership in the alliance, said it seemed certain some "custom" would have to be established to give the smaller nations greater power in the early stages of policy making.

Billion-Dollar Project

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—The hydrogen bomb project became a billion dollar venture today. President Truman asked Congress for an additional $484,240,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission's Savannah river plant—where work on the awesome H-bomb is scheduled to get underway.

Council Will Meet

The Common Council is scheduled to meet in special session tomorrow at 7:30 p. m., to act on the Elizabeth street sewer project.

Pilot Dies When Plane Crashes Into Spectators

Marist Preparatory School at West Park.

Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Quinlan of Dutchess county notified the Ulster county sheriff's office Sunday afternoon that two rowboats, valued at $100 each, had been taken from the Marist School, and that one of them had been recovered near the Patterson residence on the east bank of the river. The boys left the Wiltwyck School at Esopus about 10 o'clock Sunday morning, Quinlan reported.

The death of Meisell this morning caused Dutchess County Sheriff C. Fred Close to unleash criticism on the authorities of the Wiltwyck School for Boys, Inc. The sheriff said there had been numerous escapes from the school, and that police authorities were never notified when the boys were missing.

Sheriff Close said, "We are very critical of the authorities at the Wiltwyck School. This was the fourth time that this house (Patterson's) has been entered."

On Saturday night, the Poughkeepsie police picked up four boys from the school, and returned them. Two of them were among the group involved in the shooting affair, Sheriff Close said.

Stole Property, Report

The sheriff charged that boys from the school "stole considerable property on both sides of the river," and that they entered boat houses and took boats on several occasions.

On all the occasions when groups took unauthorized leave from the school, the authorities "had not placed an alarm with any police authority," the sheriff said.

Industrial Club Opens Fall Sessions Thursday

Richard Dean, assistant professor of the New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations, will be the first guest speaker at a new series of programs beginning Thursday night at the YMCA sponsored by the Industrial Management Club of Kingston.

Several other interesting speakers have been procured to speak at future meetings of the local organization.

Smuggling Reported

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—A Senate subcommittee said yesterday an on-the-spot investigation in the Far East had disclosed the smuggling of goods into Red China from U. S.-controlled areas in the Pacific. Specific instances were cited of motorized junks carrying oil, heavy-duty truck tires, scrap aircraft aluminum, scrap lead and other materials from the Ryukyu Islands. The places named included Okinawa, where this country has a large military base.

Motion Is Denied

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz today denied a prosecution motion to jail without bond the 18 defendants in the Brooklyn police graft trial. The judge, who had reserved decision on the motion which was made Friday, said he saw "no valid reason" for confining the defendants. They were continued in their present bail.

3,000 Go on Strike

London, Sept. 17 (AP)—Nearly 3,000 dock workers went on strike and 4,500 tug and lightermen began a slowdown in the London and Avonmouth areas today. At least 33 ships were tied up. Demands for more pay and disputes over hiring of men and the number to be placed in work gangs were factors in the labor difficulties.

Fire School Meeting

A meeting of the fire school for the members of Wiltwyck Hose Company No. 1 will be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 18, under the direction of Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and his deputies. The school will begin at 7:30 p. m. Members of the company who report for the school have been asked to wear old clothes.

day that security officials are investigating a report of a coup d'etat which he said was scheduled for today.

There was no evidence today of unusual military precautions in Tehran. One opposition leader branded the report as a "propaganda trick" which might be used as an excuse to proceed against opposition deputies.

Alligator Mauls Girl Saved by Boy, 10

Coral Gables, Fla., Sept. 17 (AP)—A nine-year-old girl was in "fair" condition today after her companion, 10, pulled her from the jaws of an alligator.

Patrolman George Tomlinson reported Jerry Gustafson had a broken right arm and had lost considerable blood after being mauled by the six-foot reptile.

The girl and 10-year-old Parker Stratt yesterday were wading in a rock pit where the 'gator was raised when it snatched Jerry.

The boy pulled her from its jaws and the alligator submerged. It has not been seen since.

Five Minor Thefts

reported at 9:15 p. m., Saturday that someone had taken a spare tire and wheel, valued at $25, from his car either while it was parked in the Cedar street lot or while it was in his garage between Friday night and Saturday morning.

Ray Cole, 5 Spruce street, reported at 7:22 p. m., Saturday that someone had taken three hub caps from his car while it was parked in front of his home. He said also that the tail light wire had been cut and his wife had found a pair of pliers near the car Saturday morning.

Webster Stickles, 47 Howland avenue, reported at 2:15 p. m., Sunday that someone had drained his gas tank of nine gallons of gas.

President

McCarthy (R-Wis.) has been at the forefront of attacks on the loyalty of some government employes.

In his criticism of some magazine publishers, also unidentified, Mr. Truman said the taxpayers are subsidizing publishers and advertisers "to the tune of several hundred million dollars a year" through low rates on second and third class mail.

"That is not right," he said, adding that he hopes Congress soon will pass legislation boosting the rates substantially.

The Senate already has voted to increase all mail rates and the House will take up a measure this week to hike second and third class rates.

Hits at Magazines

Mr. Truman said most of the opposition to rate increases comes from "the magazine publishers who are getting the benefit of millions of dollars of the taxpayer's money each year." He said some of the concerns have "lobbied the members of Congress from breakfast to bedtime" to prevent increases.

Yet, Mr. Truman said, those magazine publishers "are writing editorials and printing articles complaining about high taxes and government deficits.

Mr. Truman said most of the $500,000,000 a year deficit in the Postoffice Department comes from losses on second and third class rates. These cover the mailing of newspapers and books as well as magazines.

"I am glad to say that a large number of newspaper publishers know this is not right and are entirely willing to pay their own way," he added.

Mr. Truman said there was some justification in subsidizing the mailing of small weekly papers in rural areas.

"But," he continued, "I see no excuse whatever for subsidizing huge publishing concerns which make millions of dollars in profits every year."

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 56 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 69 degrees.

Weather Forecast

siderably cloudiness tonight and Tuesday with chance of some showers Tuesday. Little change in temperature, highest today and Tuesday in mid-70's. Lowest tonight 60-65.

Eastern New York — Partly cloudy today, a little cooler in north portion, highest temperature 65-70 in north and 70-75 in south. Some cloudiness tonight, lowest around 50 in south and 45-50 in north. Tuesday partly cloudy and continued cool.

VERY MUCH ON THE BALL—A string saver for 36 years is Edwin Hoyoss of Minneapolis, Minn., and the fruits of his hobby are all wrapped up in this eight-foot ball, weighing 147 pounds. Because the big one is too much to move around, Hoyoss collects string in small balls upstairs and then transfers it to the big ball in his basement.

W. J. Klem Dies, Veteran Umpire

Miami, Fla., Sept. 17 (AP)—William J. (Bill) Klem, baseball's famous "old arbitrator," is dead.

The veteran umpire, who was 77, died of a heart and kidney ailment in Doctors' Hospital in suburban Coral Gables yesterday. His wife, Marie, his only immediate survivor, was with him when he died.

Klem, who has been in failing health for the past two years, entered the hospital Aug. 11. He knew the end was near and only a week ago told his lawyer, "This is my last game and I'm going to strike out this time."

"Klem was a fine chap and probably the greatest umpire of all time," said Ford Frick, president of the National League.

"The National League has lost a stalwart figure and I am sure that all connected with baseball join me in expressing our grief and our condolence to his widow."

One of the most colorful umpires the game ever saw, Klem often was quoted as saying he never missed one in his life. Later he amended that to say when he called a play he knew in his heart he was right.

Black Bear Shot; Is at Orphanage

A large black bear, shot Saturday night behind Doc Smith's Garage on Clinton avenue, this city, has been turned over to the Sacred Heart Orphanage at West Park, Game Protector Philip Gillen said today.

The bear weighed well over 300 pounds, Gillen and others estimated. Doc Smith's wrecker was used to hoist the bear on to a truck after four men were unable to lift it.

The bear was shot by Kenneth Blanchan, Gillen reported, after it had been seen on the premises several times and had destroyed a number of bee hives.

Commercial sturgeon fishing has died out in North America because over-fishing depleted the supply.

Wilson Predicts Wages to Hold For 'Long Time'

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson predicts that the new wage scales shaping up for American industry "will exist for a long time."

The director of defense mobilization made the statements yesterday, when he delivered two addresses keyed to today's opening of the five-day 74th annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

Wilson, former head of the General Electric Company, addressed the conference of Bar Association presidents and the Junior Bar conference.

At one point, he said: "America is still a pioneer nation and we are going higher and higher and the economy is going to expand."

At another point, he said the value of defense items either completed or in the process in any one month now totals $2,500,000,000. He said that before the Communist invasion of Korea the delivery of the United States military items was at the rate of $500,000,000 a month.

Sees Defenses by 1953

Wilson said the end of the year 1953 will see for the United States a "magnificent" defense structure and a sound, stabilized economy—provided the citizens exercise a proper degree of "restraint and self-discipline."

Wilson said "I hate controls," but declared he sees no other method of solving the problems caused by allocating $50,000,000,000 a year to war production.

"I have asked this question," he said, "and I will ask it again—has our economy, our industry been harmed by controls? And then I look over the balance sheets of the nation's industries, in a few of which I still own a few shares of stock, and I find that they are making more money, sometimes 40 per cent more, than they did in 1950. And 1950 was not a bad year.

"So I ask again, has anyone been hurt and has anyone got another plan for keeping inflation, an enemy possibly even more dangerous than Russia, under control?"

Will Place Ceiling

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—The first order dealing with individual salary increases will place a six per cent ceiling a year on total merit and length of service increases an employer may grant, officials said last night.

The Salary Stabilization Board, set up to put ceilings on salaries of baseball players, executives, foremen and others not under the jurisdiction of the wage board, is expected to issue the order tomorrow.

The officials said the order would soon be followed by another, this one to eliminate inequities in the salaries of some foremen. Since most foremen are exempt from overtime, workers under them are getting higher wages in some cases than the foremen themselves.

VERY MUCH ON THE BALL—A string saver for 36 years is Edwin Hoyoss of Minneapolis, Minn., and the fruits of his hobby are all wrapped up in this eight-foot ball, weighing 147 pounds. Because the big one is too much to move around, Hoyoss collects string in small balls upstairs and then transfers it to the big ball in his basement.

W. J. Klem Dies, Veteran Umpire

Miami, Fla., Sept. 17 (AP)—William J. (Bill) Klem, baseball's famous "old arbitrator," is dead.

The veteran umpire, who was 77, died of a heart and kidney ailment in Doctors' Hospital in suburban Coral Gables yesterday. His wife, Marie, his only immediate survivor, was with him when he died.

Klem, who has been in failing health for the past two years, entered the hospital Aug. 11. He knew the end was near and only a week ago told his lawyer, "This is my last game and I'm going to strike out this time."

"Klem was a fine chap and probably the greatest umpire of all time," said Ford Frick, president of the National League.

"The National League has lost a stalwart figure and I am sure that all connected with baseball join me in expressing our grief and our condolence to his widow."

One of the most colorful umpires the game ever saw, Klem often was quoted as saying he never missed one in his life. Later he amended that to say when he called a play he knew in his heart he was right.

Black Bear Shot; Is at Orphanage

A large black bear, shot Saturday night behind Doc Smith's Garage on Clinton avenue, this city, has been turned over to the Sacred Heart Orphanage at West Park, Game Protector Philip Gillen said today.

The bear weighed well over 300 pounds, Gillen and others estimated. Doc Smith's wrecker was used to hoist the bear on to a truck after four men were unable to lift it.

The bear was shot by Kenneth Blanchan, Gillen reported, after it had been seen on the premises several times and had destroyed a number of bee hives.

Wilson Predicts Wages to Hold For 'Long Time'

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson predicts that the new wage scales shaping up for American industry "will exist for a long time."

He says the wages are a natural outgrowth of an expanding economy, and he describes the nation's productive effort as "good" on the whole.

The director of defense mobilization made the statements yesterday, when he delivered two addresses keyed to today's opening of the five-day 74th annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

Wilson, former head of the General Electric Company, addressed the conference of Bar Association presidents and the Junior Bar conference.

He discussed various aspects of the national defense program.

At one point, he said: "America is still a pioneer nation and we are going higher and higher and the economy is going to expand."

At another point, he said the value of defense items either completed or in the process in any one month now totals $2,500,000,000. He said that before the Communist invasion of Korea the delivery of the United States military items was at the rate of $500,000,000 a month.

Sees Defenses by 1953

Wilson said the end of the year 1953 will see for the United States a "magnificent" defense structure and a sound, stabilized economy—provided the citizens exercise a proper degree of "restraint and self-discipline."

Wilson said "I hate controls," but declared he sees no other method of solving the problems caused by allocating $50,000,000,000 a year to war production.

"I have asked this question," he said, "and I will ask it again—has our economy, our industry been harmed by controls? And then I look over the balance sheets of the nation's industries, in a few of which I still own a few shares of stock, and I find that they are making more money, sometimes 40 per cent more, than they did in 1950. And 1950 was not a bad year.

"So I ask again, has anyone been hurt and has anyone got another plan for keeping inflation, an enemy possibly even more dangerous than Russia, under control?"

Will Place Ceiling

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—The first order dealing with individual salary increases will place a six per cent ceiling a year on total merit and length of service increases an employer may grant, officials said last night.

The Salary Stabilization Board, set up to put ceilings on salaries of baseball players, executives, foremen and others not under the jurisdiction of the wage board, is expected to issue the order tomorrow.

The officials said the order would soon be followed by another, this one to eliminate inequities in the salaries of some foremen. Since most foremen are exempt from overtime, workers under them are getting higher wages in some cases than the foremen themselves.
